Fankhauser, Stahl Named Heads of New Publication

Joan Fankhauser and Skip Stahl were elected to the positions of editor and business manager of the new campus magazine, "Cornshucks," by the Publications Board at their meeting Saturday morning, Dr. W. F. Swindler, director of the school of journalism, announced.

The two heads were thus rewarded for their promotion work in getting a magazine back on the campus.

Needs Help at First.

To get the publication on its feet, Miss Fankhauser has issued a call for any student help, talented or not. For this first of six editions, the magazine cannot have too much support from the student body. Stahl said he expected to get at least 1,500 subscribers.

Jeane Millane and Rod Waggoner were elected managing editors and John Slothower and Bud Gerhart were elected assistant business managers.

Miss Fankhauser announced a meeting of all new staff members, plus any other students who are interested in working for the magazine. The meeting will be held in the old Awgwan office at 4 p. m., Tuesday, Oct. 14. She emphasized that at the present the magazine is without a permanent office.

Nebraskan Editors Get Raises.

The Pub Board also approved raises for all staff members of The Daily Nebraskan, except the society editor and the special features editor. All other positions will receive a raise of $10 per month. Thus, the editor will receive $50, the two managing editors $40, and the five news editors and sports editor $30. These raises are retroactive for the first month of school.

The board also approved travel expenses for university delegates to the Associated Collegiate Press convention, Oct. 23.

Mortar Boards May Compete For Fellowship

The $500 Katherine Wills Coleman Fellowship is being offered again this year to all members of Mortar Board graduating in 1948.

The Fellowship, awarded nationally to eight girls over the past six years, will go to one or two applicants to be selected by a committee of deans and a committee of national Mortar Board officers.

Candidates must be unmarried and be able to qualify as candidates for the Master's or Doctor's degree in an accepted graduate school.

Information and application blanks may be obtained from Mrs. Edward M. Williams, Mortar Board Fellowship Chairman, 191 South Franklin Street, Wilkes-Barre, Pennsylvania, before Dec. 1, 1947.

LOIS GILLETT.

Lois Gillett Chosen '47 'Hello Girl'

Lois Gillett, Towne Club representative, was presented as the 1947 "Hello Girl" at the fourth annual "Hello Dance," sponsored by the BABW, Friday night in the Union ballroom to a crowd of nearly eight hundred unaffiliated students.

Miss Gillett, a junior in teachers college, is also Tassel treasurer and secretary of the Coed Counselor board.

Intermission Program.

An intermission program which started about 11 p. m. featured Helen Ochsner accompanied by Sue Fishwood singing "Smoke Gets In Your Eyes" and "They Say It's Love."

Led by Miss Ochsner, the audience sang "Little Sir Echo," theme of the dance, and the "Hello Girl" candidates answered from backstage. As the song was sung the second time, Miss Gillett stepped out from behind the curtain through an archway of red and white crepe paper to be presented with a corsage by Rex Cosler, master of ceremonies.

Elected From 17.

Miss Gillett was one of 17 candidates named by each unaffiliated group to compete for the title. She was elected at a door election at the dance.

The "Hello Dances" were started four years ago when an army air base had its headquarters in Lincoln as a get-acquainted affair and proved to be so popular that they were continued as an annual event.

UN Student Reviews World Affairs on Air

George Caraker, internationally known lecturer on world affairs, senior transfer student from Montana State University, who completed a national lecture tour for the season 1946-47 is now being heard over KOLN Monday through Friday at 6:45 p. m.

Caraker, formerly on the National Broadcasting Company and Associated Broadcasters in the west commenting on the news, was a U. S. news analyst on international short wave beamed from the East across the Atlantic and from the West to Mexico and the Latin American continent. His writings were translated in Oriental languages for short wave transmission to occupied territories in the Pacific.

Caraker, whose lecture comments brought press and radio comments from both sides of the Atlantic, is an American who attended British schools,

Coll-Agri-Fun Date Scheduled In Late October

The sixteenth annual Coll-Agri-Fun will be held Saturday evening, Oct. 25, in the college Activities building on Ag campus. The two hour show will be followed by dancing until midnight.

LaRayne Steyer Wahlstrom, manager of the Coll-Agri-Fun, stated that "The enthusiasm evidenced indicates the program will be tops in Ag college entertainment. It will be a fast moving show and promises to be an entertaining evening for all those who attend."

It is not too late to enter curtain acts by individuals or organizations. Information can be obtained from any member of the Coll-Agri-Fun board. The board is composed of; LaRayne Steyer Wahlstrom, Duane Munter, Jean Ann Roberts, Ruth Swanson, Gale Erlewine, and Philip Keeney.

Skits and curtain acts will be presented to the board Wednesday, Oct. 15, for approval and final dress rehearsal will be held Wednesday, Oct. 22. The times for the various organizations to present their skits and acts for approval on the 15th are as follows:

UNION BOARD.

Filings close today for senior members of the Student Union board. Applications for the two senior vacancies may be filed in the Union office until 5 p. m., today. From the applicants, recommendations will be made by the Union Activities committee to the student council, who will elect the new members.

The Scarlet offensive machinery bogged down completely against the stubborn Cyclones and it was not until the final three minutes of play that the UN eleven could manage to compile a first down.

It was hard to believe that the Huskers won the game. After last Saturday's unspirited exhibition in the first half, Nebraska followers were unable to imagine the Huskers in a more pitiful state but the Scarlet gridders reached a new low in helplessness in front of 12,500 fans who attended the parents' day in Ames.

Capitalize On Breaks.

A wild pass from center and a blocked punt provided the Huskers with their two scoring opportunities after the Cyclones had taken a 7 to 0 lead at the end of the first half.

The first break for Nebraska occurred late in the third quarter when Ron Norman went into deep punt formation on the fourth down for Coach Abe Stuber's scrappy Iowans.

Norman reached unsuccessfully for the ball as it sailed well over his head and bounded toward the Cyclone goal. Jack Pesek and Carl Samuelson smeared Norman on the IS five yard line where the Huskers took over.

Dick Hutton provided the first Nebraska touchdown when he skirted left end to enter the end zone standing up from the three yard line.

A similar lucky break gave Coach Bernie Masterson's pupils their margin of victory.

Damkroger Blocks Punt.

Rugged Ralph Damkroger blasted through the Iowa State defenders to smother a Norman punt. The ball was on the 23 at the time of the play and when the flurry of activity ended, Guard Fred Lorenz was curled around the pigskin on the Cyclone three yard line.

Quarterback Del Wiegand took no chances on a fumble but carried the ball himself to plow into

Noted Agriculturalist to Visit Campus This Week

... Convo Speaker

Dr. Dillman S. Bullock, the first agricultural missionary ever sent out by any Board of Missions, will speak at an all-university convocation Tuesday, Oct. 14 at 4 o'clock in the Union ballroom.

Dr. Bullock, now missionary-director of the noted El Vergel Agricultural School and Farm of the Methodist Church in Angol, Chile, South America, is making a special tour among nine of our leading agricultural colleges. He will speak on his experiences as a teacher and investigator of agricultural methods in the southern continent.

Here Oct. 12-14.

Dr. Bullock will be on campus three days, Oct. 12-14, during which time he will address seven different groups.

His schedule includes the Agricultural Youth Fellowship of the Evangelical and United Brethren church at 5:30 p. m. Sunday afternoon and the Adult Education group of the same church, 8 p. m. Sunday night.

On Monday Dr. Bullock will speak to the noon-hour YMCA group, YWCA commission group at 4 p. m., and students of Nebraska Wesleyan university that evening.

Speaks at Tuesday Convocation. He will conclude his speaking engagements by addressing the Tuesday Convocation and a joint meeting at the YMCA and YWCA Agricultural groups at 7:30 p. m.

His purpose in coming is to meet students of agriculture and home economics who would be interested in mission service in their respective fields. Post-war conditions in the Far East, famine in India and now more recently developments with South America have created an urgent demand for a limited number of young people qualified to assist under-privileged people in finding solutions to some of the every day problems of improved agriculture and home life.

In South America Since 1902. Dr. Bullock's South American experiences began in 1902 when he went from the United States to Chile to take care of a 600-acre farm and industrial school.

After ten years in Chile, Dr. Bullock returned to the United States and was principal of the County School of Agriculture in Marinette county, Wisc., and extension specialist in dairy cattle for the University of Wisconsin and the Wisconsin Livestock Breeders' association.

In this latter position he inaugurated a "pure bull campaign" which became the basis of the U. S. Department of Agriculture's nationwide "Better Sires, Better Stock" campaign. Still later he was agricultural commissioner of the U. S. Department of Agriculture to South America with headquarters in Buenos Aires. He also traveled widely through Argentina, Uruguay, Peru and Chile. From this post he entered the service of the Methodist church director of the El Vergel Farm and School.

This is the largest agricultural missionary school in South America. Besides training young men in rural farming and industries, it has carried on, under Dr. Bullock, a varied experimentation in introducing new crops, seeds, and especially fruits into Chile. It See CONVO, Page 2.

Council Requests Group Constitution

All student organizations, excluding social fraternities and sororities, must submit their constitutions to the Student Council for necessary revisions and approval before Nov. 1, according to an announcement by Bob Wenke, chairman of the constitutions committee.

Any organization that does not have its constitution submitted by that time for approval risks the loss of its recognition as an approved student organization.

Constitutions will not be considered unless they are typed and submitted in triplicate. All constitutions should be mailed to Constitutions Committee, Student Council, University of Nebraska.
