Editor Daily Nebraskan:

Our group will bring to the campus this election year some desirable political activity. The rising tide of interest in local and national politics is already evidenced by our unusually large membership of over 330 students. This is more than twice the figure of our Lancaster County group.

You will hear our candidate for Congress from the first district, Mr. Frank Morrison; the Democratic party's choice for the U.S. Senate, M. Carpenter, and many others this fall.

We think that the student body will find the humanitarian philosophy of the Democratic party a safe, desirable highway between the marshes of Wall Street animated Republicanism and Quixotic, Moscow apologizing Wallacism.

We Young Democrats believe that the minute a student enters the University he should cast off the shackles of his father's and his grandfather's politics and begin an objective and analytical search for—first, a philosophy of government and economics most compatible with the principles of Christianity and humanitarianism, and second, the means or the party that will best effect that philosophy in government.

We cordially invite the student body to attend our meetings and hear our candidates so that they will be more able to formulate a logical conclusion as to party affiliation.

D. E. MORROW, President,
U. of N. Young Democrats.

partment of Speech and Dramatic Art. The laboratory facilities have grown from nothing but a desk in the corner of Room 205 in the Temple Building to the present more modern type of clinical services, including the use of pure-tone audiometers for the testing of hearing, of portable record recorders and tape and wire recorders for the making of voice recordings, and the use of graduate and senior clinicians for retraining services.

Cooperating with the laboratories in offering more adequate services are the department of speech and hearing retraining health, the department of educational psychology, and the department of psychology. With this cooperation more adequate diagnosis can be made and more successful therapy can be applied.

Future plans of the laboratories are not necessarily those of an expansive nature. It is more the desire of the laboratories to improve upon the quality of services offered whenever and wherever possible. While the limited staff and limited working facilities make it necessary to maintain a waiting list of "off campus" cases, every effort is made to service the university students who came in or who are referred to the laboratories. At times, even these students must wait their turn.
