Your Church and You

By Bev Sievers

In observance of All-University Church Sunday, sponsored by the Religious Welfare Council, the Lincoln churches are holding recognition services for the students on Sept. 19. In addition to these morning services, the student groups are holding get-acquainted meetings in the evenings.

All students are urged to attend the church of their choice on Sunday morning and take the opportunity of meeting other students of their denomination at the additional meeting.

Baptist.

There will be a supper meeting at the Baptist Student House at 5:30 p. m., followed by a discussion, led by Gordon Lippett, executive secretary of the University YMCA.

Christian.

The student group will meet at the First Christian church to hear Dr. C. H. Arnold, recently returned from China. The meeting will begin at 5:00 p. m. and will be followed by a Vesper service.

Congregational and Evangelical Reformed.

Students will meet at 5:00 p. m. in room 22A of the Temple building for discussion title, "What's Worth While?" led by Dean A. Worcester, of the department of Educational Psychology on campus.

Vespers and recreation will be held at Plymouth Congregational church, 20th and D st., at 7:30 p. m., Sept. 19.

Students in the vicinity of 25th and S st. will find discussion and recreation at Vine Congregational church, at 7:00 p. m.

Episcopal.

There will be both 8:30 a. m. and 11:00 a. m. services in the Episcopal church, 13th and R st., with Father Whitley officiating. The 8:30 service will be a Holy Communion and breakfast will be served in the club rooms following the service. Choral Eucharist and sermon will be held at 11:00 a. m. with the student choir leading in the music.

Evangelical Covenant.

Students may attend Bible Class at 9:45 a. m. in the First Evangelical Covenant church, 20th and G st., and in the 11:00 service, recognition will be given to students. The Youth League is sponsoring the 7:00 p. m. service.

Lutheran.

The Missouri synod group will meet in room 315 of the Student Union at 10:45 a. m. Rev. Henry Erck will officiate at the service.

The L.S.A. will hold a Bible class at 9:15 at 1440 Q st. and two separate programs in the evening. The Ag group will meet at 1200 No. 37th with Alice Otterness, the assistant student counselor, leading the discussion at 5:00 p. m. and Rev. Alvin Petersen leading the city group at the First Lutheran church, 17th and A, also beginning at 5:00 p. m. A cost supper will be served.

Methodist.

The University of Life program will begin at 5:30 and Rev. Clarence Forsberg will lead the discussion.

Presbyterian.

There will be a picnic especially for freshmen and new students on All-University Sunday. All students are invited to attend and meet the new student pastor, Rev. Rex Knowles. The group will meet at the Presby House, 333 No. 14th, and proceed from there to Pioneers Park. A picnic lunch will be served and Vespers will be held.

Campus News In Brief

Attention! Here's a list of "Do's" for all ye CORN COB WORKERS who have not yet attended meetings!

1. Check out Cornhusker sale books at the Cornhusker office.
2. Turn in money for football tickets to Frank Loeffel at the Farm House by 6 p. m. today.
3. Attend the next meeting Tuesday at 5 p. m. in room 313 at the Union.

Faculty and student members of DELTA SIGMA PI, professional bizad fraternity, are advised that a business meeting will be held on Monday, Sept. 20, at 7 p. m. in room 316, Union.

All students wishing to have chest X-RAYS taken must make an appointment with the Student Health Center, either this week or next, according to Dr. Fuenning of Student Health. The unit will leave the campus next week.

The X-Rays are a part of the annual TB survey and are given free to all students. If students fail to have their X-Rays taken by next week the X-Rays will no longer be given free, said Doctor Fuenning.

ALL-UNIVERSITY VESPERS will be held Sept. 16 at 5 p. m. in the Episcopal Church at 13th and R Streets. Miss Ruth Shinn, new Y.W.C.A. executive secretary, will be the speaker.

CORNHUSKERS STAFF MEMBERS are asked to meet Saturday, Sept. 18, at 10 a. m. in the Cornhuskers office.

The UNI-VETS are in need of two veteran students' wives for employment at the University. Any student's wife desiring employment should contact the Uni-Vets at 209 Nebraska hall or call extension 3242. The Uni-Vets have had an employment service for students and their wives for the last three years, and any student veteran desiring employment should get in touch with the Uni-Vets.

Parking . . .

enforced by campus police. Although next week only warning cards will be issued, on September 27, violation tags will be issued.

Student violators must report to a court handled by the student council. The student council court will be empowered to assess fines comparable to those handed out in the city traffic court. All fines will go toward a scholarship fund.

The board of regents announced that if a student repeatedly violated the traffic regulations he will be subject to suspension or expulsion from the university.

Faculty members, or other university employes, who violate the traffic regulations, will get regular police tickets and must report to the municipal traffic court and pay the fines determined by the municipal judge. Lincoln residents without permits to park within the campus will get the same kind of tickets.

Laws Have Legal Basis. All these regulations have a legal basis under the laws of the state and city ordinances.

The six who drafted the new traffic setup are Dean C. W. Borgmann, Business Manager J. K. Selleck, Professor G. C. Ernst, Professor J. S. Blackman, and president of the Student Council Dale Ball.

According to Ball, the new traffic regulations deserve the support of all student drivers because the new rules show no favoritism, faculty and student members being treated alike. The money from fines will go toward a scholarship fund. The student body had a major say-so in formulating the new set-up, and the system is operated on a democratic basis whereby student offenders will be assessed fines by a student court.

The University has provided 1,400 parking stalls this fall, 50 percent more than last year. This was done by (1) converting all off-campus areas owned by the university into suitable parking area and (2) acquiring by rental, additional areas for parking; and (3) increasing parking areas on the campus by reducing red-line areas to a minimum and installing angle parking instead of parallel parking wherever practical.

Results of Riot . . .

As a result of last spring's student riot over campus parking difficulties, a six man committee including the Student Council president has worked out a parking permit system in the hope that it will solve at least a majority of the University parking problems. Details of the plan appear on Page 1 of The Daily Nebraskan.

The committee has spent much time and effort in the last several months mapping out a system that will be the fairest one possible and which will accommodate the most number of students and faculty. Students and faculty members will be treated equally in the issuance of the parking permits.

Because such a project has never been attempted at Nebraska before and is therefore experimental, and because any such plan needs time to be perfected, we urge everyone to co-operate willingly and with a minimum of griping. If adjustments are necessary, they will be made. However, the parking situation can be solved, and the parking permit system can work only with the whole-hearted cooperation of all University car-owners.

Faculty, University employee and Lincoln resident violators of the new regulations are to receive actual police tickets and will report to the municipal traffic court to pay the fines. However, student violators will report to a student council-operated court which will assess fines and hear appeals.

The student court will be another new-comer to the Nebraska campus and, along with the whole parking plan, will be in the experimental stage this year. A summons to this traffic court should not be laughed off and thrown away. The campus police will keep a record of tickets issued and student offenders will be held responsible for their fines.

It is important that all car-drivers on the campus remember that this system has been worked out for their benefit and to give them more parking space for their cars. There is no excuse for an individual living on the campus or in the immediate vicinity driving a car to classes unless he is physically handicapped. It merely deprives others of needed space. That is the reason for the eight-block restriction on permits.

The parking rules are few and simple, so follow them and apply for your parking permit today!

New Students Attend Y.M.C.A. All-University Freshman Camp

More than 100 new men students recently attended the first All University Freshman Camp at Crete. This camp was sponsored by the University Y.M.C.A. which hopes to make an annual event of the project.

Dean Carl W. Borgmann opened the project with a talk before approximately 150 freshmen, Y cabinet members and faculty members. "There is a great need in today's world for conservation, culture and Christianity," Borgmann told the group. His talk was followed by group singing led by the Rev. Rex Knowles. Dick Srb, freshman chairman of the YM, introduced Don Crowe, YM president, who presided at the remainder of the session.

When the afternoon meeting was concluded, the group was entertained with a variety of sporting events. Those in charge of the events were: Truman Bachenberg, softball; Dick Srb, football; Bill Reuter, volleyball; and Ted Sorensen, swimming.

The evening program began with a welcome by Professor A. E. Epp, chairman of the University Y.M.C.A. Board of Management. Professor Bernard Fuhr, Junior Division guidance consultant, also addressed the group, outlining the orientation program for

Morrill Hall Houses UN Art Collection

Hidden behind the brick walls of Morrill Hall is the university's all important art collection.

The university museum of modern art, which includes both Hall collection and the Nebraska Art Association collection, is considered one of the finest in the country. Such men as Grant Wood, Curry, Kuniyoshi, and Rattner are represented. Also work of such sculptors as Laurent, Amino and Martin may be seen. Besides housing over 300 paintings in the collections, Morrill Hall is the home of the photographic exhibit of the Lincoln Camera club.

The new additions to the collection are chosen during the spring show. They are selected on the basis of artistic merit, general interest and historical importance. The selection is made by outstanding critics. From the show only a few are chosen for the Hall collection, but the cost of these paintings is about $10,000. The Nebraska Art Association also buys two or three paintings from the show for their collection in Morrill Hall. Now on exhibit are the student artists' works that went to the Delta Phi Delta show, where the university chapter was voted the best in the nation. The collection has been built up under the direction of Dwight Kirsh, director of the university galleries. Kirsh has been with the university over twenty years, and it has been largely by his efforts that this collection exists.

Trank Exhibit Opens Sunday

An exhibit of the paintings of Lynn Trank, University graduate from Cook, will open Sunday for three weeks in Gallery A, Morrill Hall.

The group includes casein, tempera and oil paintings, drawings and several of Mr. Trank's illustrations from the book "Febole Feboldson," published last January by the University Press.

Trank, who graduated shortly before the war, served in the armed forces and then taught a semester at the University. He has had advanced study at Washington University in St. Louis and at present is doing work at the University of Iowa.

As an artist he is a definite individualist. His paintings reflect a sly humor, as in the series showing passengers on buses.
