Funds Donated To Movie Study

Dr. Wesley C. Meierhenry, University administrative director of visual education studies, announced the receipt of an additional gift of $22,900, making a total of $53,700 from the Carnegie Corporation of New York, enabling Nebraska to continue its study of the educational value of motion pictures through 1950.

The study, first of its kind anywhere, was started in the fall of 1946. Its aim is to find out just how good a teacher the sound movie is, and whether motion pictures can be of significant help in improving high school courses. Conducted in 25 Nebraska high schools, the tests indicated that pictures were of real help to students in biology, American history, physics, and world geography.

The University of Nebraska Teachers College, Extension Division, office of the State School Superintendent, State Teachers Colleges, and a number of high schools have teamed up to match the dollar grants of Carnegie with personnel, work, and facilities. Also cooperating are several non-Nebraska groups, including the Encyclopedia Britannica, Teaching Film Custodians, Coronet, and the March of Time, whose contributions total about $50,000 in cash and material.

Two years ago Bobby Ginn, noted big six miler returned to Nebraska after three and a half years in the army.

There will be a meeting of the American Association of University Professors Monday at 6 p.m. in Parlors A and B of the Union at which time Dr. Forbes, president of the Nebraska chapter, will report on the association's national convention.

Kansas State college is sponsoring its second annual rodeo this spring.
