Foundation's UN Contributions Increase Tenfold This Year

Tenfold increase in contributions of the University Foundation to the university and its students was reported at the commencement day meeting of the Foundation trustees Monday.

Perry W. Branch, director-secretary, said Foundation benefits given the institution totaled ten times greater the first five months of 1948 than for all of 1944. He added that since 1944, the Foundation contributions to the university totaled $212,407.

The trustees also were told that the Foundation's newest solicitation program, the class agent plan, was "producing funds far in excess of expectations."

Joe W. Seacrest, Lincoln, general chairman of the class agent program, reported that funds have been received from 40 states and seven foreign countries. The plan has been in operation less than two months. Under its provisions, prominent alumni in each graduating class of the university sol-

Enrollment For Summer Hits 4,000

University summer school enrollment probably will total about 4,000—a drop of about 10 percent under last year's all-time record of 4,400.

Dr. G. W. Rosenlof, director of admissions, said 3,800 registrations were in Thursday with more expected, especially from Lincoln and Omaha where high school faculties are still on the job.

"The opening of the summer session at the university this year was advanced a week," Dr. Rosenlof explained, "and consequently not all of the Lincoln and Omaha teachers who plan to take advanced work were able to register prior to the start of summer classes."

He said the drop in total registration this summer was expected. Many of the veterans students who were in summer school last year were graduated this month.

Records Show Extent of Union Facilities Use

A few statistics have been chosen at random from Union records to give some indication of the extent of the usage of certain Union facilities during the school year.

Since the beginning of the fiscal to the end of last semester the Union had served 354,560 customers in the Crib, 153,736 meals in the Campusline, 37,833 at special luncheons and dinners, and 19,695 in the Main Dining room with still another 61,000 employes meals recorded, according to Director Duane Lake.

Building services show 71,956 people accommodated for private meetings and conferences. Traffic checks taken this winter and spring show that over 6,000 people come into the Union on an average weekday.

Futher Check.

A further check of recreational services shows Ping Pong equipment checked out approximately 165,000 times and playing cards over 45,000 times. The use of the Book Nook and Music room can only be roughly estimated, Lake said.

Attendance reports show nearly 10,000 people in attendance at Union sponsored dances and an additional 6,900 at organization dances. Convocations and lectures accommodated over 9,000, and Concerts about the same number. Sunday variety shows, plays and talent shows had an attendance of 13,720, with Siesta film hours another 4,725, Dancing Classes 2,878, coffee hours 5,125, bridge instruction, 881, open houses and special parties over 8,000 and craft instruction. Book reviews, tournaments, and music honors account for another 4,000.

Estimates Made.

A much further analysis of Union operations would undoubtedly prove interesting but estimates can only be made of how many times a student may enter the building to lounge, meet

Form Suggestions For Counseling, Guidance Work

Educators from 15 midwestern states will meet for three days beginning Wednesday on the University campus to formulate suggestions for the training of workers in guidance and counseling.

Prof. Ralph C. Bedell of the university Teachers College will direct the conference which is sponsored by seven educational agencies, including the U.S. Office of Education, and the Nebraska PTA congress.

In general, the conference will discuss the objectives of guidance and counseling in education and recommend training methods to provide qualified personnel.

Findings Compiled

Findings of the conference will be compiled and sent to Washington for use at a national conference to be held later this year. The national conference is expected to publish a standard bulletin for use throughout the U. S.

Besides the university, these other state agencies are sponsoring the midwest conference: Department of Vocational Education; Department of Public Instruction; State School Boards association and the State Education association.

The first day of the Middle States conference, Wednesday, will be devoted to general discussions and concrete examples of the guidance activities of administrators, teachers and counselors.

Thursday and Friday of the conference are to be set aside for intensive work by committee personnel in the preparation of the material to be submitted to the United States office of education.

Officials hope that every teacher training institution in this area will find it possible to be represented in one or more of these work committees.

The activities of the concluding afternoon of the conference will give all working committees opportunity to compare results with each other and to put their material in final form.

226 Register For All-State On UN Campus

Two hundred and twenty six talented boys and girls converged on the campus Thursday for the University's annual All-State high school course in music, speech and dramatic art. Prof. David Foltz of the university said 181 students were enrolled in music and 45 in speech. They will be given intensive instruction by university faculty members, display their accomplishments in a series of public concerts, and at the same time have lots of fun on a vacation with the fine arts, Mr. Foltz said.

Music students are given individual instruction in voice and instrumental music, and group instruction in band, orchestra and chorus performance. Speech students are instructed in dramatics, debate and discussion, radio, original speaking and interpretative reading.
