

Countryman First Issue Out Today

The first issue of Cornhusker Countryman, official magazine publication of Ag Campus, is available today at several distribution points around the campus. Marianne Srb, editor of the magazine made the announcement late Tuesday.

This issue is the first of eight to be published by the all-student edition this year. Cornhusker Countryman was revived on campus the second semester of last year after a five year silence invoked by the war.

To Inform Freshmen.

The theme of the first issue is freshman indoctrination. Articles have been written about the various campus organizations, activities, and several campus traditions, such as Farmer's Formal, Goddess of Agriculture and Farmer's Fair.

Two feature stories are included in the first issue. Foods and Nutrition building, latest addition to the campus is the subject of an interesting article. This structure served as a barracks for ASTP students for several years after it was dedicated. Supplementing this feature is a story on this year's version of the Farmer's Formal, complete with pictures of the queen and her attendants.

Student Support.

"Cornhusker Countryman is dependent upon students for its publication and support," remarked Miss Srb. "We hope that this year will be no exception and that Ag campus will support their magazine with their time and subscriptions."

Students who have subscribed to the magazine may pick up their copies in the Ag Union office or in the booth to be set up in Ag Hall, according to Bob Voight, circulation manager. Those who have not as yet subscribed may do so at either place. The price is $1.50 for the eight issues.

Cornshucks, the new humor magazine, is now on sale! Yearly subscriptions can be bought for only $1 from Tassels and Corncocks during the week beginning Wednesday, Oct. 22, and ending Wednesday, Oct. 29.

Candidates will be selected by sororities and all other organized houses. They should contact Skip Stahl, business manager of Cornshucks.

This contest is only one of the unusual features which will appear in the six issues of Cornshucks this year, Editor Jo Frankhauser announced.

Blackman Elected To ASEE Position

Prof. J. S. Blackman, of the college of engineering and architecture, was elected vice president of the Kansas-Nebraska section of the American Society for Engineering Education at its meeting Saturday in Manhattan, Kans.

Two other faculty members, who won first and second place in the Dean Prize Competition were E. B. Meier and Milton R. Adler. Meier's paper on problems of teaching engineering drawing students won first place, and Adler's discussion of revisions in the course of study for civil engineering students was awarded second place.

Bare Settings Highlight UN Joan of Lorraine Production

"Seeing 'Joan of Lorraine' is like watching a New York stage rehearsal," Walt Davis, light manager for the University Theatre's forthcoming production, said in a backstage interview Tuesday.

"The properties used include just the bare necessities. The curtain is pulled only three times—at the beginning, end of the play."

Play a Rehearsal.

The explanation of the unconventional setting is simply that the story of the play is centered around a New York rehearsal of a play dealing with the life of Joan of Lorraine. The play that the audience sees is made up of rehearsals of the play-within-a-play and controversial discussions regarding the philosophy that Joan of Lorraine might have had.

One of the most important aspects to the staging of "Joan..." is the lighting. Since there is a bare minimum of settings and properties the centering of audience interest must be done by spot-lighting certain areas while dimming out others.

Stage Darkened.

Probably one of the most effective scenes is the one of Joan in the prison. On a completely darkened stage, Joan is made visible by only a light streaming through the prison bars upon her.

A brighter light would reveal that in actuality "Joan" is Mrs. Norman Shaw, a new player upon the University Theatre stage, bringing a great deal of talent with her from her former home, London, England.

Acted in London.

Before going into the Ministry of War to serve England during the war years, Mrs. Shaw did dramatic work in London, participating in such plays as Goldsmith's "She Stoops to Conquer" and Shakespeare's "As You Like It" which were presented in the

Co-ops to Send Representatives To Convention

Delegations from Pioneer and Brown Palace co-operatives headed by Tony St. John and Earl Dyer, will attend the conference of their regional organization, the Central League of Campus Co-ops, at Kansas University this weekend.

The chief business on the agenda of this year's conference will be to adopt and put into operation a revolving fund for building co-op houses. This measure was proposed at the last conference, held in Lincoln.

Lloyd Glover of Pioneer Co-op, now president of the Central League, has made several trips to Kansas City to help in the establishment of this loan fund, designed to make funds available to campus co-ops in the central states who wish to buy or build houses.

Other schools which will be represented at the conference are Kansas, Missouri, Arkansas, Colorado and Baker Universities, and the National College for Christian Workers.

Toynbee theatre in London. These productions were attended by outstanding English theatre celebrities who offered the student actors criticism.

Mrs. Shaw will appear before an American audience for the first time in "Joan of Lorraine."

Johannes as "Masters."

Playing the part of Masters, the director of the play, is Don Johannes, teachers college junior. Johannes has been seen on Lincoln's Circler Theatre stage almost as much as at the University Theatre. "Cherry Orchard," "My Sister Eileen," "Girl from the Golden West," "Macbeth," "Thunder Rock," and "Silver Cord" all have given Johannes opportunities to display his histrionic talents. In the Circler Theatre he has been seen in "Murder Without Crime," "Springtime for Henry," "The Male Animal," and "Outward Bound."

In a statement to The Daily Nebraskan, Johannes said that "Joan of Lorraine" is important today because it deals with such problems as individual faith and compromises with evil or dishonest forces."

AUF to Attempt Rest Center Aid

Greek Sanitarium to Receive Funds If Campus Contributions Hit $5,400

If as much as $5,400 is raised of the All University Fund's goal off $13,200 for the fall drive, $2,700 of the amount will go directly to support Moni Pendeli, a year round rest center for Greek women students. Beth Noerenberg, AUF director, explained how the World Student Service Fund (WSSF) arranges special projects whereby schools which are raising funds for the WSSF may, if they choose have a portion of their funds sent directly to foreign student relief centers or spent for material goods which are shipped to various points where needed.

Crib Fire Causes Little Destruction

A quick thinking Crib waiter prevented serious destruction in the Crib Tuesday afternoon.

About 1:30 p. m. Warren Zittelow observed that a drape on the east wall had caught fire. Zittelow tore the drape from the window and threw it to the floor where it was doused with water.

Only the drape and one venetian blind were effected by the fire which started from a coffee burner.

Firemen arrived at the Union too late to help put out the fire. As the firemen were leaving, the Union's fire alarm sounded, five minutes after the blaze had been extinguished.

ROTC Band To Play at UN-Missouri Game

The university's 120 piece ROTC band will go to Columbia for the Nebraska-Missouri football game, director Don Lentz has announced.

Intricate designs and formations will be presented on the field by the band, considered to be one of the top marching bands in the country. For the first time at any Nebraska football game, the band will play the new song, "Huskerland," written by Harry R. Miner, ex UN quarterback.

"Huskerland" won first place in the 1939 pep song contest but it was not published until recently.

Also featured in the drill will be a novelty episode marched to the tune of "Hold That Tiger" and a rhythmic precision drill climaxed by a concert arrangement of "Steel Men." Irving Berlin's "Say It With Music" will be a featured number.

The special train will leave for Missouri at 10 p. m., Friday. Upon reaching Columbia, the band will lead a parade of Nebraska rooters at 9 a. m. Saturday.

Words to Miner's "Huskerland" are:

Prairie schooners drawn by oxen trekked o'er Indian trails
Stalwart men of old Nebraska battled many a foe.

Tilled this land of golden-rod and gave us corn and grain.
Huskers, sons of pioneers, it's time to plow again.

Fight! Fight! Fight! for Huskerland Nebraska! N. U.

Fight! Fight! Fight! team make that stand
Bring Huskerland right through.

Hold that charging foe with a westward-Ho!

Ruff 'em, Crush 'em, Husk around,
Cornhuskers Go!

Fight! Fight! Fight! for Huskerland—Nebraska! Yea Fight!

Interlude:
U-U-UNI-Var-Var-Varsity
Hail Cornhuskers o'er the land,
Plymouth Rock to the Golden Gate,
Great Lakes to the Rio Grande.

Eligibility Status For Honorary Colonel Revised

Eligibility requirements for filing as Honorary Colonel of the R.O.T.C. military ball have been changed, Cadet Town Brownlee announced Tuesday.

Senior girls are eligible who have a weighted average of 80 or above for both semesters of last school year, or who have a like average for the second semester alone. Filings will be taken in the Union office daily from 9 a. m. to 4:30 p. m. and will close Saturday, Oct. 25.

A school-wide election, to be conducted by the student council, will select six finalists from the field of applicants. Election day is Tuesday, Oct. 28, from 8 a. m. to 6 p. m.

The All University Fund (AUF) planning committee chose Moni Pendeli as the project for the University.

A World Student Relief newsletter recently described how the relief center is run as a preventorium for students threatened by tuberculosis. Four hundred and twenty students annually stay at Moni Pendeli to attempt to regain their health.

In reporting last year's activities the letter stated, "Every possible effort was made for the supplementary feeding of weak students who were in urgent need of better nourishment due to the insufficient feeding and hardships they suffered during the occupation. It is necessary to mention that 24% of the students had suffered from pleurisy, 50% from adenoids, 40% from erythema, and the nervous system of almost every student was not in a good state."

Yesterday Miss Noerenberg received a letter from a World Student Relief delegate to Greece, Robert J. Fairgraves, who tells of Moni Pendeli as a "mountain about a half hour drive from Athens. Athenians love it in the summer because no matter how hot Athens may be there is always a breeze sweeping in from the sea."

Regarding the student life, he said, "The daily program is very simple. Breakfast, flag raising, then rest. Lunch, rest, tea and perhaps a short walk or other light exercise, supper always followed by singing and conversation around the tables, and then taps... life is very simple, but very healthy, and by the end of the month the girls have not only gained some strength but have made good and lasting friendships."

Pendeli is the only preventorium in Greece for university students. Statistics show that girls spending one month at Pendeli gain on the average of from 2 to 12 pounds.
