

Young Demos Support History Prof to Oppose Sen. Wherry

OMAHA, Neb.—The Lancaster County Young Democrats from the university joined with the Douglas County Young Democrats Sunday evening at a pre-convention caucus of the Democratic pre-primary convention that is to be held on Tuesday in a drive to nominate Albin T. Anderson, 36, a member of the faculty of the university, to the candidacy of U. S. Senator.

In a statement issued following conferences with labor and old-guard Democratic groups, the two Young Democratic organizations declared, "there is complete unanimity" in the selection of Anderson, a veteran of the Pacific war theater and presently associated with the history faculty of the university.

"Youthful Liberal"

The statement declared "young democrats of both organizations firmly believe that Albin T. Anderson has the capabilities and potentialities of defeating the present reactionary incumbent Senator Wherry (r., Neb.)"

It asserts that the groups are

McDill Awarded Home Ec Honors

Louise McDill, sophomore in the Home Economics department, received the highest scholarship in the department last year.

The announcement was made at a buffet supper Sunday, held at the home of Miss Margaret Fedde, where Omicron Nu honored the ten girls with the highest averages last year. Three actives of Omicron Nu informed the guests of the organization's purposes and goals.

Miss McDill's name will be placed on the Omicron Nu honor roll in the Home Ec social rooms, a custom that has been followed for over 30 years, previous to the honor roll, Omicron Nu inscribed the honored name on a gold cup which was then in the possession of the girl for that year. Omicron Nu is the Home Economics honorary fraternity.

Miss McDill is the present ag editor of The Daily Nebraskan.

Barb Dance Set For Saturday In Union Ballroom

The USA-BABW annual spring dance in the Union ballroom will be held Feb. 21 from 9 p.m. to 12 p.m. with music by Lee Hancock and his band.

An informal affair, the dance is sponsored for unaffiliated university students. Tickets are on sale in the Union and can be obtained from all USA-BABW board members or in unaffiliated organized houses. They are priced at 60 cents each.

Dace Bolyan, publicity chairman for the dance, suggested that students wishing to attend the dance may do so after going to the university theatre or the basketball game on the same evening.

"vitality concerned with the nomination and election by the people of Nebraska of a youthful liberal to the office of the U. S. Senate."

The official statement was signed by John Basarich, chairman of the Douglas county Young Democrats, and Don Morrow, chairman of the Lancaster county group, who was speaking for the unanimous opinion of the ten youthful political delegates from the university. Morrow stated that the entire group would fight to the hilt for Anderson who he described as the "most forceful speaker since William Jennings Bryan."

Anderson indicated his willingness to make the race in a brief statement, in which he said: "It goes without saying that were I nominated to the high office of the United States senate, I would conduct a vigorous and enlightened campaign on behalf of the people who have been forced into dire straits as a consequence of reactionary leadership in the U. S. Senate."

Served in Navy.

Anderson served in the navy from 1943 to early 1946, being separated from the service with the rank of lieutenant. He participated in the Leyte gulf and Lingayen gulf operations in the Philippines, as communications officer on the Seventh fleet flagship, was naval liaison officer with Gen. Douglas MacArthur's headquarters, and was assigned to communications planning for the assault of Japan.

In 1939 and 1940 he served as field representative of the American Scandinavian Foundation and has traveled widely in the United States and Europe. He received his master of arts degree from the University of California and went on to get his Ph.D.

The Lancaster County group is also supporting another member of the university staff, John White, for congressman from the First District. An announcement of this support had been previously made.

Debaters Take Rocky Mount Speech Honors

Four Nebraska debaters ranked in the top ten at the Rocky Mountain Speech Conference, in Denver, Colo., from Feb. 12 to 14 with 22 schools competing.

The debate teams representing Nebraska were Robert Moodie and Leonard Hammes, Rodney Lindwall and Richard Schleusner, Jack Solomon and Ted Sorenson. Debating on the subject, "A Federal World Government Should Be Established," these three teams won nine out of twelve contests.

Sorenson and Lindwall ranked high, among 106 contestants, in the discussion panel, "How Can We Insure Peace in the World?" Dick Schleusner won eighth place among all debaters, with Lindwall and Sorenson tying for ninth place and Solomon in tenth.

Debate teams will again compete at Nebraska's Inter-Collegiate Debate and Discussion Conference to be held in Lincoln, Feb. 27 and 28.

Large Prizes Offered In Radio Script Contest

A radio script contest for college students in the United States is being sponsored by the Association for Education by Radio. Manuscripts are due March 30 and must be sent to Sherman P. Lawton, University of Oklahoma, who is chairman of the contest.

Miss Betty Jeanne Holcomb announced today that Alpha Epsilon Rho of Nebraska is participating in the contest. Details of the competition are posted at the radio studio in the Temple.

Prizes totaling more than $800 are being offered for the script. The purpose of the contest is to encourage the development of good student radio writing in colleges and universities.

DEAN R. M. GOSS

Grad School Dean Tells Of Stipends

R. W. Goss, dean of the Graduate college, announced the availability of fellowships and graduate assistantships totaling about $30,000, three or more undergraduate scholarships worth $750 each, and a faculty fellowship. Applications, obtainable at the Graduate office and at the deans' offices, must be returned by March 1.

Fellowships range in value from $100 to $1,800 per semester and are open in all colleges. Dean Goss described some which are offered to students in more than one department. The Amanda Heppner fellowship for $100 is open to all women.

Research Pays Off

Remission of tuition and $1,000 are offered to graduates in biological or physical sciences by the Nathan J. Gold scholarship. Five Knights of Ak-Sar-Ben fellowships of $500 plus tuition are open to those interested in research dealing with production or utilization of Nebraska agricultural products.

Those doing research in botany or agronomy dealing with pasture management in Nebraska are eligible for the $500 offered by Arthur Sampson. Stipends of $750 will be given with each of the four Franklin and Orlinda M. Johnson fellowships.

Miller Money

All students above the freshman year, including graduates, in any of the schools or colleges in the university are eligible for the Donald W. Miller scholarships and fellowships. Three or more of these, worth $750, are available.

The Johnson Faculty fellowship is open to all full-time members of the faculty who hold the rank of instructor or above. This stipend will not exceed $1,500 for one semester or $3,000 for two.

Further information on these and other fellowships is obtainable at the Graduate office in the Social Science building.

Union Provides Host for Patrons Of Music Room

A new policy for the Union's Music Room, effective this week, has been designed to accommodate a larger number of students' requests, Music Chairman Rex Pettijohn announced.

Between the hours of 4 and 5 p. m., a host will be on duty in the room who will play records requested by the room's patrons.

Planned to relieve students of the manual operation of the machine and to avoid monopolizing of the machine by a few persons, the new policy will be adapted to whatever needs or suggestions arise, Pettijohn said.

The host period will be in effect between 4 and 5 p. m. only, with other regular room hours as before. The Music Room formerly opened at 4:30 p. m. Hosts for this week, chosen from the Union's music committee, are:

Monday, Joyce Buck; Tuesday, Frank Mize; Wednesday, Sally Sipple; Thursday, Jean Eckwall; Friday, Miriam Hicks.

Chancellor Cites Education Role

Gustavson Says Understanding Of Social Battle Necessary

Education must create an understanding of the struggle within our society to develop a morality to which all nations will subscribe, Chancellor R. G. Gustavson told over 300 Lincoln alumni gathered for the 79th anniversary of Charter Day Sunday night.

The chancellor pointed out that to be great the university must be a changing institution, so rapidly is world society changing.

To society, he said, falls the responsibility of helping develop character to handle safely the dynamite placed in its hands by science.

Good Citizens Wanted.

Commenting on the athletic situation, Dr. Gustavson quipped that the next coach to arrive here would be Bernie Bierman of Minnesota. "He will arrive with his team Oct. 2," the chancellor said.

The place of athletics was termed "a part of the education system" by the chancellor. He insisted it should not be an institution through which to advertise the university, rather that this is best done by scholarship.

Dr. Gustavson questioned that universities could feel they turn out men of character when they teach them to accept money contrary to the rules of the game.

"We are not going to be satisfied with an athletic program which does not produce good citizens," he said.

Allison Speaks.

American problems in Japan and Korea were outlined by John N. Allison, chief of the North Asian division of the U.S. foreign service.

Allison graduated from the University in 1927 and has been with the state department 19 years. He returned from the far East last Christmas.

Success or failure of our occupation in Japan, Allison insisted, will depend not so much on what we do in Japan as on what the people in this and other countries do.

"It is up to the university to prepare people to make great decisions," he said.

Four Phases.

The four phases of the Japanese problem were listed by Allison as military strength, national economy, education and religions.

No solution will be found to the Korean problems until the Russian-American questions are answered, according to the Asiatic

City Architects Criticize Firing Of Professor

Contradiction of a recent statement by the university that practicing architects in the community approved B. F. Hemphill's dismissal from the faculty was made by a group of 13 Lincoln architects yesterday.

In a letter sent to Chancellor R. G. Gustavson, Dean Roy Green, and to the board of regents, the 13 signees said they "are definitely in disagreement with the action taken by the university in this regard."

Group Action.

The writing of the letter was a group action and not started by one specific individual among the 13.

By denying the university's statement that Hemphill's dismissal was OK'd by Lincoln architects, the 13 drafters of the letter have re-opened an issue which has been temporarily quiet since Hemphill's dismissal.

The university committee on academic privilege, headed by Prof. J. M. Reinhardt, is considering the architectural situation at the present time.

Served 15 Years.

Hemphill was dismissed from the faculty several weeks ago after having served as a professor of architecture for more than 15 years. At the time, several other architectural faculty members resigned. Hemphill has refused comment on the situation with the exception of his statement that "complications will be forthcoming."

Allison Claims Far East Needs More Experts

One of the biggest problems facing the United States in the Far East is the lack of trained personnel in the departments of Japan, emphasized John Allison, chief of the north Asian affairs division of the U. S. Foreign Service.

"We hope that our American colleges and universities can get this across to their students," he said.

Allison informally discussed the economic and political questions of Korea and Japan before a group of students in the library auditorium Monday afternoon. Turning first to the problems in Korea, he explained the differences in the governments which Russia and the U.S. have established in their sections of the country.

Problem.

"I don't know what our government should do," Allison said, "but the problem depends on what the people in this country want us to do."

Rehabilitating the Japanese people to civil life, establishing a democratic government, and reviving their industries constitute the major part of the American problem in Japan, according to Allison.

Allison, a university graduate and former Lincolnite, has lived in the Far East since 1927. He taught school in Japan, took commercial posts in Japan and China, and joined the Foreign Service in 1930.

He also addressed two political science classes Monday morning and was also a speaker at the university's charter day program.

Librarian Hanke To Speak Feb. 19

Dr. Lewis Ulysses Hanke, staff member of the Library of Congress, will speak on "What Americans Need to Know About Other Countries" at 11 a. m. Thursday, Feb. 19, in Love library auditorium.

Dr. Hanke received his Ph.D. at Harvard in 1936, and has taught at the American University at Beirut in Syria and at Harvard. He has directed the Hispanic Foundation of the Library of Congress since 1939. He was editor of the Handbook of Latin American Studies of the Harvard Press from 1936 to 1940.

University Teams Set for National Bridge Tourney

Four university bridge teams were selected to enter the national intercollegiate tournament at the last of a series of three matches held in the Union Saturday.

Competition was close, according to Dale Ball, Union bridge director, who supervised the meet. Twelve teams completed the last match.

The number one team, Donald Nichols and Austin Birch, will represent the university at the Big Seven bridge tournament.

Other teams entered in the intercollegiate tournament are: Mr. and Mrs. William Tyson, Kay McKay and Jack Carey, Chic Lang and Jack Dahlgren, and alternates Bayard Taylor and John Huston.

SDT in Coed Follies

Sigma Delta Tau was inadvertently omitted from the list of houses who will participate in the Coed Follies March 2. They were among the finalists picked by AWS.
