

'LEW' . . .

Cobs and Tassels last year, which ran as follows: Coliseum rent, $454.50; public address system, $25; police, $20; guards, $12; ticket sellers, $10; ticket takers, $12; job system, $25; total bill, $558.50.

Inspection of the books of the coliseum fund showed that on several occasions last year, Lewandowski charged the minimum $50 fee. Two of them were the Junior-Senior prom, and the Kosmet Klub fall revue. Total charges for the Junior-Senior prom were only $84.78.

In another interview with Comptroller John K. Selleck, the story behind the rental charges was brought out.

"The 10 percent clause, interestingly enough, was put into the books at student insistence when the coliseum was built in the winter of 1925-26. Those were the days of $300 and $400 parties, and 10 percent of those receipts was less than the $50 sum. Now when you have 2,000 and 4,000 dances, the 10 percent charge is greater than the $50 fee. This arrangement was made by the students themselves, at a time when the 10 percent arrangement was to their advantage."

Minimum Fee

Selleck also pointed out that the item "putting up bleachers" and "taking down bleachers" which occurs frequently on the itemized bills of many campus organizations, is caused by the fact that many of the parties are held in the winter months, basketball season. Bleachers must be up, Selleck said, everytime the basketball team plays, and the cost of setting up and taking down is high.

Selleck went on to say that this year Lewandowski would put a ceiling on student rental of $350, even if the 10 percent figure is above that.

In line with the new ceiling on rental, Lewandowski early this year refunded rental money in excess of $350 charged last year to the Corn Cobs and Tassels. Rental charges assessed the Student Union for use of the Coliseum last Friday for the Jazz at the Philharmonic contest, Lewandowski pointed out, were only $72, plus cost for setting up and taking down chairs, and the job system. Gross receipts at the Jazz concert were about $700, Union Director Duane Lake reported.

Operation of concessions is under control of the Coliseum Fund. Concessions include checkstand, soft drinks, popcorn, candy, apples, ice cream and programs. The concessions are manned by student workers.

Money derived from Coliseum rental, job system and the concessions is administered by Lewandowski, but is handled and accounts are recorded in the ledgers by workers in the student activities office under the direction of Dean W. C. Harper. The Coliseum Fund account, Lewandowski emphasized, is open to general inspection and is subject to audit by the Board of Regents and the State Auditor.

Switcheroo.

Herb Frandsen had his pin returned at the same time Tom Grizwold passed his out to a Pi Phi, Jeanne Ann Mc G returned Frandsen's pin and Pat Cheek was the recipient of Grizwold's pin. Quota system, maybe?

The Kappa Sigs threw quite a party Friday night before the game, or that is what Bob Diers says. We doubt that he remembers much about it, however.

We cannot mention names as they were too numerous; however, we would like to know just how many students managed to stagger in from Kansas City in time for the first quarter; anything to this, Walt (Simon, that is)?

The Phi Gams threw quite a party, disguised as a formal. This affair turned into quite a gathering.
In conclusion, the only thing we wish to report, "They've gone about as far as they can go in Kansas City."
