Disc-cussion

By Jean Leadly
And Jean Millane

Usually when people think of jazz they have visions of a "hot" trumpet or a mellow saxophone, therefore slighting the good jazz vocalists who are few and far between. The vocalists, in question, definitely carry top honors in jazz because of their original personalities that put over a song. To show you what we mean we have done some research this week on a few from the old school.

Julia Lee, sultry singer who does an all-night stand in some Kansas City hole-in-the-wall, has recently taken time out to make a recording with top musicians, including Red Callender, Bobby Sherwood and Red Norvo. "I Was Wrong" and "Snatch and Grab It," the platter just referred to, is soon to be at your local music stores.

And speaking of Julia Lee, she's one gal we think might go places in a big way—if she could ever be lured away from her little Kansas City bistro. Any of you who have heard some of her earlier stuff—"Ya Gotta Gimme Whatcha Got," "Kansas City Mamma," etc.—will probably agree. But, sorry to say, the Kansas City Mamma seems to be perfectly happy at home.
