

Masterson's Huskers Get Light Drills

As a chilling fall wind swept across Memorial Stadium's practice confines, Coach Bernie Masterson continued to drill his Huskers on fundamentals in preparation for the 1947 inaugural Saturday with the touted Indiana Hoosiers.

Play reviews occupied the largest portion of Masterson's outlined practice session. With great respect for Bo McMillan's always potent aerial attack, Masterson also put his charges through another period of pass defense work.

No rough work has been on the docket for the Huskers through the week. The injured list is now at an all-time low, but the Nebraska "T" may sputter without the services of little Dick Thompson.

Thompson, Gade Out

Thompson will unlikely see action in the opener because of an injured knee. He has tossed his crutches away but is not working out. Gail Gade is still hobbling along with the air of crutches. He is also suffering from a twisted knee.

With those exceptions, Masterson's 1947 Huskers appear ready for George Taliaferro and company.

Ray DeBolt will announce an official cut in his Nubbins' roster Thursday afternoon. The "B" team mentor will slash his reserve unit almost in half. Over 70 gridders have been toiling with the Blues. The number will be dropped to approximately 40 Thursday.

Wiegand Gets Attention

Little Del Wiegand, receiving overtime attention from the coaching staff, seems slated for a starting quarterback assignment. A bruised arm has held Joe Partington down, but the former pivot man is now tossing the pigskin with accuracy and appears ready for considerable action Saturday.

Dick Hutton and Cletus Fischer are teaming on the number one unit at halfbacks while Dale Adams is still getting the fullback call. The first team line includes: Jack Pesek, Carl Samuelson, ends; Charlie Toogood, Gordon Hall, tackles; Johnny Sedlacek, Captain Gene Wilkins, guards; Tom Novak, center.

The number two unit was comprised of: Partington, quarter; Bill Mueller, Bill Moomey, halfbacks; Darwin Salestrom, full; Ed Nyden, Ralph Damkroger, ends; Gene Sim, Mike DiBiase, tackles; Fred Lorenz, Rex Hoy, guards; Bob Costello, center.

LOU MIHAJLOVICH—The Big Nine's leading pass receiver last year, is one Indiana end who will need plenty of attention by the 'Huskers' deefnsive backfield in next Saturday's game in Memorial Stadium.

Husker-Gopher Contest Sellout

Only 1,000 tickets remain in the stadium for the Indiana opener Saturday, A. J. Lewandowski has announced. The entire stadium is already a sellout for the Minnesota tussle a week hence.

General admission tickets for the Hoosiers' battle will not be placed on sale until the individual stadium ducats are gone.

SCORES.

Delta Tau Delta 26, Cornhusker Co-op 0.

Sigma Nu 18, Brown Palace 6. Sigma Alpha Epsilon 21, Theta Xi 0.

Lillies 14, Ag Men's club 0. Ag YMCA 2, Ricketeres 0. (Forfeit).

One-sided contests marked the second day of intramural football Wednesday afternoon as Delta Tau Delta and Sigma Alpha Epsilon racked up decisive victories.

The Delts found Cornhusker Co-op no trouble at all as they romped to a 26-0 win. Jim Sharp, former Omaha North ace, paced the winner's attack as he threw three touchdown aeriels and ran over for the fourth. R. Keller was on the receiving end of two of the touchdown passes.

Spearheaded by the passing of Dilldine, Sigma Alpha Epsilon breezed by Theta Xi, 21-0. The Dilldine-to-Saladen combination clicked for two tallies.

Another one-man attack developed in the Sigma Nu-Brown Palace contest. Bob Hinde completed two passes for T. D.'s and scored the other one personally as the Sigma Nus downed Brown Palace, 18-6.

Out at the Ag field the Lillies defeated the Ag Men's Club, 14-0. Lowe was the big gun in the winner's attack.

The Ag Y.M.C.A. won by forfeit over the Ricketeers.

Three additional teams have entered in the two Independent loops, Y.M.C.A. and Melting Pot being the new members in League IV and the Ag Y.M.C.A. having joined League V.
