Damkroger, Wiegand Spark Scarlet's Second Half Rally

BY RALPH STEWART.

A gallant two-touchdown rally by an inspired Nebraska eleven failed to halt the Golden Gophers from Minnesota as the Huskers fell before the Norsemen's power Saturday afternoon at Memorial Stadium by a 28-13 count.

Sparked by the brilliant pass catching of second-team end, Ralph Damkroger, the Huskers came back after a dismal first half showing to chalk up two rapid touchdowns before the reserve depth of the Gophers paid dividends in the form of two clinching markers against a tiring Husker crew.

Failing to make a first down through the first half, the Huskers trotted on the field before 34,000 fans for the second half full of inspiration and determination.

Little Del Wiegand began finding his targets midway in the third frame. The 168-pound "T" general hit for three out of four passes during a 45-yard touchdown march. The payoff pitch was to Damkroger for seven yards and the Scarlets first tally of the season.

Bob Costello converted, but the Huskers drew a 15-yard offside penalty and his attempt from 17 yards out went wide.

Trailing 14-6, but pepped by their successful touchdown thrust, the Cornhuskers bounced back when Tackle Gene Sim blocked See HUSKERS, page 3.

Pub Board Authorizes Magazine

A new student magazine, as yet without name or staff, was authorized by the Publications Board at their meeting Saturday morning. The magazine will be published six times a year.

A suggestion by Joan Fankhouser and Skip Stahl was responsible for the action by the Pub board. Dr. W. F. Swindler, director of the school of journalism and head of the board, announced that applications for the positions of editor, business manager, two assistant editors and two assistant business managers will be accepted in University Hall before next Saturday, when the Pub board will again meet.

At the same meeting, the board voted Jerry Johnson a new managing editor of the 1948 Cornhusker. A vacancy was created when Harold Smith, who was elected to the post last spring, failed to return to school this fall. Nadine Anderson and Jane McArthur occupy the other two managing editorships.

Charles Hemmingsen was voted the new society editor of The Daily Nebraskan, replacing Totie Fiddock, who last week was named news editor. Miss Fiddock's appointment to that post was also approved by the board.

The board approved a $500 subsidy to the "Prairie Schooner," $300 to the Union for the purchase of records, and $200 to the Ag Union for the purchase of records.

Members of the board include: Prof. H. E. Bradford, of the vocational education department; Kenneth Forward, assistant professor of English; Dr. J. R. Alden of the History department; Clay Kennedy, Jack Solomon, and Henry Andersen, student representatives; and Dr. Swindler.

HUSKER PASS FAILS—Nebraska end Carl Samuelson (55) turns too late to grab Del Wiegand's pass which bounded away from the burly end's fingertips. The action occurred in the third quarter as the Cornhuskers drove for their first touchdown. End Ralph Damkroger (21) begins a leap for the ball while Minnesota defenders Warren Besen (22), Dick Anonsen (6) and Ev Faunce (number obscured) gather round.

Elect Young As Queen of Ag Formal Wagon Wheels Theme of Ball

Against a backdrop of wide open prairies, Bernice Young, Beatrice, was presented as Queen of the Farmer's Formal Friday night.

Flanked by her attendants Miss Young stepped into the spotlight to be crowned by Robert Scheve, master of ceremonies for the evening. Attendants were: Pat Crownover, Sargent; Marianne Srb, Dwight; Beth Norenberg, Ithaca; Sue Fishwood, Dawson; LaRayne Steyer Wahlstrom, Exeter, and Ruth Peters, West Point.

Miss Young is a senior majoring in Home Economics. Possessing a scholastic average of above 90 for her first three years in school, she is a member of the two top scholastic honoraries in Home Economics, heads the YWCA on Ag campus, member of Mortar Boards, past president of Alpha Lambda Delta, member of Home Ec Club, and Student Faculty council and vice president of Chi Omega.

She was also announced Friday as the recipient of the $300 Borden Home Economics Award for 1947-48 for having the highest scholastic average among home economics seniors at the University of Nebraska.

Following the "Wagon Wheels" theme of the ball, the stage was set in western style. Rail fences surrounded the miniature covered wagon and a realistic campfire glowed in the background. Before the ceremony a men's quartet composed of Neal Baxter, Tom Childers, Don Kellogg and Stanley Lambert sang "Tumbling Tumbleweeds" to add to the atmosphere.

The dance floor was also appropriately decorated with tree branches and a fitting centerpiece of a huge cornshock surrounded by baled hay seats. Couples entered the dance floor through portals of the same bales.

The dance was the most successful in many years as approximately 250 couples in rural garb danced to the music of Morton Wells and his "cowboys for a night."

Federalists Favor Marshall Proposal

At the first business meeting of the school year, the Nebraska chapter of the United World-Federalists went on record Thursday night as favoring the present Marshall proposal for limitation of the veto power in the U.N.

Plans were made for a meeting next week and a membership drive for an Adult chapter on the campus.

Notice to Veterans

Veterans who have not yet filed a proof of their marriage with the Veterans Administration, should do so at once in order to receive the additional subsistence allowed to veterans with dependents. This will apply to veterans who were on single status last school year, but have married since then; and also to married veterans who are making use of their educational benefits under the G. I. Bill of Rights or the Vocational Rehabilitation Act for the first time.

More detailed information and also the government application form may be obtained at the office of the Veterans Administration Board, 101 Mechanic Arts Hall. Veterans who have already filed this form together with a certified copy of Public Record of Marriage need not do so again.

Lincoln City Symphony Opens Sales

Student tickets for the Lincoln Symphony Orchestra's 21st season will be on sale through Thursday at the school of music office. The symphony association's program is the only local concert series offering a special rate to students, announced Mrs. Samuel Waugh, association president.

Rudolph Fellner, Viennese-born pupil of Conductor Felix Weingartner, has been engaged to direct the orchestra. Only season tickets will be sold both to students and general public. No single admissions will be available for any of the six concerts. Purchase of season tickets carries automatic membership in the symphony association. Student rate including taxes is $5, regular price $9.

Opera Recitalists.

Recital guests are baritone Robert Merrill, who will open the season Oct. 21, and the Brazilian soprano Bidu Sayao who has starred at the Metropolitan opera ever since Toscanini introduced her here in 1936. Miss Sayao (pronounced sigh-yow) who will sing Nov. 25, appears regularly in ten leading roles ranging from Mimi in "La Boheme" to Zarlina in "Don Giovanni." Merrill, now a fellow star at the Met, once performed in a summer circuit with two other unknowns, Danny Kaye and Red Skelton!

Performing with the orchestra later in the season are pianist Rudolf Firkusny, Czechoslovakian musician chiefly credited with popularity of his homeland's music through his introduction of little-known compositions of Smetana, Dvorak and Janacek, plays here Febr. 3. Firkusny has only recently returned from touring Europe, where he was a feature attraction at the Prague International Music Festival.

Violinist Visits. Second of the soloists to appear with the orchestra is violinist Joseph Fuchs, for 13 years concertmaster of the Cleveland Symphony Orchestra. Visiting performers with the Cleveland orchestra persuaded Fuchs five years ago that he should enter the concert field himself. Since then, he has soloed with major orchestras of Europe as well as America.

Fellner will conduct the orchestra in two other concerts, one presenting winners of the symphony association's annual auditions.

Nu-Meds Hear Medical Dean

Dean Harold C. Lueth, dean of the College of Medicine, will be the principal speaker at the first meeting of Nu-Meds, 7:30 p. m. Wednesday, Oct. 8, in Room 315, Union.

Dean Lueth, professor of medicine and superintendent of the University hospital in Omaha, will address the group on the topic "Advice to Pre-Medical Students."

Nu-Meds is an organization composed of pre-medical, pre-dental, pre-nursing, and pre-technical students. Any student in one of these categories is invited and urged to attend.

A regular business meeting will be held following Dean Lueth's address. At that time memberships for Nu-Meds will be available.

Gustafson to Speak Sunday

Chancellor Gustafson will be heard on this Sunday's broadcast of "Your University Speaks," university radio program. Swine Research will be the topic of the program, which will be aired from 12:30-12:45 p. m.

Speaking on the program with the chancellor will be Dr. L. E. Hanson, professor in Animal Husbandry, and George Round, director of the University Public Relations department.

All Nebraska stations carry the broadcast, a weekly feature which is presented to help acquaint the public with the university and to inform them of research being carried on here.

Holmes Selected Foundation Officer

Rockney Holmes has been named to the newly-created post of out-of-state chairman, Student Foundation president Lorraine Landeryou announced Thursday.

The current project of Student Foundation is compiling a list of the students' and faculties' names, addresses and phone numbers for the Student-Faculty Directory. The Foundation also sends news to the hometown papers.

A call for workers was issued by Miss Landeryou. Those desiring to help should report at the Foundation office in the library.

AUF Is Out For Blood! Students Asked to Donate

AUF is out for blood! Money donations will not be the only means of raising funds to meet the $13,200 goal of the AUF campus drive for the World Student donate blood, the money from the sale of which will serve as contributions to the drive, Beth Neorenberg, AUF director, announced Friday.

Three of the Lincoln hospitals have consented to put students' names at the top of their professional donor lists, and will take blood donations during the month of October and the first two weeks of November. Because of the time limit students are urged to turn in their names as donors as soon as possible.

Students wishing to donate blood should contact Norm Leger, AUF publicity chairman, in The Daily Nebraskan office any afternoon of this week. The list of names will be submitted to the students may report to have their blood types taken. If such students, such as veterans, already know their blood types, they will not be required to report to student health. The list of students and their blood types will be turned over to the hospitals which will call for the students as the blood donations are needed.

Already five women students have volunteered to donate blood for the drive, including Nancy Porter, Mary Carothers, Norma Long, Molly Myhre and Laverna Acker.
