

Cyclone Take Swim Meet; Huskers Finish Second

BY BOB PHELPS
(Daily Nebraskan Sports Writer)

Iowa State's swimming squad lived up to advance notices Saturday afternoon by splashing their way to the Big Seven swimming championships. The Cyclones scored 80 points to top second-place Nebraska by 41 points.

Iowa State started the record breaking procession by taking the 300-yard medley relay event in a time of 3:09.3, bettering the old time by about eight seconds.

Grimm Wins.

Marvin Grimm won the first event for Nebraska by scoring a close decision over Jim Dickerson of Iowa State in the 50-yard free style. Grimm's time was :24.3.

Roger Watts of Iowa State broke the old 220-yard free-style record when he swam that distance in 2:16.2 in the preliminaries. Watts also broke the record in the 440-yard freestyle in the preliminaries, stroking that event in a time of 5:04.

Sam Shiffler of Iowa State won the diving with a 46-point margin over second place Fig Flagg of Nebraska. Flagg edged out his teammate Roger Moore for second position. Dick Bell of Nebraska took fourth to give Nebraska their biggest single event total.

Closest Race.

In the closest race of the day, Conrad King of Nebraska placed third in the 200-yard breaststroke. King was less than a foot behind the winner, Howard Johnson, of Iowa State. Johnson's time was 2:41.3. The 150-yard backstroke was a race between Crowder of Oklahoma and Robison of I-State, with Robison winning in a time of 1:44.9. Crowder set a new record in the prelims when he swam the event in 1:42.6.

IM Sluggers, Water Cagers Take Spotlight

Nebraska's intramural teams will swing into action on new fronts this month when the current basketball play-offs are completed.

Water basketball, a Jack Best group 1 sport, and the all-university boxing championships will be two sports to take over the spotlight. Water basketball entries are due not later than Monday, March 8, at 5 p. m.

Most of the water basketball games will be played from 5 to 6 p. m. daily. Occasional contests will be scheduled at night. A trophy will be awarded to the championship fraternity team, and intramural medals will be given to winners of independent leagues.

The all-university boxing championships will be held March 16, 17 and 19. A team trophy will be awarded to the champions and the second place winners. Intramural medals will be given to individual champions and second place winners, while certificates will go to all third place winners.
