

'Y' to Show French Film Friday Night

Hailed by actress Ingrid Bergman as the "greatest film I have ever seen," the famous French film, "Grand Illusion," with English sub-titles, will be shown in the Temple Theatre, Friday evening. Admission is 50c.

The film is sponsored by the university YMCA and stars the renowned actor, Jean Gabin. The other leading roles are filled by Eric Von Stroheim and Pierre Fresnay.

"Grand Illusion" was given the rating of "best film of the year from any country," by the National board of review in 1938. The New York Film Critics gave it a similar tribute by labeling it the "best foreign film of the year."

Film Vividly Presented

"Grand Illusion" revolves around the lives of French Army officers in a German prison camp. Their attempts to escape provide the film with many vivid and brilliant psychological effects. The film has been called by many a moving plea for peace.

In reviewing "Grand Illusion," "Time" magazine stated, "it is superbly acted, with English titles to translate its polyglot dialogue."

Superb Acting by Gabin

Jean Gabin plays a mechanic in the film. But his role does not prevent him from displaying his publicized love-making. He carries a good portion of the movie's tour-de-force Lamour and does his usual fine job of acting.

Gabin received his theatrical beginning in France where he became quite well-known for portraying the romantic lead in a number of films. Coming to America in 1940, he became quite familiar to the American Theatre-going audience on both stage and screen.

Lately, Gabin has traveled back and forth between the United States and France, acting in some of the outstanding films of both countries.

YMCA Forum Discusses Civil Rights Question

Civil rights, an issue whose reverberations are being felt nationally, was the topic of a forum presented last night by the University YMCA. The topic "How Will Civil Right Legislation Affect Us?" was debated by YMCA members.

The forum's first speaker, Rev. Jack Lepke, Congregational student pastor, related the current civil rights program to the principles for which the United States was founded. Rev. Lepke noted that civil liberties were the very principles which prompted the establishment of the American nation.

Gene Berman, in his discussion of the domestic scene, accused the major political parties of using the civil rights issue as a tool in the forth-coming campaign. He stated that Southern agitation against the pending congressional civil liberties bills will have a major effect on the stands taken on this subject by the two parties.

In discussing civil rights in respect to our nation's foreign policy, law student Ted Sorenson pointed to the declining prestige of the US due to her recent difficulties in handling her own racial questions. Sorenson stated that intolerance in the United States must be eradicated before the US can act as a leader in a world unification program. One of Russia's leading sources of anti-U. S. propaganda is the plight of the southern negro, he declared.

Following the panel, Moderator Charles Goolsby, led a group discussion of the issues presented.

NSA Poll Put Off By Council Vote

New Date March 17; Faculty Asked Delay to Miss Exams

Polling of student opinion on the NSA was postponed until Wednesday, March 17, by the Student Council meeting in the Union yesterday.

The council planned to conduct the poll in all nine a. m. classes Friday. Dean T. J. Thompson requested, through a council committee, that the survey be delayed until after six weeks exams.

He also asked that complete plans for the poll be submitted to his office immediately so that the faculty could be informed of procedures.

Adds Third Choice.

A third choice was added to the poll form, "I do not care to vote." It also requires that a majority of the "Yes" and "No" ballots only, will decide the question.

The motion by Dick Schleusner, Oxford (Neb.) engineering student, passed by a unanimous voice vote.

Heated discussion of alternate proposals preceded the decision.

Use As Guide?

Bill Palmer, senior at large council member, insisted "We should not go back on our word," when it was proposed that the poll be used only as a guide.

Schleusner pointed out that the students had already been told their votes would be the final decision.

Booths will be set up for students not in class at nine probably in the Union, the Library and Ag Hall. The plan was outlined in an NSA committee letter to Dean Thompson. The council discussed the alternate polling booths but no vote was taken.

Council financial procedure was ordered investigated toward revisions, by a council approved motion of Dale Ball.

Ball asked that means be found to make the council financially independent. He urged more flexibility in the budget system to allow mid-year expenditures.

Wallace Group Approved

By voice vote and without discussion the council approved the university chapter of "Students for Wallace." Bob Wenke, chairman of the constitutions committee recommended the action in his report.

Wenke previously introduced a report asking council approval of all organizations checked by the constitutions committee, including the political group. The president asked that all new organizations be listed for council scrutiny.

Listing of the "15 or so" new groups was promised by Wenke for next week.

Point Board Investigated

Investigation of Men's Point board was demanded in a motion introduced and later withdrawn by Wenke. He charged that point values were unfair to athletes. He urged that it should be made easier for them to become innocents.

Stan Johnson, president of Innocents and ex-officio chairman of the point board, interjected, "Men's Point board and Innocents have no connection."

He followed up on Wenke's arguments with the explanation that the Innocents "point system" is not the same as that used by the point board in regulating activities.

Wenke said, "I understood a man must have four points to be considered for Innocents."

"You're wrong!" countered Johnson.

Campus Group Appeals Action By Committee

Persians, twice rejected political club, will try it again, Ben Wall, president of the group, announced Wednesday.

The proposed society asks that the chancellor place the fate of the organization on the agenda of the University Senate. The request was made Wednesday through Dr. G. W. Rosenlof, secretary of the senate.

A senate committee refused to recognize the Persians constitution a week ago.

Dean Marjorie Johnston, secretary of the faculty committee on student organizations, stated in a letter to the Persians:

"...members of the committee were agreed that the purposes of the group were vaguely stated and that it was not clear as to whether the organization was to function as a political or pressure group. After due consideration the committee voted to deny approval...."

About 25 prospective members are claimed by the group.

Its constitution defines the Persians' aims as the elimination of discrimination and creation of a representative campus government.

"I do not see how we can state them more definitely," Wall commented.

"We certainly believe there is life left (in the Persians)," he said, "and are not ready to hold the funeral yet."
