Surgical Pathology Display Housed in Med Library

On display this month in the Medical Library is an interesting series of surgical pathology drawings by the late August F. Jonas, noted surgeon and pioneer in Nebraska medicine.

Dr. Jonas was recognized as one of the ablest surgeons of the Middle West and was known in surgical circles all over this country and in Europe. The drawings represent pathological tissue removed at operation by Dr. Jonas over a period of many years.

World Traveler.
A world traveler and collector, Dr. Jonas owned one of the finest private mineral collections in the country. The display case in the library hall contains a set of exact replicas of ancient surgical instruments which Dr. Jonas discovered in the ruins of Pompeii. Many valuable books now on the shelves of our library came from Dr. Jonas' magnificent collection.

Dr. Jonas' name is closely linked with the development of almost every phase of Nebraska medicine. He came to Omaha in 1887 after having studied in Chicago, Vienna, Berlin and Paris. He was chief surgeon for the Union Pacific railroad for 27 years, and one of the founders and chief of surgical staff of the Methodist hospital, whose organization he made possible by a gift of $30,000. Friends assert that Dr. Jonas pledged every cent he owned to this venture. During the

Anatomy Book Makes Change To New Look

The big green books that everyone in the freshman class has been carrying around for ornamentation this fall are just copies of Gray's Anatomy with the New Look.

The twenty-fifth American edition of this discourse to end all discourses on the subject of anatomy apparently is characterized by its similarity to the familiar red colored twenty-fourth edition with the exception of a few new plates and an addition to the section on superficial anatomy.

To save a trip down town for all freshmen it might be commented that the people who publish the College Outline Series are just as uninterested in the new Gray Outline Series as in the old one, holding the same opinion as the anatomy department, that the 1,400 pages of Gray is the briefest outline possible.

Actuaries have figured, on the basis of the number of transactions, that there are 8,000,000,000 chances of error in a single National Service Life Insurance account.

first World war, he was instrumental in organizing Nebraska Base hospital No. 49 for service in France and also the Omaha Ambulance Company.

Med Club Founder.
He was chairman of the Surgery department of the Omaha Medical College and of its immediate successor, the University of Nebraska College of Medicine, for 35 years. From 1899 to 1902 he was dean of the former school.

It was in Dr. Jonas' office that there was founded in the late 80's the Omaha Medical Club, forerunner of the Omaha-Douglas County Medical Society. Dr. Jonas held many honors including a charter membership in the American College of Surgeons, and an honorary L.L.D. from the University of Nebraska. He died in 1934.
