String Group Plays Mozart Music Today

A concert of chamber music will be presented today at 4 p. m. in Temple Theater when a group of faculty members and students (formerly known as the "faculty string quartet") offers the type of program one usually hears only in the largest cities.

Presented by the school of fine arts, the group includes faculty members Emanuel Wishnow and Joan Koupal, violin; and Sara Davis, cello. Student members are James Price, viola; and Thomas McManus, violin. Mr. Wishnow directs the University Orchestra and is concertmaster of the Lincoln Symphony in which Mr. Price is first violinist. Mr. McManus is a graduate student in law.

The program is made up of Mozart's "Quartet in C Major," known as "The Dissonant" because its harmonies were daring for Mozart's time, causing a great deal of controversy, and French composer Chausson's "Concerto for Violin, Piano, and String Quartet." Ernest Chausson was one of Cesar Franck's most distinguished pupils.

His musical output, including "Poeme for Violin" and "Symphony in B minor" was comparatively small, but important. According to Mr. Wishnow, "This work is perfectly scored for the particular ensemble and can accurately be estimated as the finest work in this medium." Mr. Wishnow performed the Chausson number on two occasions with the famous Gordon String

Sigmund Romberg, Orchestra To Appear Here in Program

Sigmund Romberg and his 52-piece concert orchestra will appear in person Friday night, May 3, at 8:30 p. m. in the coliseum, on his third concert tour of the United States.

Romberg, famous for his musical compositions, will present a program of light, contemporary music that will include many of his own works. Some of these are "Sweetheart," "Stout-Hearted Men," "The Drinking Song" from the stores. Robert Bevine directed these displays.

A native Hungarian, Romberg began his career in this country in 1909 as piano player at $15 per week in a Hungarian goulash restaurant in New York City. After playing for two or three years in various cafes, he formed his own orchestra.

While playing original music at Bustanoby's restaurant, he was heard by a theatrical producer, who hired him to write the score for "The Whirl of the World."

No other composer has ever equaled Romberg's record 2,000 songs and 80 shows to his credit. Some of his best known shows are "Blossom Time," "The Desert Song," "Girl of the Golden West," "Maytime," "My Maryland," "New Moon," "The Student Prince," and his newest, "Up in Central Park."

He is a member of the American Society of Composers, Authors and Publishers, president of the Song Writers' Protective association, a charter member of the Dramatists' Guild, a Mason, Rotarian, Lamb and Uplifter.

He will be assisted Friday night by Leonne Hall, Nita Ann Carol, Gail Manners, Ester Boria and Gene Marvey.
