Honey-Pollen Plants Group To Meet July 12 on Ag Campus

Honey and Pollen Plants committee of the National Federation of Beekeepers associations.

The official program has been planned to stress the importance of the relationship between beekeeping and the rest of agriculture, according to Dr. Ephriam Hixson, professor of entomology at the college.

The university chemurgy project has concerned itself with experimentation with several crops of interest to beekeepers. One of these which the committee will discuss is mountain mint, which has shown promise as a source of volatile oils.

R. B. Willson, New York City. committee chairman, will open the meeting with an introduc-tion. Dr. Carl E. Claassen of the university chemurgy department and Prof. A. E. Schwarting of the pharmacognosy depart-ment will then discuss new crops for new uses.

In the afternoon three members of the university agronomy staff will talk on legumes and

Campus Wheel Described by Editorialists

BOONE, N. C. (ACP). An editorial writer in the Appalachian of the Appalachian State Teachers College "debunks the debunkers."

"The campus critizer and debunker-alias the 'campus wheel' usually falls into one of three groups, although the types sometimes overlap.

"The first group is composed of idea debunkers. An idea debunker is not always right, but he is never wrong; any thought or opinion other than his own, though it may belong to his professor, Einstein, or the little blonde freshman in the seat next to him, cannot possible be right and he will tell the world so.

"Second on theh list is the most ferocious of all criticizers - the female of the species. This is the 'critical eye' group. The critical eye type is found most abundantly in the eafeteria, at the book store, at dances and anywhere there is a crowd. She says little to her victim but sits in silence and makes mental notes; when she gets her chance she lets the venom fly.

"Last is the largest but least dangerous group — the radical ravers. It includes reforming, unhappy politicians and jabbering columnists along with many other screwballs that rave on just to hear themselves make a noise."

Potsy May Add Dare Has Taker Game to Fall Football Slate

One more game may be added to the 1949 University of Nebraska football schedule, George (Potsy) Clark, acting athletic director and football coach announced.

When Potsy took over at Nebraska the 1949 schedule was fairly well set with eight games. Since his arrival he has added Penn State on a home-and-home basis.

"I feel nine games which we now have are sufficient for any one season," Coach Clark said. "However, if the right team is found we may be playing another ten-game schedule as we are this

DISCOVERS AMERICA

Marlene Dietrich, one of the stars of Paramount's "A Foreign Affair" who spent the war years entertaining troops overseas, says: "I never knew the real America until I discovered it by mingling until I discovered it by mingling with the boys in uniform. Previously, I was familiar with only Hollywood and New York, and they are a long way from being representative America."

KINGSVILLE, Tex. (ACP). At Texas College of Arts and Industries a fifteen year unaccepted dare has a taker. To prove her theory that men are the conservative sex, Professor Edith Cousins has been challenging male members of her so-ciology classes to wear shorts to classes for one day. The reward proferred was two chicken dinners (originally an ice cream soda, the reward has grown with the years).

The shorts wearer announced that he was so comfortable in his white British tropical shorts— with cuffs, that he plans to wear them to closses again soon.
