Ag Style Show . . .

THE "NEW LOOK," HOME EC VERSION, is modeled by Lillian Lock in the Home Economics Style Show held March 3 in the Food and Nutrition building. Lynn Nordgren looks on and comments on the smart spring suit which Miss Lock designed and made for herself in a clothing class project. Fifty-three other girls also participated in the annual style show sponsored by the Home Ec Club.

Letterip

Mr. George Miller
Editor of The Daily Nebraskan
Sir:

Palladian Literary Society, having sent representatives to the two discussion meetings on the National Student Association, believes that this is one of the most important questions to come before the student body of the University of Nebraska this year.

Because we are in favor of democratically discussing the questions before the student body, we think it proper to present our view. We discussed the significance of joining NSA at our business meeting last Monday night and would like to take this means to make known a resolution passed at that meeting:

"Resolved: That the Palladian Literary Society expresses approval of the proposition before the student body of the University of Nebraska to affiliate immediately with the National Student Association.

Uni-Vets' Benefit To Collect Clothes

The big benefit dance of the year, a "Spring Fling" will be sponsored by the Uni-Vets organization at the Union, March 19, in the ballroom.

Jean Moyer and his orchestra will play for this dance, which is open to all university students for only the price of an article of clothing which can be sent to the needy in Europe.

In co-operation with the Uni-Vets drive for all types of sturdy clothing, especially ex-GI garments, booths will be set up in the City and Ag Unions to receive contributions, in return for free tickets to this dance.

Contributions will also be accepted at the door on Friday evening. The regular dance price of 44c will be charged for those having no clothing to offer.

Registration for the Union Bridge Tournay must be made in the Union office by Saturday noon.

A Juke-box fling will be held in the Union Ballroom, Saturday. There is no charge for this dance.

After A Fashion

By Nancy Jensen.

Not even the deep snow drifts, the blustering March winds, and the icy streets can discourage Nebraska couples from partying and dancing this Friday and Saturday nights. The attention of the sports-minded students, however, will be drawn to the Coliseum where they will remain loyal by cheering for the home team.

Since the winter weather in March isn't quite appropriate for the spring styles, the coeds are stepping out in winter fashions that will fascinate their escorts for the evening.

Spivak Plays.

The Turnpike and the music of Charlie Spivak is the idea of a perfect evening to numerous couples this Friday. Pinnates Marianne Srb and Dick Folda will be among those attending. Marianne will look enchanting in her black crepe dress styled with a faille side drape. The tiny faille, stand-up collar is accentuated by a gold Trifari choker, which Marianne will wear. Also dancing at the Pike will be Marilyn Eidam in a black faille ballerina dress. Peeking out from below the hemline is an edging of her red and white petticoat.

The Chi Omegas will blossom out this Friday for their annual spring formal. Many eyes and especially Tom Callan's, will be on Cherie Viele, as she dances in her black taffeta strapless formal trimmed in white lace. An old-fashioned touch is added to the gown by a black scarf which Cherie will wear around her shoulders. Polly Ann Rickly has chosen a chartreuse jersey dress that is highlighted by a wide gold-beaded waistband. And a long black drape, Glen Blinde will be Polly's partner for the evening.

Party, Party.

Saturday night dark-haired Ginny Guhin and Stan Nordgren will be among those partying at East Hills. Ginny plans to wear a black wool ballerina skirt and a white Gibson Girl blouse. Ginny's plaid petticoat will show slightly beneath her skirt.

Beverly Haarmann has chosen a navy blue faille, two piece dress to wear this week-end.

DRESSED APPROPRIATELY for the parties they will be attending this week-end are Helen Ullom, Kathryn Rhodes, and Shirley Wagner. Helen will be seen in her forest-green faille, two-piece dress at the Dri-Nite Club party Friday. Kathy is set for a good time at the Kappa Delta Toyland Kiddie party where she will wear the costume of a little girl. A large bustle, hip drapes, and a drop-shoulder fold highlight Shirley's taffeta formal. Shirley will attend the Chi O formal Friday night.
