

University Symphony Concert Set Today In Union Ballroom

Under the baton of Emanuel Wishnow the 75-piece University Symphony Orchestra will make its major appearance of the semester today at 4 p. m. in the Union ballroom. There is no admission charge. Today's concert of solely orchestral works will be followed by three appearances in April.

On April 6 the orchestra will accompany five seniors elected by the graduating class of the school of music to appear with the symphony in an annual concert at the Union. On April 20 the symphony will perform two numbers to open and close the Honors Convocation in the coliseum. And on April 25 the orchestra will join the university Choral Union in an annual coliseum presentation of a spring oratorio.

Opera Overture Included.

The overture to Auber's opera "Marseniello," which will open the program today, is written in "the best tradition of Italian style of the middle 19th century," according to Wishnow. The "Water Music" suite, from which the orchestra will play six standard excerpts, was written by Handel for a royal water excursion of King George I.

As the king's party moved along the Thames, an orchestra followed on another barge playing the suite. The king was reportedly so pleased that he commanded the entire suite of 21 pieces to be played again. The suite was last performed on campus when the Minneapolis Symphony played it in 1945 at the coliseum.

Professor Wishnow has taken a piano piece descriptive of ringing bells and transcribed it for string orchestra with harp and French horn featured. Bonnie Waddell, harpist, and first hornist Jack Snider will take the solo passages in the Pugno composition.

A contrasting scherzo and nocturne from Mendelssohn's incidental "Midsummer Night's Dream" music and Tchaikovsky's "Romeo and Juliet" overture complete the program. The complete program:

Overture to "Marseniello," Auber.
"Water Music," Allegro, Air, Bourree, Hornpipe, Allegro deciso; Handel.
Tintements de Clochettes; Pugno (Miss Waddell, Mr. Snider and Orchestra).
Scherzo, Nocturne, "Midsummer Night's Dream," Mendelssohn.
"Romeo and Juliet" fantasia Overture, Tchaikowsky.

Two Ag Students Chosen National 4-H Delegates

Two Ag college students were included in the four young Nebraskans chosen to go to the National 4-H Club Camp to be held in Washington, D. C., next June 16 to 23.

Marcia Adams, North Platte, and Dick Kuska, Omaha, were the two Ag students named official delegates. The other two delegates chosen by State Club Leader L. I. Frisbie are Alice Wolph, Cass county, and John Bleck, Kearney county. All of the delegates have been recipients of various kinds of recognition for 4-H achievement.

The four young people will go to the nation's capitol as guests of the Omaha World Herald which annually makes the award to four Cornhusker state delegates.

Home Ec Freshman

Miss Adams, 19, is a freshman student in Home Economics. She was named the 1945 state homemaking champion and went to the National 4-H Club Congress in Chicago that year.

With eight years of 4-H Club experience, Miss Adams has carried a total of 11 projects in clothing, garden, foods, and keep well. She has been a leader of a clothing club and an assistant leader of a homemaking club. She was in the Dress Review at the State Fair in 1946 and 1947. One of her outstanding accomplishments as a club member was the complete remodeling of an attic room into a room for herself. She remodeled the room from laying the floor to finishing the room.

At the university she is a member of the Home Ec Club council and the Ag YW cabinet. She participated in the 1948 Home Ec Style show March 3.

Former Congress Delegate Kuska, 19, is a freshman at

Campus Bridge Tourney Slated For March 13

Dale Ball, official Culbertson instructor and Union bridge director, has announced that a campus bridge tournament will take place March 13 in Parlors ABC of the Union, beginning at 1:30 p. m.

The Union Games Committee, under the chairmanship of Spence Phillips, sponsors these tourneys, in which all hands are prepared by bridge experts previous to the games. Each team is scored on the maximum they are able to make on the same hands, as they rotate from table to table.

The participants in the tournament must be registered by teams in the Union office by Saturday noon, March 13.

Ag college. He attended the National 4-H Congress in 1944 as one of the eight national champions in garden work; in 1946 as state poultry champion; and in 1947 as a champion demonstrator in livestock loss prevention.

He has been in 4-H Clubs for eight years, completing 19 projects in garden, poultry, lamb, swine, and plant disease prevention. Competing three years at the State Fair, he placed first in poultry judging in 1944 and has demonstrated both as an individual and as a team member. His lambs topped their class at the 1947 Fair and he showed the grand champion swine at the Fremont district 4-H Fair.

Watkins Scholarship

He is attending the university on a J. R. Watkins scholarship, awarded on the basis of his cumulative 4-H record. He is the president of the Phi Kappa Psi pledge class.

"To be sent to the National 4-H Club Camp in Washington is the highest honor that can come to any 4-H member in Nebraska," commented State Club Leader Frisbie at the University of Nebraska, who named the four delegates.

Profs Sponsor Poetry Contest

A student poetry writing contest to encourage more interest in poetry is being sponsored by three university English instructors, Walter Kidd, Oliver Evans and Miss Bernice Sote. Prizes of $35 and $15 will be awarded the two best entries.

Judging the contest will be Robert Penn Warren, Pulitzer Prize winning novelist in 1947, Howard H. Corning, former Nebraskan and prominent poet in the Pacific northwest, John Ciardi, Harvard university English instructor, and Dr. Lowry C. Wimberly, English professor at Nebraska and editor of the Prairie Schooner magazine.

Reynolds, Kopf Hailed as Ag's Typical Couple

Marge Reynolds and Harold Kopf, both of Lexington, were named "Typical Kampus Kouple" at the Ag Spring Party held in the Ag Union Friday night. Jack De Wulf, master of ceremonies, produced the couple with a wave of his magic wand.

The "Typical" couple, representing Love Hall, stepped from a magician's hat. Miss Reynolds was presented with a bouquet of gladiolas and snapdragons.

Activities.

Miss Reynolds, a junior, is a member of student council, Ag Exec Board, Tassels and Treasurer of Phi U. Kopf, a sophomore, is a member of Alpha Gamma Rho and N club.

Bob and Doris Perry representing Ag Men's Social Club, and Berl Damkroger and Vi Vosika, representing Farm House, were named runners-up in the competition.

Sextet.

Preceding the presentation a sextet composed of Mavis Musgrave, Alice Boswell, Maxine Brannan, Molly Myhre, Gwen Monson and Helen Oehsner sang "Sweethearts."

The Party, sponsored by the Ag Exec Board, featured dancing to the music of Skippy Anderson and his orchestra.

Women's Rifle Club Elects New Officers

The recently organized women's Rifle Club met Thursday, March 4, to elect officers. Those elected were Barbara Gardner, president; Darlene Henschel and Nancy Smith, secretaries, and Jane McCuaig, treasurer.

They will serve for this semester. The group is sponsored by WAA.

NU Takes Fifth Loop Victory; Late Kansas Rally Falls Short

Coach Harry Good's University of Nebraska basketball team finished a 24-game season Saturday night by defeating Kansas University's Jayhawks, 70-64.

Two scoring records were broken during the game. The conference point-per-game average went by the boards as the Huskers finished loop competition with a 56.2 point average. Claude Retherford broke the individual scoring mark for Nebraska players. The French Lick, Indiana forward hit 23 points against the Jayhawks to break his own season's record of 245 points. He finished the season with 259 points.

Eskridge Tops Scorers.

Big Jack Eskridge, 6'4½" Kansas forward, was the game's high scorer with 30 points. Eskridge failed to hit a single point in the first half. But the Jayhawker cager set a torrid pace the second stanza, hitting pivot shots, tips and jump shots from all over the floor. Guy Mabry took runner-up honors for the Kansans with 13 counters, and Otto Schnellbacher finished third with 12.

Rodney Cox finished second behind Retherford in the Nebraska scoring with 11 points. Center Dick Schleiger hit for ten and Paul Shields finished with nine.

Huskers Take Early Lead.

The game was only 15 seconds old when the Cornhuskers hit their first two pointer. Cox took the tip-off in to give Nebraska a quick lead. The contest was four minutes old before Schnellbacher hit the first Kansas bucket. And another three minutes elapsed before the Jayhawks could collect another point. With about 15 minutes gone in the first half, the Huskers held a 26-10 lead.

Kansas hit for eight points in the last five minutes and the half ended with the Cornhuskers ahead, 32-18.

Kansas came back in the second half, as Eskridge led the Jay-

Greek Woes Complicated Says Keller

(Exclusive to the Daily Nebraskan) Americans tend to over-simplify the troubles of Greece and therefore are likely to be disappointed in the accomplishments of the American Mission for Aid to Greece.

This opinion was expressed by Ken R. Keller, university public relations department staff member, who returned to the campus this week after six months in Greece. He was press-officer for the American Mission.

Lincoln Journal. Keller.

"Before I left for Greece," Keller said, "I heard a good deal about the task of 'rehabilitating' Greece. Much was said about the damage and suffering caused during the war years. I concluded that the job of the mission was primarily one of repairing war damage and erasing the marks of war suffering, so far as possible.

"I came away from Greece convinced that the problem is not one of 'rehabilitation.' It is one of building anew. The ills of Greece are not rooted in the war years. They run deep into generations of sub-marginal existence. It's optimistic to the point of absurdity to expect a group of strangers to dissolve such troubles in one or two years."

Keller gave these examples of deeply rooted troubles:

1. Though 65 percent of the 7,000,000 Greek population is engaged in agriculture, the nation for years has been unable to supply all its own food.

2. Not just since the war, but for many years, Greece has been unable to establish a stable, enduring government.

3. Though the war shattered Greece's educational system, the system before the war was doing little, if anything at all, toward equipping young people for a realistic and productive life in Greece.

4. By nature, the Greeks are a proud people but the necessity of accepting help from others for generations has weakened sadly their ability to produce leadership.

5. Understandably, the Greeks have no confidence in their own currency—hence Greek wealth is not put to work but kept as liquid (usually in gold) as possible, ready for flight.

These gloomy observations, Keller said, have failed to convince him that American efforts in Greece are hopeless.

"You still can't escape the realization that without the American Mission's existence, Greece would be a Communist satellite today," Keller said. "And you know, after visiting Greece and looking at mission records, that had it not been for American aid, starvation in Greece would be acute.

"If those two things are important in the eyes of Americans," he added, "then in less than nine months, the mission has done some good."
