

Orchesis Spring Concert Planned

Program Features Take-Off On 'The Daily Newspapers'

Featuring original dances composed by the group, Orchesis dance club will present its 20th annual spring concert this week end with performance on both Friday and Saturday nights at 8:15 in Grant Memorial.

A take-off on a "Daily" newspaper, the program will include dances entitled "Bargain Sale," "Society Column," "Foreign Affairs," "The Fugitive," and "Advice to the Lovelorn." Members of the Pre-Orchesis club, directed by Mrs. Monty Geissinger, will perform "Sidewalk Glances," sketches of people seen on the street.

Twentieth Year.

Celebrating its 20th year on this campus, Orchesis was started in 1919 at the University of Wisconsin. Today, all of the larger colleges and universities have some kind of Orchesis, some of them giving performances that rank high in artistic merit, according to Dr. Aileen Lockhart, faculty director of the Nebraska club.

It is estimated that 75,000 college men and women are now enrolled in modern dance classes in this country.

Prexy.

Sponsored by the women's physical education department and the WAA, Orchesis is headed by Irma Lou Fisher, president, and Billie Steelman, secretary. Because of the interest displayed in modern dance, Pre-Orchesis was organized in 1945 with Mrs. Monty Geissinger as faculty sponsor. Mrs. H. H. Flood is accompanist.

Members.

Sigmund Romberg's Record Of Composition Unsurpassed

By Sue Golden.

Composer Sigmund Romberg, whose record of 2,000 songs and 80 shows is unequalled by any other musician, will bring his 52-piece concert orchestra to the coliseum this Friday night at 8:30.

On this, his third concert tour of the country, Romberg's program, as announced, will be made up entirely of light, contemporary music, including many of his own works. His assistants will be Leonie Hall, Nita Ann Carol, Gail Manners, Ester Borgia and Gene Marvey.

Career.

Probably unequalled, too, is Romberg's record as a joiner. He is a member of the American Society of Composers, Authors and Publishers; president of the Song Writers' Protective association, a charter member of the Dramatists' Guild, a Mason, Rotarian, Lamb and Uplifter.

His career in this country began in 1909, when Romberg played for his meals and $15 a week in one of New York's Hungarian restaurants specializing in goulash. He played for a few years in various cafes, then organized his own orchestra and, while playing one of his original compositions at Bustanoby's restaurant, was heard and liked by a theatrical producer.

Rise to Fame.

Romberg's rise from here on up was a rapid one. He first wrote the score for "The Whirl of the World," proceeded through "Blossom Time," "Maytime," and "New Moon" to his latest production, "Up in Central Park."

Other Romberg shows are "The Desert Song," "Girl of the Golden West," "My Maryland," "The Student Prince." Songs to his credit include "Sweetheart," "Stout-Hearted Men," "The Drinking Song," "One Kiss," and "Lover, Come Back To Me."

Filings Open For Delegates To Confabs

Student Council has voted to open filings for delegates to each of three conferences at which the university has been invited to be represented. Conferences include the regional meet of the National Continuations committee at Sioux Falls, S. D., on May 10 and 11, the ten-day constitutional convention of the NSO to be held during the first two weeks of September, and the International Student Service conference to be held during the summer in Aarhus, Denmark, with study tours of Europe following.

While the council hopes to find funds to defray conference registration fees for delegates, its present budget makes it impossible for the council to pay any expenses of delegates. Any student who is interested and can arrange to pay his own expenses, or enlist the backing of some organization willing to send him, is encouraged to file.

Requests.

The university is one of fifteen U. S. schools asked to send representatives. Student councils of these schools will submit study tour requests for their representatives to the United States branch of ISS, which will select five of these fifteen to attend the conference and designate the study tour in which each of the other ten will participate.

Filing procedure simply entails placing a letter in the Student Council mail box in the Union basement. Candidates should list reasons for desiring to attend, qualifications as to studies and outside interests, the manner in which they expect to secure expense money, and any other general information that will help the council to decide the candidate's qualifications.

Interested students may telephone Eugene Berman at 2-3649, or Sam Warren at 3-4349, if they have further questions.

Psychoanalyst To Talk Friday On 'Behavior'

Ticket Sales.

Tickets, which sell for 50 cents each, are being sold by students in the graduate school and by individuals working in social agencies. Tickets are also available in the graduate school office in Sosh.

In her lecture in Lincoln Dr. Johnson intends to focus on the relationship between the parent and the child. She will use illustrations from cases which she has had within her own experiences. Within the course of her lecture she plans to indicate some of the psychiatric thinking in respect to treatment of children, including the child who comes into conflict with the community—the delinquent.

UN To Hold Experimental Conference

An experimental conference dedicated to the future of public school education in the state will be held on the university campus this weekend, with 75 outstanding high school seniors from 40 Nebraska communities as guests.

"Everywhere we read and hear that education is the solution for today's and tomorrow's problems," Dr. Walter Beggs of teachers college explained. "This weekend we will bring together today's leaders and teachers, and some of the best potential teacher talent in the state to consider the challenge of the teaching profession, and the need for outstanding young people to enter this field as a profession."

An Experiment

"This is an experiment. We have invited only 75 seniors, but they have been selected by local superintendents with great care, on the basis of scholastic ability and dynamic personality as a leader. Each student will be sponsored by a local service organization, such as the Lions, Rotary, Community Club or American Legion."

Representatives of all teacher training institutions in the state have been invited to attend to "see if such a conference would be worthwhile at their institutions next year," according to Dr. Beggs, who along with Dr. William Hall, also of the university, conceived the idea for the conference. They hope the conference will stimulate a statewide campaign to attract many of the best of Nebraska high school seniors to the teaching profession.
