

Cornhuskers Drill for Final Big Six Battle

Coach Bernie Masterson in preparing for the powerful Oklahoma Sooners who come to town this Saturday sent his first team varsity crew through a brisk workout Tuesday afternoon laying the stress on the Scarlet passing attack. For the Varsity Dick Thompson, who is Saturday's team captain, Del Wiegand and Joe Partington filed the air with footballs. Most of the receiving was done by Halfbacks Jim Myers and Cletus Fischer.

Masterson had Alex Cochrane and Jack Pesek at ends, Charley Toogood, and Carl Samuelson at tackles, Gene Wilkins and Freddie Lorenz at guards, and Tom Novak working at center. In the backfield While Thomson, Wiegand, and Partington changed hands at the signal calling post, Jim Myers and Fischer took over at the halves, and Dale Adams handled the fullback assignment. Pesek still favoring his sprained wrist looked as if he would be ready to go against Oklahoma Saturday.

While Masterson polished the Husker offensive tactics, Assistants Tony Blazine and Dougal Russell worked the second and third string units on defense against Oklahoma formations.

When the Bud Wilkinson's Sooners arrive in Lincoln this week they will be top heavy favorites against the Cornhuskers after their 21-12 victory over Missouri at Columbia last week. For the Sooners it will mean a chance to part of the Big Six championship.

Oklahoma last week held the same Missouri team that rolled through the Huskers to a slender 87 yards from scrimmage. The Husker picture may be brightened by reviewing the brilliant stand Nebraska made against Kansas two weeks ago, a team that held Oklahoma to a 13-13 tie early in the season.

Nebraska can expect everything that Oklahoma has to offer this week for this game will decide a major share of the Big Six standing with the rest of the title glory hanging on the Kansas-Missouri contest.

Nebraska on the other hand will be out to avenge a tough season by upsetting the Sooners who rate as one of the nations football powerhouses. The Cornhuskers can be expected to use plenty of passing Saturday in view of the fact that Oklahoma has the most highly touted line in the Big Six.

REGULAR SWIM

A regular swim party is scheduled for Wednesday night in the University of Nebraska swim pool. Everyone is invited to attend. Swimmers must bring their swim permit obtained at the Student Health service. UN Swim Coach Hollie Lepley will be in charge of the swimfest. e

Bowling Loops Reach Second Round Stage

Play in the seven University of Nebraska intramural bowling leagues is advancing into the second round stage.

The Independent league is setting the pace with the duck pin bowlers keeping in step. Both have passed the half-way mark. The interdepartment and interfraternity loops have not yet reached the middle point, but play is going along according to schedule.

Over 57 teams are competing in the seven different kegler loops.

Deadline for entries in both the intramural basketball tourney and the annual IM wrestle meet is Nov. 26. Weighin and physical exams will be given for all wrestlers entering the grappling contest between 4:00 and 6:00 p. m. Dec. 1. Pairings will be posted immediately and actual competition will get underway Dec. 2 in the Coliseum basement.

Finals will be held during the half and after the Huskers' opening cage encounter with the Purdue Boilermakers Dec. 8.

Play in the cage loop will start Dec. 9. Teams entered may schedule practice times at the Coliseum now.

Sig Alphas Cop Ping Pong Title

Sigma Alpha Epsilon paddle wielders copped the annual intramural table tennis title Monday afternoon by edging the Beta Theta Pi quintet by a 3-2 count. The SAE crew won its way to the finals by eliminating Zeta Beta Tau in a second round match, Sigma Alpha Mu in a quarter-final affair and the Sigma Nu team in a semi-final match.

The Beta's worked to the championship round with wins over the Kappa Sigma quintet, Beta Sigma Psi team and the Newman club crew.

Pete Durlang of the SAE team defeated Beta Paul Hyland, Wally Swanson dropped Dick Means and Jo Sanchez defeated Bill Olson for the other Sig Alph wins. Dick Smith and Roy Farris notched the two Beta victories over Buzz Diers and Dale Lawrence.

Issue Final Plea Handball Teams to Form League

Director of intramural athletics L. E. Means, has issued a call for the filing of entries for additional teams to form an independent handball league.

Only three men are needed to comprise a team. Entries will be accepted at the intramural office any time before the deadline of Nov. 26.

Co-Recreational Swim Party Slated Tonight

A co-recreational swimming party will be held tonight at the coliseum pool beginning at 7 p. m. All students and their husbands or wives are invited to attend this party which will last until 8:30.

Swimming permits from the student health department are necessary for all swimmers who intend to go to the party.
