Foundation to Play Host To High School Students

High school students here for the state high school basketball tournament will be guests of the Student Foundation at a party Thursday. Foundation workers will supervise a dance and variety show in the Union from 4 to 6 that afternoon for team members and supporters.

Party Is Annual.

The "high school party" of the Foundation is held annually in conjunction with the tournament, according to Bonnie Voss, chairman. It serves to give the Nebraska students a chance to become acquainted with each other, besides with the University, she emphasized.

The ballroom will be decorated with pennants from a great number of the high schools, especially those in the class tournaments here. Free cokes will be served by the Foundation to guests.

"In past years," Bonnie said, "the party has been a great success with the high school visitors. We anticipate another large, enthusiastic turnout this year."

Special Entertainment.

Music for the dance will be supplied by a Union jukebox. Variety show cast members and special skews have not yet been announced. Student Foundation workers will manage the show, and serve refreshments.

Genene Mitchell, Student Foundation president remarked, "This is another of the services of our student group to accomplish the Foundation purpose: Selling the University of Nebraska to all Nebraska high school students. I'm not sure who gets the most fun out of the party, the student-guests or the Foundation-hosts."

Delta Sigma Pi, professional Bizad fraternity, held its Charter Day dinner Monday, March 8.

Bizad Frat Takes 12 Pledges; Holds Charter Day Dinner

The Delta Sigs, founded March 4, 1924, have been an active organization on the UN campus for 24 years with the exception of one war year.

The dinner was followed by discussion, "The Western Electric Personnel Policy" by Mr. Joines of the Western Electric Branch in Lincoln.

Delta Sigma Pi, recently pledged twelve men from the Bizad college. Those pledged were: Bates B. Barber, Ed Chicoine, Merle Fie, Melvin Forshoe, Robert Freeman, Wilson Kasik, Leonard Olney, Arnold Pierson, Gerald Roberts, Dallas Schrader, John Sommers, and Lawrence Wilson.

Theatre Seeks Stagecrafters For May Jobs

Students interested in stagecraft and similar aspects of play production are urged to contact Bob Black, technical director of the University Theater, Room 153, Temple building.

Thirty students will be given an opportunity to work on set construction, costuming, lighting, and make-up for the four three-act plays to be presented in May by the Experimental theater.

The four plays scheduled are "Of Mice and Men," by John Steinbeck; "As the Eagle Grows," by Elizabeth Wetzel, winner of the Nebraska Masquer-sponsored national playwriting contest; "Servant in the House," by Charles Rann Kennedy; and "Amphitryon '38," by S. N. Behrman.

A variety of theater techniques are offered by the choice of plays: realism, poetic prose, sophisticated comedy, and a dramatic treatment of a religious theme.

"Each play chosen for production offers opportunity for experiment and novel artistic treatment," pointed out Mr. Black. "Each offers interested students a chance to learn much about the externals of play production as exemplified in our American theater of today."

Home Ec Group Plans 'Silver Tea'

The annual Silver Tea, sponsored by the Home Ec club will be held Sunday at Love Memorial Hall from 3 to 5 p. m.

Purpose of the tea is to raise money for the foreign fellowship fund. It is used to bring foreign students to the campus. Six foreign students are in various schools in the United States this year, including Nebraska.

Maria Constantinides from Athens, Greece, is a junior in home economics. Miss Constantinides will speak at the Silver Tea on her home land.

Statement of Board Of Student Publications

Last week the board was advised by Dean T. J. Thompson that the incumbent editor of the Daily Nebraskan, Mr. Jack Hill, was ineligible to take part in student activities. A copy of this advice was sent direct to Mr. Hill, who upon receipt of it gave formal notice to this board of his resignation.

Dean Thompson's letter is as follows:

"It is a matter of much regret to me that I find Mr. Jack Alan Hill ineligible to take part in student activities. He should therefore be replaced as editor of the Nebraskan at once."

Mr. Hill's letter said in part: "A copy of Dean Thompson's letter just reached me so I wanted to contact you right away and express my regret that this matter has come up at such an unfortunate time. Believe me, I would not have applied for the editorship of the Daily Nebraskan if I had thought that I would be ineligible. I realize the inconvenience it will cause... the board."

The board of student publications regrets that this development has necessitated the unprecedented action of appointing an editor for the Daily Nebraskan in midterm. It expresses the hope that the entire staff will co-operate in seeking to continue the newspaper without serious disruption to the general news policies which have been evolved during the year.

Dry-Night Club Slated to Open Friday Night

Would you like to hold hands over a candlelight table, sip a cocktail or two and listen to the strains of Latin American music... or are you rowdy type and would like to be thrown out by a genuine bouncer?

Cornhusker students will enjoy this realistic atmosphere when Juan Illeuca and his Pan-Americans will spotlight the floorshow of the Dry-Night Club in the ballroom of the Student Union Friday evening.

"Cocktails."

According to By Hooper, chairman of the student union dance committee, the "cocktails" will consist of soft drinks that will be featured as "old fashioned," "pink ladies," "martinis," etc.

Johnny Cox and his band will provide dance music for Husker couples while Illeuca and ensemble will be the floor show.

Head waiters, cigarette girls and special menus will also add to the general atmosphere of a night club, where only parties of four or more will be admitted to the tables.

Tickets Going.

Tickets, selling at $1.50 per couple are going fast and sales will soon reach the 150 couple limit of the night club, according to the chairman of the dance committee.

Ed Trumble, student union board member and sponsor of the dance committee is in charge of the "Dry-Night Club" dance. Other members of the committees are: Entertainment, Ed Trumble, Bob Easter; Publicity, Pat Busey, Don Cook, Don Franklin; Food and Menus: Archie Dillman, Milton Belzer; Decorations, Byron Hooper, Betty Buchfinik, Bobby Kennedy, Bill McKee, Gaylon King.

The Student Union dance committee is considering plans for a future series of Dry-Night Club dances with new entertainment.
