

Take It Easy . . .

The recent automobile accident and resulting tragedy involving several young men and young women of university age in Omaha has focused the attention of state authorities on a problem that is increasing in its serious nature as the school progresses.

While the youths killed or injured in Omaha had no immediate connection with the University of Nebraska, The Daily Nebraskan feels that the tragedy involving them should serve as a warning to every student on this campus.

If there has been one platitude on careful driving and all its related subjects there have been millions and all the repetition of these old saws won't do a bit of good. In fact, if a phrase such as, "alcohol and gasoline don't mix," was inserted here, the possibilities of each reader finishing this editorial would be nil.

Therefore, we're avoiding such phrases and instead, we're saying, "Don't Be Damn Fools."

Don't be damn fools about speeding and reckless driving, but even more important, don't be damn fools about mixing your schnapps with a high-powered car.

Within the next few weeks, fraternity and sorority members will be taking off on 'sneak nights', both affiliated and unaffiliated students will be traveling to Missouri for the migration, and practically every university student will be on the highways going to various parties. The situation is ripe for a repeat of the Omaha tragedy, with the added catch that the university will be exposed to every kind of bad publicity.

It is not too difficult to imagine what will result from such an accident if the university students involved are found to be drunk. The state's newspapers will have a field day, temperance organizations will sniff down their collective noses and the university administration will have no choice but to make examples of the accident victims.

The whole situation is more or less cut and dried. We, as members of the university are on the spot. With authorities all over the state reacting to increased pressure, laws are being tightened up. Any benefit of the doubt that may have been present in the past in such situations is rapidly disappearing. The squeeze is on.

So take heed, children. If you haven't been flying right before this, and you think we're talking about you, pay attention.

Take it easy. And don't be damn fools. J. H.

Lee Harris Edits Foundation Paper

At the Student Foundation Board meeting Tuesday night, Lorraine Landeryou, president, announced the appointment of Lee Harris as the new editor of the Student Foundation Bulletin. The vacancy was caused by the resignation of Jack Hill, who has been editor for the past year.

Harris has worked on the Student Foundation for a semester and helped in the publication of last year's Bulletin.

The Student Foundation Bulletin is sent to all Nebraska high schools each year. A new plan of sending a special edition of the Daily Nebraskan bi-monthly is now under consideration.

Letterip

Student support of the university football squad has aroused much comment lately. Until now, this writer has observed this "teapot tempest" with some humor and a great deal of indifference. However, a recent letter to the Daily Nebraskan seems so unfair, at least in part, that I cannot restrain myself longer.

Although I feel that the Daily is open to criticism on many points, I cannot agree with Robert L. Ferguson when he says (Letterip, October 17), "The players have to have a pat on the back and a kind word if you expect them to play really good football. They certainly are not going to do it in the face of such uncalled for criticism as your article discloses." Mr. Ferguson was referring to the Daily comment which followed the Iowa State game.

The Daily Nebraskan was certainly within its rights in reporting the game when it said, "It was hard to believe that the Huskers won the game." Others who viewed the game seemed in agreement that Iowa State had outplayed the Huskers during most of the contest, and, but for a few momentary lapses, might well have won. In fact, in the light of some other newspaper comment, the Daily's observations seemed entirely justified and perhaps a little restrained.

Regardless of the merits of this particular article, it is clear that something much more fundamental and important is at stake. The question which Mr. Ferguson raises in his letter is this: Does the Daily have the right to report student activities and student efforts as it sees them? I sincerely believe that it does. A campus newspaper which must follow a policy of proclaiming, "We lost but we wuz robbed," has no place on this nor any other campus.

Mr. Ferguson is certainly right when he advocates "the attitude of real sportsmanship of 'Win or lose' it is our team, and we are for it." Support the team in every honest way, yes! But whitewash it for the sake of preventing a few hurt feelings, No! Very truly yours, Clarence W. Kaufman

FORTY-SIXTH YEAR

Subscription rates are $1.50 per semester, $2.90 per semester mailed, or $3.00 for the college year, $3.00 mailed. Single copy 5c. Published daily during the school year except Mondays and Saturdays, vacations and examination periods, by the University of Nebraska under the supervision of the Publication Board. Entered as Second Class Matter at the Post Office in Lincoln, Nebraska, under Act of Congress, March 3, 1879, and at special rate of postage provided for in section 1103, Act of October 3, 1917, authorized September 30, 1923.

The Daily Nebraskan is published by the students of the University of Nebraska as an expression of student news and opinions only. According to article II of the By Laws governing student publications and administered by the Board of Publications: "It is the declared policy of the Board that publications under its jurisdiction shall be free from editorial censorship on the part of the Board, or on the part of any member of the faculty of the university; but members of the staff of The Daily Nebraskan are personally responsible for what they say or do or cause to be printed."

morning to meet the football team, I advised you that I could not give permission for such dismissal. You suggested that possibly I could let it be known thru the columns of the Daily Nebraskan that altho classes would not officially be dismissed, students who met the team would not be charged with absences. Whereupon I told you that I was not necessarily the final authority in the matter.

Never, however, during our telephone conversation was the idea of "passing the buck" on such class dismissal to the departments discussed, as the news story in the Friday Nebraskan implies. Where you got such an idea I cannot say, but you certainly did not get it from me.

My interest in good, wholesome, amateur athletics is an open book. But I do not believe any person who has a real appreciation of educational values can, with good conscience, approve the dismissal of three to four thousand students from classes to meet a football team, however, valiant its showing against a superior team may have been. And I am really very proud of the showing our boys made against Notre Dame.

Sincerely,
T. J. Thompson, Dean.
