Wednesday's announcement that intramural touch football might not be played because of lack of playing space caused much comment on the campus.

Many touch football enthusiasts voiced the opinion that intramural play be stopped entirely if touch football is not to be played. Their reasoning is that if the game is dropped this year many of the traditions and friendly rivalries will be lost forever.

Big 7 Readies Team's Strategy

Big Seven teams moved into high gear Wednesday in preparation for Saturday's games.

Coach Abe Stuber's Iowa State stressed passing and defensive tactics. Stuber will start Jim Sutherland in the backfield against Nebraska instead of Don Ferguson.

The Cyclones lost the services of Guard Dana Omer for the Husker clash. Omer's toes were injured in the Iowa Teachers contest last week.

Kansas State's Coach Ralph Graham had Ross Estes, fleet halfback, running line plays while Dana Atkins threw passes. The Wildcats worked on punting and passing for their game with Illinois.

Coach Don Faurot will take 40 men to Columbus, O., for the Ohio State game Saturday. The Tigers worked on forward pass offense against the freshmen and then used defensive tactics against the Ohio State T formation.

Oklahoma's varsity received a jolt from a hard fighting frosh team which held the first team to a standstill during a long scrimmage.

A hard scrimmage against the second string helped Coach Dallas Ward pick out the defects in the Colorado line. The Buffs will be on the lookout for New Mexico's Rudy Krall, and Joe Stell.

Huskers Have Light Workout

Coach Patsy Clark's charges went through a light workout Wednesday, at least it was light compared to previous scrimmages.

The first string spent most of the two hour workout in signal practice.

All three elevens worked out against the scout club with the varsity using defensive tactics most of the session. The Huskers looked ragged in spots but should be in condition by game time Saturday.

Wednesday's scrimmage was to be the final session for the week with the tapering off beginning Thursday.

The Huskers appear to be in fine spirits and Coach Clark hopes to keep them that way for Saturday's conference test. After Friday's practice the team will go to the Ag college campus where they will stay in the armory over night.

Cletus Fischer was suited up but did not play because of an eye injury sustained in Tuesday's session. He will be ready for Saturday's game. Rugged Mike DiBiase had to leave the scrimmage when his knee started giving him trouble.

All Acquaites will meet Thursday evening at 7:15 at the Coliseum.

N-Club's Initial Meeting Sees 'Spirit-Line' Plans

At the first reunion of the "N-club," a luncheon-meeting held Wednesday noon, President Alex Cochrane proposed, with the immediate approval of the group, the organization of a "Spirit Line."

The "Line" will consist of a double-row of "N-club members" from the locker rooms to the playing field, through which the entire team will pass approximately ten minutes before game-time.

Pats on the back, hand-claps, wishes of "good luck," and words of general encouragement will be the keynote of the project.

Athletic Director Patsy Clark, who addressed the meeting, said, concerning spirit, "Those boys on the field will not only be out there for you fellas, (N-club) but for everyone in the state of Nebraska."

To the board of athletics, Jack Hazen and Fred Metheny, were nominated at the meeting. Of these two, the board of regents will select one as the "N-club's" spokesman on all matters coming before the board.

The "N-club," at their meeting, formulated a formal request to all persons who earned high school letters in any sport to please refrain from wearing them on the university campus. The only letters to be worn are the varsity "N" and the freshman numeral sweater. The high school sweater, minus the letter itself will be allowed to be worn.
