

Republicans Attack Demo Policies In Both Foreign, Domestic Field

Dewey States Faith in GOP Leadership

Governor Urges European Unity, Strong Defenses

Apparently undismayed by his recent shut-out in the Wisconsin primaries, New York's Governor Thomas E. Dewey expressed faith in the certainty of Nebraska Republicans voting "with confidence, sincerity and real purpose" for a change in administration.

Dewey spoke to a near-capacity audience at the University coliseum Thursday night. His address was broadcast over a state-wide network.

Praises G. O. P.

"With a Republican administration," Dewey asserted, "I am convinced that we can solve our problems of inflation, debts and taxes."

He pointed out the importance of Nebraskans, as well as all other citizens, getting out to vote. "You may," he promised, "be sure the administration in Washington will hear your voice. It may not be a very bright administration, but it is politically sensitive."

The Governor declared that although Communist Russia has an imperial program of world conquest, "it seeks to conquer the world not by force but by political action, by preying on the fears and weaknesses of people, by fraud, by trickery and by terror."

Denounces "Weakness."

He blamed the present Democratic administration for "our weak foreign policy," observing that we have "not had any clear cut objectives, any long range goal." Dewey denounced both the program of appeasement advocated, he said, by Henry Wallace and the program offered by the Truman government, dismissing it with the statement that "it is not much better and it would only lead to war sooner."

In place of either of these offers, Governor Dewey outlined a two-point plan calling for strengthening of our national defenses and a United States of Europe.

Urges Free Trade.

"If the economic barriers between these nations (European) were removed, their production could move through a unified European economy and great new capital expenditures would develop mass production, yielding a rising standard of living and increased personal security," Dewey asserted.

Although he expressed approval of the European Recovery Program as a step on the road to European unity, the Governor emphasized the point that "we cannot possibly establish a lasting peace just by lending or

Catholic Students to Meet For Regional Convention

Delegates from Newman clubs of 36 universities and colleges will meet Friday, Saturday and Sunday for the eighth annual convention of the Central States Province of the Newman club foundation.

"Meeting the Challenge of Our Times" is the theme of the Catholic student organization's meeting.

The program begins with registration of chaplains at the Cornhusker hotel. After a welcome by Msgr. George Schuster, Province Chaplain, Rev. F. McPhillips, National Newman Club Chaplain, will preside over a general meeting.

Register at Union

Students and delegates will register in Parlors XYZ in the Union. In the evening there will be a social get-together at 8:30 at CYO hall at South 18th and J streets.

Saturday's program will be largely in the Union, beginning at 9:15. A banquet, followed by a dance, will be held in the Union ballroom Saturday night, beginning at 6:30.

The program will end Sunday April 11, with a tour of Boys Town. Students and delegates will meet at the Union at 1:30 for transportation.

Plan Policy

The policy of the Newman clubs of the region for next year will be formulated at the forums and discussions. Harold J. Luchtel, president of the five-state province, is in charge of the organization of the convention. He was one of Nebraska's delegates to the same convention last year at the University of Illinois. States represented are Iowa, Illinois, Kansas, Missouri and Nebraska.

Dr. C. Forbes, faculty adviser, will be toastmaster. The welcome will be given by Most Rev. L. B. Kucera, D.D., LL.D., Bishop of Lincoln. Chancellor R. G. Gustavson will address the group on "Meeting the Challenge of the Times," the theme of the convention.

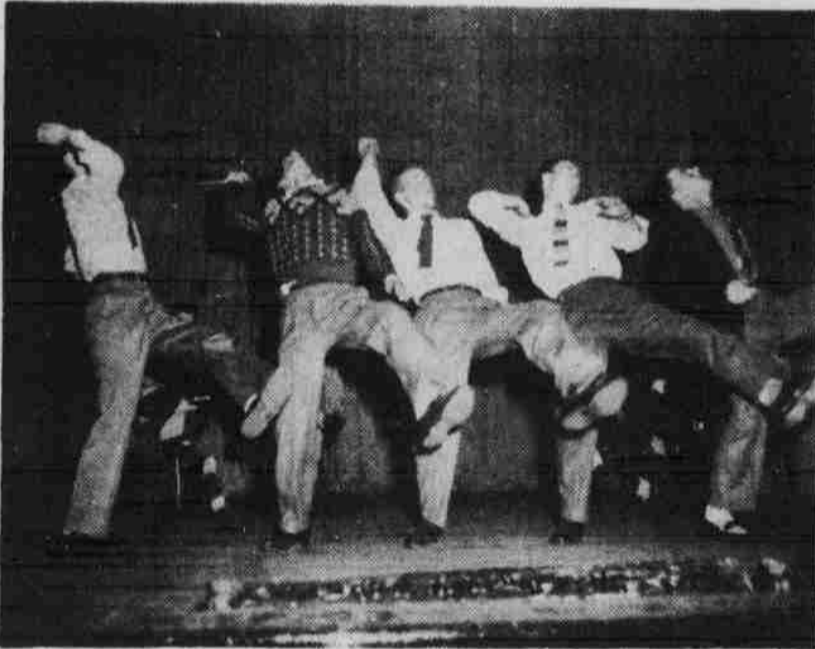

giving away money and food and machinery, no matter how noble our intentions or how generous our deeds."

"If," Dewey continued, "we will use our European recovery program to achieve the goal of a federated free Europe, then we will really begin to achieve the kind of a peace the whole world is praying for."

KK Show Highlighted By Gamblers, Misfits

THE CHORUS LINE for the forthcoming Kosmet Klub production, "Get Your Kicks," works out in the Temple Theater. The play will open there next Thursday, playing for three days.

The greatest collection of psychological misfits that ever descended on the Nebraska campus will assemble on the stage of the Temple Theatre, April 15, 16 and 17 to present the spring Kosmet Klub review, "Get Your Kicks."

The show will include everything from professional gamblers to sophisticated coeds.

Nightmare Created

This "nightmare on wheels" created by Bill Wiseman and Ken Greenwood features nine hit tunes and a bevy of all-male talent to present them. The authors, in collaboration with Dick Lahr and Av Bondarin, president and business manager of Kosmet Klub, are directing the show.

The authors claim: "The story is a portrayal of campus life and the leading character is so good it takes two men to portray him." Billingham, a back slapping politician, big time gambler and one of the greatest lovers of all time, requires the combined efforts of Bob Baum and Paul Harrington.

Rivals Billingham

Paul Walchuck will play Eustace who rivals Billingham in accomplishments both good and bad. The typical campus coed, a pseudo sophisticated young lady named Miss Burt, will be played by tenor Norman Wait.

Every college has a tyrannical Dean and Herb Jackman in the role of Newhouse gives himself high blood pressure with his fits of rage.

Tickets for the show are now on sale for 75 cents and reserved seats may be obtained Monday at the Temple theatre box office. "Last year's record of a packed house indicates an early sellout," said Lahr.

Any student regularly enrolled in any college or university may enter up to ten prints with no more than five prints in a single class. Closing date for entries is April 30.

Prizes will also be awarded for winners in the pictorial, industrial, sports, and fashion divisions. Focal Press, Inc., will award a set of six photography books to each of the photographers who receive honorable mentions in the five divisions of the contest.

Ag College Meet Boosts Interest In Coming Farmer's Fair Rodeo

Farmer's Fair rodeo outlook received a sizeable boost Wednesday evening at a meeting of the Rodeo committees and interested parties. Increased interest is attributed in part to the convocation Tuesday, acquainting students with the traditions of the event.

The arena has been laid out northwest of the college activities building, and chutes will be finished soon. Many students have brought their own horses to Ag college, where they are being kept through housing secured by James Dunlap, animal husbandry instructor and rodeo sponsor.

Mounts Needed

There is still a great need for mounts to be used for pickup horses, since many students are unable to bring their own stock.

Interest in the rodeo is not confined merely to the male population of the university, but coed interest was evidenced by their large attendance at the meeting Wednesday night.

Contest Planned

A special coed calf catching contest is being planned which requires no previous experience for participation. Anyone interested should plan to attend the

Stassen Says Victory Tells Party Growth

Aspirant Voices Optimistic Policy Concerning Peace

Wisconsin's recent election results were encouraging not as a "purely personal victory," but because they showed that "Republicans are building toward progress," Harold E. Stassen, now second in the race for the Republican presidential nomination, told an overflow crowd at a convocation in the Union ballroom Thursday afternoon.

Stassen finished far ahead of runner-up General Douglas MacArthur in Wisconsin's primary Tuesday.

Stassen declared that although the primary reason for our fear of war is doubtless communist growth, certainly the second is the weakness of U. S. foreign policy.

"There are two extreme schools of thought on this subject," the former Minnesota governor said. The first is appeasement which, Stassen said, he rejects because "you cannot pave the road to peace with the jelly-like blocks of appeasement."

Stassen rejected also the militarists who say we "cannot escape another war." "We must never surrender to the insidious whisper that war is inevitable," he asserted, and added that he sees grounds for optimism concerning peace.

Commenting on the communist danger in this country, Stassen stated that infiltration through gaining control of top positions is a recognized communist device, and that it is being methodically attempted in this nation.

"In the face of these tactics," Stassen declared, the Communist party should be "outlawed in America and in all liberty loving countries of the world."

This does not mean, he explained, that we should restrict the right of Americans to reject, oppose or dissent from what they believe wrong, but it does mean that any political organization with its basis in a foreign nation should be illegal.

Stassen stressed the fact that an affirmative campaign to win the world to democracy is necessary—"not through propaganda, but through information; the best counter to communism is to make the American system work better."

Under what Stassen termed our "superb economic system," he pointed out that the United States, with only one-sixteenth of the world's peoples, is producing all

500 Youths Visit Ag Campus For FFA and Vocational Meet

About 500 youths from throughout the state will be on Ag campus Friday and Saturday to participate in the state FFA convention and vocational education judging contests, according to H. E. Bradford, of the vocational education department.

Judging teams from 45 schools will contend in the vocational education contests, while the 90 chapters of FFA in Nebraska will be represented by their delegates at the convention.

Ribbons Awarded

Ribbons will be awarded in three groups in each judging contest, blue, red and white. The ribbons will be given to the winning teams and the runners up in each contest. Winners of some of the contests will be sent to regional contests.

Vocational education contests to be held Friday include: Poultry judging; crops judging and identification; farm management; dairy products judging; livestock judging; dairy management; project records, and crops and soils management. Saturday's contests are dairy cattle judging and farm mechanisms.

Tryouts Held

There are from 16 to 40 entrants in each contest. Tryouts have been held in some schools to determine which teams would participate while in other schools vocational education teachers have chosen the teams to come. The contests are in charge of Bradford and Claude C. Minter of the vocational education department at Ag college.

The contests to be held in conjunction with the state FFA convention are in public speaking, parliamentary procedure, and individual project books. The entrants in these contests are the winners of the district FFA convention contests. The winner of the public speaking contest will compete in the regional contest later this spring in Waterloo, Iowa.
