No Classes Saturday

Classes will be dismissed Saturday morning from 8 a. m. to 12 m. Dean of Student Affairs T. J. Thompson announced Tuesday. This announcement came in answer to a student council petition asking class dismissal so that students could participate in the Homecoming parade.

Plans to stage the annual Homecoming parade Tuesday, coming parade Saturday morning according to Jack Hill, innocent in charge of publicity.

Floater, automobiles and marchers who make up the parade will meet in front of Burnett Hall on Saturday morning at 10:20, Hill said. The parade will get underway at 10:30 and proceed across the campus and down town, then wind back again to the campus.

Winners in last year's colorful parade were Sigma Phi Epsilon and Pi Beta Phi. The Sig Ep entry was built around the phrase, "No Limit to the Big Six" and de-

Parade Route.

Tentative parade route, yet to be approved by the Lincoln city council, is this: Cavalcade starts at Burnett Hall and proceeds to 14th and R sts., then turns left to 15th, right to O st., right on O st. to 11th st., right on 11th st. to R st., right on R st., o 14th, and disbands along 14th st. and the coliseum.

Parade judges will be Col. C. W. Frankforter, Corn Cob advisor, Miss Frances McPherson, Tassels advisor, and Union Director Duane Lake.

Senior Recital Will Feature Three Soloists

Jean Pierson, soprano, Alice Saunders, violinist, and Jack Snider, French horn, will be presented in senior recital today at 4:00 in the Temple Theater.

Miss Pierson, a member of Sigma Alpha Iota, music sorority, will open the program. Three of her numbers, by the composers Franz, Jensen and Wolf, will be sung in German. Following these will be Rubenstein's well-known "Thou Art Lovely As a Flower," and "Pierrot" by Watts. Harold Bauer will accompany.

Accompanied by Dorothy Taylor, Miss Saunders has chosen to open her program with the Air from the "Concerto in A Minor," Op. 28, by Goldmark. She will also play "Piece en Forme de Habanera" by Ravel and conclude with two Debussy numbers. Miss Saunders is affiliated with Delta Omicron.

Snider's first selection will be the Rondo Movement of Mozart's "Concerto No. 4." His next number, "Melodie," is his own composition, which was presented last spring on the Advanced Harmony's program of original compositions. Snider, president of Phi Mu Alpha of Sinfonia, will be accompanied by Garreth McDonald.

The complete program includes:

- Aus Meinen Grossen Schmerzen, Franz.
- Lehn Deine Wang An Meine Wang, Jensen.
- Lebe Wohl, Wolf.
- Thou'rt Lovely As a Flower, Rubenstein.
- Pierrot, Watts.
- Miss Pierson, Mr. Bauer.
- Concerto in A minor—Op 28, Goldmark.
- Air: Piece en Forme de Habanera, Ravel.
- La fille aux cheveux de lin, Debussy.
- La plus que lente, Debussy.
- Miss Saunders, Miss Taylor.
- Concerto No. 4, Mozart.
- Rondo: Melodie, Snider.
- Sonata, Hindemith.
- First Movement: Mr. Snider, Mr. McDonald.

Olsen, Queen Will Highlight Homecoming

Capping the long line of Homecoming festivities this week end, George Olsen's "Music of Tomorrow" will be featured at the annual Homecoming Dance next Saturday at the Coliseum.

As an important interlude in the evening, the 1947-48 Pep Queen, successor to Phyl Harris, will be presented at the intermission. Candidates will be announced and the election will take place immediately after the rally Friday evening. Polls will be conducted by the Mortar Boards and Innocents.

Olsen's music, never described as "hot stuff," is the result of hours of tedious practicing by him and his band. Olsen makes no bones about his distaste for hot jazz. His band is noted for its smooth music and its original novelties.

Famous Showman.

The band leader's showmanship is one of his trump cards. Olsen is not content to furnish dancing music but also keeps the evening lively with a presentation of novelties and vocals.

After leaving the University of Michigan, Olsen started out on his own with his orchestra, and came to the attention of Florenz Ziegfeld in southern California. Later he made his name nationally known with his work in many popular Broadway musicals.

Tickets to the dance are on sale from Corn Cobs and Tassels, and in booths in the Union and Social Sciences Hall. They sell for $3 per couple.

AUF Receipts Top $500 First Day

Approximately $520 was recorded as the first day's total in the 1947 AUF drive, according to an announcement by Peggy Lawrie, treasurer, late Tuesday.

Topping the list of contributions was Alpha Chi Omega's 100 percent subscription of $126.00. Other contributions include: International House, $20; YWCA, $25; Faculty, $30; Booth collections, $60; with personal donations making up the remainder of the total.

Miss Lawrie also announced that Amakita, women's organization on Ag campus, pledged 100 percent contribution to the AUF at their meeting Monday, Nov. 3. Also members of Love and Raymond Hall have stated that they will each give $2 to the drive, thus putting them on the 100 percent list.

Coed Counselors To Sponsor Dinner

The annual friendship dinner sponsored by the Coed Counselor board for all coed counselors and their little sisters will be held Wednesday, Nov. 5, at 6 p. m. in the Union ballroom, according to Jackie Wightman, publicity chairman.

The dinner, which will be a semi-formal affair, will feature a style show with one girl from each organized house participating.

The number of tickets is limited to 500, and they may be purchased from members of the board as long as the supply lasts.

Panhellenic to Hold Annual Workshop

The Panhellenic Workshop will be held Sunday, Nov. 16, through Thursday, Nov. 20, according to an announcement from the Panhellenic office.

Miss Amy Burnham Orkin, National President of Pi Beta Phi and president of National Panhellenic, will be guest speaker at the Panhellenic Banquet Wednesday, Nov. 16. All sorority women are urged to attend.

History Department Deplores Schuschnigg Appearance Here

(Ed Note: Because of the timeliness and importance of its nature, and because of the responsible positions of its writers, this letter to the editor is being printed on the front page of The Daily Nebraskan instead of the regular letter column.)

To the Editor of The Daily Nebraskan:

The convocation Committee of the University of Nebraska has announced that it will bring to the campus on November 7th the former Chancellor of Austria, Kurt von Schuschnigg.

To the undersigned members of the Department of History this announcement is the cause of no little concern. They ask, therefore, the privilege of your columns to make the following statement to the student body, many of whom as G.I.'s were asked to be ready to give their lives to defeat fascism in Germany, Austria and elsewhere.

Ex-Chancellor Schuschnigg was the head of a state which after 1933, under the guidance of Mussolini, abandoned the principles of democracy for the principles of fascism. This was an abandonment with which he had much to do before he became chancellor, and which he maintained firmly and with conviction as Chancellor until Hitler put him and his country out of the way in 1938. It is well known that Schuschnigg had no sympathy with the democratic republic of Austria that was born in 1918.

A Pan German.

He preferred at all times the Hapsburgs and was essentially a Pan-German in his sympathies. He became Minister of Justice in the second Buresch cabinet in 1932 and retained this portfolio until 1936. He is thus responsible for those measures taken in this Ministry to prepare for the establishment of the Austro-Fascist state by his predecessor Dollfuss.

In May, 1933, he became, in addition Minister of Education under Dollfuss. He thus held two ministries in a government which in February, 1934, deliberately provoked a counter-revolution against the democratic forces in Austria, composed chiefly of Social Democrats, a counter-revolution which culminated in the notorious machine gunning and artillery bombardment of the workers' apartment houses in Vienna with resulting casualties, according to Social Democratic estimates, of from 6,500 to 7,000.

It was in Schuschnigg's ministry that, after these bloody events, further steps were taken to hang, imprison and put away into concentration camp at Wollersdorf those who resisted the new order. It was also in this ministry that a new fascist constitution was drawn up for Austria on the pattern of Mussolini's corporative state, a constitution of which Schuschnigg himself has said that "it deliberately turns its back on formal democratic principles, and on universal, equal and direct suffrage. It lays weight on independent and strong leadership." Thus Austria sets up with Schuschnigg's help, and maintained under his leadership as Chancellor, a one-party, police state which forced the opposition underground, destroyed democratic liberties, and used the concentration camp.

Extinction of State.

To those who suffered under this regime Schuschnigg seemed little better than Hitler. By his refusal to moderate the regime he alienated those who would have been a bulwark against the Nazis. It was, however, his opinion that it was "impossible that parliamentary government should be restored to Austria." He provided further for the extinction of his state when in 1938 he consented to a deal with Hitler which obliged him, among other things, to take into his cabinet three well known fascists and thinly disguised Nazis: Guido Schmidt, Gleise von Horstenau and Dr. Seyss-Inquart. The two former set about immediately to prepare for the Anschluss. Seyss-Inquart was subsequently disposed of as a war criminal at Nuremberg.

When the American army went into Austria its military government officials were instructed by directives of the War and State Department that in reconstructing a democratic Austrian state they must not use or rely upon those who were associated in any important way with the Austro-Fascist Dollfuss-Schuschnigg regime. Schuschnigg would, therefore, at that time have been a persona non grata to us. It is worthy of note that he is not in Austria at the moment.

To the undersigned the issue is not one of free speech but simply, since the number of convocation speakers is limited, of who is to be asked to speak to us. We believe, that if nothing else, the lives of those men and women who were sacrificed in the last war have put an end to the debate between fascism and democracy.

We realize that Schuschnigg has paid some price for his adherence to his kind of patriotism, but we doubt if this price is sufficient to enable him to speak with authority to a democratic audience

KU Dies At 7:15

Cornhuskers will rally on the Union steps Wednesday night to hang a colossal effigy of the Kansas Jayhawker, symbolic of KU's fate at the Homecoming game this weekend.

Corn Cobs and Tassels are hard at work constructing a Jayhawker of wood and gunnysacks. When completed, he will stand about ten feet high in his taloned feet.

Hanging-The-Jayhawk rally plans include assembling of students on the steps in front of the Union Wednesday at 7:15 p. m. The cheerleading squad, headed by Yell King Martin Pesek, the Corn Cobs and Tassels will pace the ralliers.

Hanging

Main feature of the rally will be the hoisting of the giant Jay straight up in the air alongside the Union building. There he will hang by the neck until dead, which should be about Homecoming Rally time Friday evening, according to estimates by Tassel president, Harriet Quinn.

Miss Quinn told The Daily Nebraskan that Wednesday night's rally would be "spectacular." It will be the first of a number of Homecoming activities this week, she added.

Mystery

Whatever mystery shrouds BHRH now will be cleared up at the Homecoming Rally Friday night, according to Miss Quinn.

Friday night's pre-game rally will start at 7:15 p. m. when students assemble in front of the Union. From there they will march down 16th St. and Vine St. to the practice field west of the Coliseum.

At the head of the parade will be the hung Jayhawker, Cobs and Tassels will drag him along the parade route and will burn him on the practice field.

Candidates for Pep Queen will be presented at the rally. Immediately following the rally students will report to the Coliseum and the Union to vote for the 1947 Pep Queen. Booths will be set up at both locations and voting will be supervised by Innocents and Mortar Boards. Voters must have ID cards.

It's Coming! BHRH!

Gals Start Man Hunt Next Week

Men, be on your gaurd! Gals, watch your chance! Everybody prepare for the hunt! The customary game laws relating to catching mates will be suspended on November 15. Its open season on the male sex. Gals, bag your man. Limit, one each.

The University of Nebraska has been endorsed by Al Capp to enter the national celebration of Sadie Hawkins Day tenth anniversary. The Union ballroom will be transformed into the Dogpatch hunting grounds at 7:30 when dancing to Dave Haun and an evening of games, races and tertainment begins.

Prizes will be awarded for the best characterizations of Daisy Mae, Lil Abner, Hairless Joe, Mammy or Pappy Yokum, or any of the comic strip family. Lonesome Polecat and Indian Joe's concoction of kick-a-poo joy juice (apple cider) will be served to weary huntresses and their captives.

Right before your eyes—BHRH!
