

Maud Scheerer to Present Recital Tonight

Chung-Fu Chang Continues Talks On UN Tuesday

Fourth UN Educational Clinic Ends Activities Today

Dr. Chung-Fu Chang, Chinese historian and political scientist, will continue his lecture series today at the fourth and last United Nations clinic to be held at the university this summer.

He will speak this noon before the Lincoln Rotary club at the Cornhusker Hotel, on "The Big Five" and will continue with informal talks before undergraduate and graduate classes. Monday noon he spoke on "Can the UN Help Asia?" at a faculty luncheon and Monday evening he addressed an audience at Love Library auditorium on "How Can the People Contribute to the UN?"

Dr. Chang received his bachelor of arts and doctor of philosophy degrees from the University of Michigan and also attended the Brookings Institute. He was a faculty member of National Peking University from 1931 to 1937.

Dr. Chang was a member of the Chinese delegation to the Dumbarton Oaks conference in 1943 and a member of the Chinese delegation to the San Francisco conference in 1944. He is now advisor to the Chinese delegation to the UN. He is author of two books on Chinese politics and diplomacy. Dr. F. E. Sorenson, clinic director, said that the first three clinics were "very successful" and that public reaction has been very favorable to the well-informed speakers.

First Speaker.

First speaker was Dr. Walter Harris, program and studies office, special services division of the department of public information, United Nations. Harris, a native New Zealander, spoke on "The UN, What Is It?" Harris is a specialist in international relations.

Second speaker was Dr. William Agar, chief educational officer of the department of public information, United Nations. General theme of that clinic was "UN, What Are Its Achievements?"

Clyde Eagleton, specialist in the United Nations Secretariat on the organization and work of the interim committee "Little Assembly," was the third speaker. Theme of his lectures was "UN, How Can It Be Strengthened?" He also spoke on "Possible Effects of Recent Political Developments on the United Nations."

Famous Broadway Artist To Act Krasna Production

Actress Will Take All Parts In Unique Program Scheme

In her recital "Bringing Broadway to You," Maud Scheerer, actress, recitalist and dramatics teacher, will present "John Loves Mary" by Norman Krasna in the last program of the summer artist series sponsored by the Union tonight at 8 p.m. in the Union ballroom.

Krasna is the author of a number of plays including "Dear Ruth."

Maud Scheerer is as well known to the Broadway stage as she is to the concert and lecture platforms throughout the country. Her recital, "Bringing Broadway to You," has given thousands throughout the nation the authentic feel of the New York stage.

In the course of her recital, Miss Scheerer condenses outstanding Broadway plays, acts several of the leading parts and presents a critical summary of the production. In her current recitals, Miss Scheerer has given condensations of "All My Sons," "Joan of Lorraine," "Finian's Rainbow" and "Harvey."

This one-woman theater has entertained audiences with her extraordinary ability to create the impression that the stage is peopled with a full cast.

Miss Scheerer's talent is backed by a grounding in dramatic art that is matched by few American actresses. She studied with Leland Powers, George Riddle and Mme. Tamara Daykarhonova, as well as studying in Europe. She was head of her own Shakespearean company, and was a member of the Theatre Premier Albert in Paris. As a recitalist she appeared in London.

Maud Scheerer's excellent character acting is seen in Summer Stock from Pennsylvania to Minnesota, and her Hanougi, the Egyptian, in "Bathsheda" with the British star, James Mason, is remembered for its authentic and masterly portraiture.

Recognized as one of the country's leading dramatic coaches, Maud Scheerer presents her courses in acting, interpretation, and platform art in various universities and colleges, including Minnesota, Baylor, Brigham Young, MacPhail, Northwestern college of speech. At her New York studio she numbers among her students radio, screen and stage personalities.

Miss Scheerer has written widely on good acting as a key to personality, her articles appearing in the Reader's Digest, the American magazine, the New York Post, Sun and News, and other publications.

MAUD SCHEERER

Swine Research Center Dedication Slated Sept. 24

Regarded as one of the finest buildings of its kind in the United States, the new Swine Research center at the university will be officially dedicated on Friday, Sept. 24.

Plans for the dedication were announced by Dr. L. E. Hanson, in charge of swine investigations. It will be in connection with the Rooters' day at the university hog farm located east of Lincoln.

Swine research of a fundamental and applied nature is being conducted in the building which has a frontage of 110 by 30 feet. It is constructed of brick and contains two farrowing wings with 20 pens in each wing.

VA to Need 2,700 More Clerks for NSLI Kitty

WASHINGTON, D. C.—The Veterans Administration is planning to hire 2,700 additional employees to help split up the one billion dollar "kitty" accumulated from surplus service insurance funds paid by 20,000,000 veterans who hold or have held NSLI policies. The American Legion has learned.

VA branches throughout the nation will do most of the work of auditing individual GI insurance accounts, preparing the checks and distributing them.

Five Top Winners in Regents Competition Told by Rosenlof

Five Nebraska high school seniors making top grades in the annual University of Nebraska Regents scholarship competition were announced Friday by Dr. G. W. Rosenlof, university admissions director.

The exams were taken last spring by 2,400 seniors competing for 250 scholarships awarded by the Board of Regents. The scholarships carry a value of $120 which is applied toward freshman tuition and fees at the university.

High Scorer

Highest scorer was Kathrine Ann Boersma of Superior, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Boersma. Kathrine was also active in student affairs. She was president of the Y-Teens, and editor of the yearbook. She plans to become a teacher of psychology.

Other winners, in descending order are:

Carl L. Tipton, Valley, son of Mr. and Mrs. L. R. Tipton, who plans to get a college education in the field of psychology.

Emil L. Volcheck, Jr., Omaha, son of Mr. and Mrs. Emil J. Volcheck, Sr., who plans to become a chemist.

Patricia Kaveney, Columbus, daughter of Mrs. Lois Kaveney, who finished high school in three years and plans to continue with a college education, but still undecided on which course of study.

John W. Smith, Omaha, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. Donald Smith, who in addition to being fifth highest scoring senior in the state, won eight other scholastic honors during his senior year at Omaha Central high school. He plans to seek a college education.

Last Nebraskan

Tuesday's issue will be the last Daily Nebraskan published this summer. Next Friday's issue has been eliminated in view of the fact that it will be the last day of school and that finals will take up the latter part of the week.

N. Barnard At Engineer Profs Meet

Professor N. H. Barnard of the Mechanical Engineering department at the university is among representatives from 27 colleges and universities attending a five week college professors' conference to study engineering and industrial practices at the General Electric company. The conference convened on June 28 at Union College in Schenectady, N. Y.

Confab Aims:

The conference is aimed at providing educators a better understanding of the training industry requires of college graduates. The educators are seeing first-hand the problems involved in bridging the gap between theoretical training, learned in college, and application of such training on the job, it was said.

This is believed to be the only course of its kind in American industry approaching the technical training problems from the point of view of the engineering educator. The conference opened with a one-week orientation course, in which the professors-turned-students learned G-E organization.

Solve Problems.

In following weeks, each professor is being assigned to the plant or department in which he is most interested, and is given actual industrial and production problems to solve. Professor Barnard was assigned to the G-E Testing Division at the Schenectady plant.

Only about half of the group remained in Schenectady for the field training while the other half went to other major G-E plants.

The professors will return to Schenectady for the final week of the conference to recapitulate work done. This period will give each professor an opportunity to hear all problems encountered and the respective solutions worked out. Also during the final week, representatives of the company and the professors will discuss the conference theme: Cooperation Between Industry and the Colleges.

Fullbrook Posts Biz Ad Awards

Recipients of three University of Nebraska business administration college scholarships were announced Friday by Dean Earl Fullbrook.

The awards, all for the 1948-49 school year, are:

The W. Langworthy Taylor Scholarship, $250, for a woman undergraduate, awarded to Elizabeth Q. Ward, Brock;

The O. N. Magee scholarship, $100, for a junior with high scholarship has a professed interest in retail merchandising, awarded to Ramon K. Kunc, Wilber;

The O. N. Magee Memorial Scholarship, $100, for a sophomore of high scholarship who has held a Regents scholarship, awarded to James M. Wroth, Lincoln.

"UNESCO Courier" Praises Handbook Edited by Knapp

A booklet describing the aims and work of the agency of the United Nations, published by the University of Nebraska, is getting international recognition, the University Press announced Thursday.

A review praising the publication appears in the current issue of "UNESCO Courier," published in Paris, France, and distributed to schools and colleges in all of the U.N.'s 54-member nations. Recently the U. S. State department purchased 100 copies to be distributed to American consular offices throughout the world.

Favorable reviews also have been published in "Education for International Understanding in American Schools," a book recently published by the National Education Association; "School and Society," journal of the Society for the Advancement of Education; and "Social Education," journal of the National Council for Social Studies.

The handbook was edited by Dr. Royce Knapp of the University's teachers college. Titled, "UNESCO and Nebraska Secondary School Youth," it contains recommendations for teachers on how to present information about the United Nations Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization in and outside the classroom.

DR. ROYCE KNAPP

22 Students Granted Noyes Scholarships for Next Year

Twenty-two University of Nebraska students, including seven freshmen, have been granted Laverne Noyes scholarships for the coming year, the office of student affairs announced Wednesday.

Only descendants of World War I veterans are eligible for the awards which are granted on a basis of scholarship, character, and need. Applications for the scholarships were more numerous than usual this year, according to Lee W. Chatfield, assistant to the dean of student affairs. The awards amount to $60 per semester.

The scholarships were awarded to the following:

James H. Amos, Mary Lou Carr, Grace E. Haskins, Joan E. Hosfield, Dorothy A. Kurth, Joan E. Rasmussen, and Marjorie Ann Reeve, of Lincoln; Eugene Paul Berg, Omaha; Warren J. Bell, Chester; Edwin W. Bruere, Alliance; Dorothy E. Dewey, Gates; Allen B. Hagelin, Aurora; Bonita E. Kirkman, Benkelman; Virginia A. Lapp, Kearney; Ruth E. Lind, Ashland; LaReta R. Meier, DeWitt; Harriet L. Moline, York; Keith L. Nelson, Sargent; Ross D. Newcomb, and Donald and Harold Summers of Cambridge, and Arla M. Solfermoser, West Point.