

Cornhuskers View KU Game Movies

After a well-deserved day of rest, Nebraska's fighting Cornhuskers began the two-week practice routine prior to their next Big Six tussle with Coach Bud Wilkinson's Oklahoma Sooners, Nov. 22.

Bernie Masterson, head Husker mentor, gave his Scarlet gridders Monday off. It was the first break in the 1947 practice run which started Sept. 1.

After viewing movies of the Kansas Homecoming classic, the Huskers went through light drills on the Memorial practice field. Limbering up exercises and signal drills comprised the main bill of fare Tuesday night. Masterson's charges worked without pads.

Nubbins Play Friday.
Chief attention in the Memorial stadium surroundings was centered on Coach Ray DeBolt and his Nubbins. The "B" crew plays host to the Ft. Riley Centaurs Friday afternoon. It is a return engagement for the two clubs and winds up a two-game slate for the Nubbins.

Ralph Damkroger, scrappy end, will be lost to the Huskers for the remainder of the season. The Husky wingman broke his left thumb in the third canto of the Kansas fray. He will carry it in a cast for three weeks.

Jack Pesek, other regular end, nursed a badly sprained wrist Tuesday. At first it was feared that he might have broken it, but X-rays revealed no fracture. He will be ready for action against the Sooners.

Jacupke Bruised.
Only other Husker varsity performer missing Tuesday's workout because of injuries sustained in the KU battle was Guard Gerald Jacupke. Jacupke, who was playing in his first varsity starting assignment, twisted a knee and did not suit up for practice Tuesday.

Quarterback Dick Thompson, who was shaken up after being smothered on the last play of the game while attempting to get a pass away, turned up ready for more action. His knee which has benched him throughout most of the campaign stood up under a full-time duty session Saturday.

Craren Wins Intramural Diving Show

Ed Craren, independent diver in the intramural swimming meet, took first place in Tuesday night's diving event with Dick Bell of Beta Theta Pi finishing a close second.

Another independent, Lloyd Helgeson showed third and Fig Flagg of Alpha Tau Omega placed fourth. Other divers, in the order of points scored were Don Cooper, Ted Huston, and Jack Codington.

Coach Hollie Lepley, in charge of the intramural swimming meet, announced that preliminaries will begin at 8 p.m., Wednesday for the 50, 100 and 220 yard free style events and the 100 yard breast and back stroke races. Lepley stated that semifinals will be run off Thursday at 5:00 p.m. and that finals will begin in all events on Friday at 5:00 p.m.

All swimming will take place in the university coliseum pool and Lepley emphasized that every participant in the meet must wear a suit.

PHYS ED STUDENTS.
A meeting for all physical education majors and minors will be held tonight at 7:30 in the "N" club room of the Coliseum.

can still play an important role in deciding the loop winner. A win over the Sooners will virtually eliminate the co-champions from title aspirations.

Initiate Weight Training Program

A voluntary exercise program is being initiated by the department of physical education Wednesday, Nov. 12 in the new body conditioning and weight training room in the coliseum basement. Meetings will be held every Monday, Wednesday, and Friday at 5 p. m.

L. R. Higgins has been appointed by Lou Means, director of I. M. activities, to supervise and instruct the group. All men students are welcome to participate.

The new training room is now being fitted with several pieces of equipment.

Higgins will instruct a special course in body conditioning the second semester. This course will also be open to all men students.

HUSKER "T" PILOT—Dick Thompson, 160-pound quarterback, piloted the Husker T formation against the Kansas Jayhawks Saturday for his first full-time performance of the season. A serious knee injury kept the little 5-foot, 9-inch griddier out of action in most of Nebraska's previous battles. Thompson tossed five complete aeriels out of the eight attempts while turning in a top notch signal calling job Saturday.

Students Start Soccer Teams

Tuesday found the initial appearance of soccer at the university, as a team of students from Europe and Asia meet a team of South and North American students. The score was either 1-0 in favor of the Americans or a 1-1 tie, depending on an interpretation of the rules.

The teams were made up of eleven men—five linemen, three halfbacks, two fullbacks and one goalkeeper. A score is made by kicking the ball between the goal posts on the football field.

Different Styles.
The American style of play featured a rougher type of game placing great emphasis on body contact, while the Europeans used more finesse, teamwork and passing. The intense cold slowed down both teams, who were playing in T-shirts and shorts.

In the opinion of one spectator, "That's too fast for me. It's like playing basketball on a football field."

THETA SIGMA PHI
Meeting tonight at five in Ellen Smith. Short meeting promised by Phee Mortlock, president.

Wednesday's I. M. swimming events will start at 8 p. m., instead of 5 p. m., it has been announced by Coach Hollie Lepley. The change was made due to a rescheduling of the ROTC parade.

Student Tickets Admit 'B' Game; Not LHS Tilt

University of Nebraska student activity tickets will be acknowledged for admittance to the Nubbins-Ft. Riley football game Friday afternoon at 3:00 on the Memorial stadium gridiron.

General admission tickets are on sale at the Coliseum. Student admission is 50 cents while knot-hole tickets for grade students are 25 cents.

Student tickets will not be honored for the Grand Island-Lincoln high tilt Saturday afternoon. Adult tickets are listed at $1.00 and are on sale at the Coliseum and downtown at Lawlors and Reed's sporting goods.
