While associated with the University he continued his practice with a firm of Lincoln architects, teaching only a few classes.

Another instructor, Burket Graf, and an associate professor, Benjamin F. Hemphill, made their resignations known the first of the week. Hemphill left the department immediately upon receiving a request to resign Monday. Graf said his resignation will not become effective until the end of the semester.

Skaret Also Resigns.

An earlier resignation by Herman Skaret, instructor in architecture, also became known this week. He is now practicing in Lincoln but could not be contacted.

University officials remained silent on the matter, refusing any comment until action had been taken by the board of regents.
