

Campus Builder

The death of Mr. L. F. Seaton, university operating supervisor and purchasing agent, brought to an end a career highlighted by constant devotion and extreme capability.

Mr. Seaton, a member of the administration for more than 27 years, was instrumental in creating the modern and efficient campus that today makes up the University of Nebraska. However, his service extended beyond the university and included the entire state.

Chancellor Gustavson, speaking of Mr. Seaton's death, characterized his life of service to the university and to the state with one word: Loyalty. Students of the university who worked with the supervisor add another tribute to Mr. Seaton's unflinching friendliness and willingness to co-operate with the student body. In any detail, no matter how small, he gladly assisted and counseled them.

"The campus is his monument," said Chancellor Gustavson, and no finer compliment can be paid to a man who devoted his life to the building of a greater university and a greater state.

Two things every college man should know!

1. This is a wolf. Species: Lupus Humanus. Numbers increasing on every college campus. Sleek appearance aids deception of prey. Hunts at night. Mainly co-eds. Don't laugh... you're probably one yourself.

2. This is a "Manhattan" shirt. Wolf or not, you'll go in hot pursuit... it's a beauty! A "Manhattan" fits better... looks better... and can't shrink more than 1%. See this style and many others at your local dealer's now.

Editor: In the last issue of The Daily Nebraskan before vacation, a story appeared in the style of the columnists but without a signature. This story was openly critical of the Student Council and of its members. Why you as the editor allowed this article to go unsigned, I do not know. Even though the inference is there I have no reason to believe that this article is the opinion of the staff of The Daily Nebraskan or of its editor. Since The Daily Nebraskan is the only source of information for the majority of the students I believe that a full and accurate report of the council's activities should be made at this time.

Sloppy journalism is certainly not uncommon on the Nebraska scene in both Lincoln and Omaha... but does that make it desirable for the newspaper of this university?

I feel that the students in this university deserve an accurate and unbiased account of the work of the Student Council, at least they deserve more than the imaginative writings of an unknown and irresponsible origin.

If a good student press and good student government are desirable, then investigate this entire question. Let's have news stories that the writer can back up with facts and proof. The actual record of the Student Council and of the work of its committees is available to anyone who desires the truth. I think this record, when reported in an intelligent manner, will speak for itself.

Mystic Tells Future Plans For Campus

BY GLORIA POLSKY.

Last year just before Christmas vacation a man of doubtful integrity, namely, the football player who empties ash-trays after Board of Regents meetings, came down to the Rag office with his predictions for 1947. We ran a story announcing the changes he foresaw on the N.U. campus, thanked all the big wheels for these delightful alterations, came back to school, and chewed our fingernails until February to see the results.

After careful scrutiny and several weeks of agony we decided the powers-that-be had overlooked the little man's plan for re-decorating the campus, and we dubbed him "an unreliable source". Yesterday A.U.S. came to see us again and announced the following reliable reports which were revealed to him during a seance at his frat house.

Marr Injured.

Gay Marr, "The Man Who Came To Dinner", will suffer a minor injury on the doorstep of Ellen Smith Hall and remain there in a private room to convalesce for at least three months while chorus girls, movie directors, and authorities on cockroaches visit him.

Parking meters will be installed in front of all sorority houses to insure better service and to collect revenue for the "campus cop".

The Union Crib will feature the eligible bachelors in a continuous floorshow to attract co-eds who fear the opposite sex.

An all-university marble tournament is scheduled to take place during what was formerly called Exam Week, and June graduates will receive permission to use the faculty parking lot nightly along with their diplomas.

A.U.S. also announced that any suggestions from students for the betterment of the university will be considered if they are turned in to him before his frat's New Year's Eve party. After Dec. 31 he will be out of circulation until next year.
