BY HAROLD ABRAMSON.
 Daily Nebraskan Sports Editor

Nebraska's Cornhuskers could be the wrench in the Big Seven conference title race this year at least if they continue performing as they have in recent scrimmages. Promotion of Bill Mueller to the varsity last week seems to have given the backfield an added punch. Mueller's hard running should ease some of Coach Potsy Clark's backfield worries.

Rumors still persist that Nebraska's 1948 and 1949 games might be the last with Minnesota. The Golden Gophers have been very receptive to a series with Michigan State and would have to terminate the Nebraska series to schedule the Spartans. According to a Minneapolis sports writer Nebraska is not giving the Gophers the kind of testing competition it wants in early non-conference play and unless the Huskers recover from the slump they have been in since the start of the war Minnesota may change grid foes. It seems that Bernie Bierman, Gopher head man, is not in favor of early run-away games.

Maybe this year's squad which seems to have gained the spirit and enthusiasm which was so lacking last year will be able to write a different ending for Minnesota and a Minneapolis sports writer. At least we have to admit that those are very painful words.

If we were passing out orchids we'd send a dozen to Coach Potsy Clark whose enthusiasm and spirit has not only been caught by his players but by most of the student body on campus. If spirit alone could win games Mr. Clark's boys would win them all!

The 1948 edition of the Cornhusker team will have plenty of opportunity to stage upsets this season. We say this because as the 1948 season opens we can see the Huskers as logical favorites in only three of their ten games. Nebraska rates a slight edge at this time over Iowa State, Colorado and Kansas State. In the other games they will probably be rated as underdogs. We think the Huskers will be tough stumbling blocks regardless of how they are rated.

In tomorrow's edition of this paper Cub Clem, Lee Harris, Fritz Simpson, Bob Phelps and yours truly of the Daily Nebraskan staff will start a weekly chart of winning predictions for the Nation's football teams.

Report Announces $65,000 Profits in Athletics for Year

University athletics showed a new profit of approximately 65 thousand dollars the past year according to the annual report of Business Manager Ad Lewandowski.

The Cornhuskers' gross revenue for the year was $496,286.31 which included $127,914.64 paid in guarantees to visiting teams.

Lewandowski's financial statement reveals the department had $139,686.40 in cash and bonds on hand July 1, 1947. This jumped to $204,488.06 on July 1, 1948. Biggest share of the balance has been earmarked for plant improvements.

Officials hope to start work late this year on completion of the Field House at the north end of Memorial Stadium. The structure probably will be completed for use next fall.

Drop Expected
 An estimated 433 thousand dollar drop is expected by Mr. Lewandowski. He expects departmental and maintenance expense to shrink from the $431,484.65 last year to 409 thousand dollars.

Football shows the heaviest gross income of $462,824.04. Revenue by sports:

Last year's football schedule produced an income of $216,835.85, of which $67,816.57 was produced by the Notre Dame game. The Husker share of the South Bend gate was $72,691.10 and the trip expense was $4,874.53. Nebraska's smallest guarantee was the $6,609.37 received from Iowa State.

Cornhusker basketball also showed a net gain of $3,894.71. The largest home gate was $3,480.-87 for the Kansas State game. Missouri drew $2,526.35 and Purdue $2,427.92.

The university's athletic expense last year totaled $431,484.65 of which $127,914.64 was paid in guarantees to visiting teams. Salaries totaled $73,584.83.
