Cadet Officers to Entertain Finalists.

The six girls who receive the highest number of votes in this election will be the guests of the Cadet Officers association at a tea to be given Wednesday, Oct. 27, in Parlors XYZ of the Union. The Cadet Officers association will then select the 1948 Honorary Colonel from the finalists.

The selection of the Honorary Colonel is sponsored annually by this organization. Their choice remains a secret until her presentation at the Military Ball. This year the Military Ball will be held Friday, Dec. 3. At her presentation, the Honorary Colonel will wear a costume designed by the winner of the contest which was opened for this purpose. The contest is the first of its kind ever to be staged at the University.

The 1948 Honorary Colonel will be the sponsor of the ROTC for the remainder of the school year and will take part in some of its activities.

Regents' Store to Operate On Strict Non-Profit Basis

In a meeting with representatives of the administration Monday, the Student Council bookstore committee secured the University's sanction on the eight principles recommended by the Council for the operation of the Regents' Bookstore on a non-profit basis.

John K. Selleck, comptroller, and W. C. Harper, assistant dean of student affairs and student activity agent, represented the administration in the special meeting in the Chancellor's office.

Bookstore to Be Non-Profit

That "the University of Nebraska Regents Bookstore shall be operated as to be a non-profit enterprise" was the main statement in the student's recommendations. The second point was that "profit shall be defined as the net balance between the gross sales of books and supplies, and the cost of operation of the Bookstore."

According to the recommendations, "the cost of operation will be interpreted to include not only the initial cost of books and supplies to the Bookstore, but also such items as managerial salary, wages to employees, and a reasonable amount for utilities and rent." The amount for utilities and rent must be an estimate of cost, since the true cost could not be determined from the overall university expense.

Profits, Losses Balance

In striving to be a non-profit enterprise, the Bookstore must balance its profits and losses for succeeding years. For example, if the bookstore shall show a profit in one fiscal year, the administration shall take steps to reduce the profit for the succeeding year. If a loss is incurred within a fiscal year, the profit for the next year will be increased to the point where it will make up the loss.

To Print Financial Report

Harper also agreed to the publishing of a complete profit and loss statement entered last spring by the present student manager, Jim Cusick, covering the previous two years' business. This period was under another manager'ship.

Steps which the administration and the student manager plan to take to reduce student book prices this year will be decided upon in the near future and will be published when they are re-

YM-YW Hay Ride Scheduled Oct. 22

Hayrack rides will be the feature of the annual YM-YW Halloween party Friday, October 22.

Party-goers will meet at Ellen Smith hall at 7:15 p. m. After the hayrack ride, the party will adjourn to the green room of the city YMCA where Rev. Rex Knowles will direct games and square dancing. Refreshments will be served.

The Halloween party is for both stags and couples.

Ag Juniors File for Fair Board Posts

Filings are now in progress for junior members of Farmers Fair Board, according to Don Smith, manager of the group. Interested people should inquire in Dean Lambert's office, Room 202, Ag Hall.

Eligibility for the six positions on the board consists of being a junior enrolled in Ag college, and possessing a satisfactory scholastic average. Three men and three women will be selected from the group of registrants.

In addition to the members due for appointment, six seniors complete the roster of the Fair Board. Their sole responsibility is the presentation of the Farmers Fair, held every year in the spring. The 1949 fair, now in the embryo stage, will be the second since the revival of the event after the war.

Other members of the board include: Eunice Jensen, Harriet Moline, Phyllis Ross, Bob Eggert and Jack Baird.

Science Needs Moral Values —Rosenlof

America must anchor its scientific and technical "know how" to strong moral and spiritual values or face the prospect of destroying itself, Dr. G. W. Rosenlof, university director of admissions, said Friday night at a banquet celebrating the 50th anniversary of the university Dental college.

Addressing about 250 dentists from nearly 30 states, Rosenlof pointed out that new knowledge

Student Plays Emphasized On Radio Department Program

The soul of the departed Mssr. Bon-Bon was heard bargaining with the devil on Thursday's "Playwright's Matinee" over KFOR.

Program Emphasizes Student Plays.

"Playwright's Matinee," a regular KFOR feature produced, directed and enacted by the university's radio-speech students emphasizes original plays written by U.S. college students. The 15 minute shows are sponsored by Darrell Peters, instructor in the radio division of the speech department of the University.

One of the plays to come, according to William Dempsey, director of the radio department, is called "Virus 13." This is a weird story of the manufacturing of a completely indestructible bacteria which is completed on the thirteenth try by a group of scientists. The germ gets out of hand and threatens to destroy the human race.

Programs Listed.

Weekly programs put on by the radio department for the semester include:

Monday—Homemaker's chatter 4:30 p.m. KOLN
Tuesday—Farm Flashes on the Air 4:30 p.m. KOLN
Tuesday—Authors of the Ages 9:00 p.m. KOLN
Wednesday—Campus News 4:30 p.m. KOLN
Thursday—Playwright's Matinee 4:30 p.m. KOLN
Friday—Huskertime 4:30 p.m. KOLN
Saturday—Forum of the Air 11:00 a.m. KOIL
Sunday—Forum of the Air 10:30 a.m. KFAB

Friday's sports program, "Huskertime," will feature an interview with Coach Patsy Clark. Paul Shupach, radio sports reporter, will ask Patsy a few questions on the next day's game with Notre Dame.

Bryant to Speak At Weekly Vespers

All-University vespers, on Thursday, Oct. 21, will feature The Reverend Lowell C. Bryant, who will discuss "What We Can Know." His talk will deal with world order.

The vesper theme will commemorate the anniversary of the establishment of the United Nations on Oct. 24, a time designated as World Order Day.

Rev. Bryant will discuss the functions of the United Nations, its accomplishments thus far and relate these topics to the college student and his world. He will stress the extension of cooperation and fellowship as the best hope for world peace.

The service will be held at 5 p. m. at the University Episcopal church, 13th and B.

United Nations Day Slated For Oct. 24

Oct. 24 has been proclaimed United Nations day by the General Assembly, which is now meeting at the UN headquarters in Lake Success, New York. It was announced by Wayne O. Reed, State Superintendent of Public Instruction.

Plans are underway for world-wide commemoration of this day which is the anniversary of the coming into force of the United Nations Charter written in 1945 at San Francisco.

Reed stated that this international holiday will be spent in acquainting the peoples of the world with the United Nations, its aims and achievements. He also said that special emphasis will be given to showing how the work of the United Nations affects the individual citizen in each country and how the individual can contribute to the successes of the United Nations in its efforts for maintaining peace.

Many Nebraska schools are already participating in the Nebraska Educational Program on United Nations. Those schools and communities which do not have a specific educational program in progress now may utilize United Nations day as a time for inaugurating an appropriate program. The State Department of Public Instruction will assist all city and town schools, colleges, and county superintendents with plans for the day's program.

Materials concerning the United Nations will be made available through the United Nations Materials Center in the Extension division of the University.

and techniques must be discovered in laboratories and operating rooms.

"But the ends to which we put this knowledge is of equal concern. The enemy of man today is not his science, but his moral inadequacy," he said.

Rosenlof said that educational institutions can do much to equip young men and women with both professional competence and the qualities of "faith, hope and love" so necessary in the world today.

Three deans of the college of dentistry were honored at the banquet. They are: Dr. W. Clyde Davis, 1898-1918; Dr. George A. Grubb, 1918-1939; and Dr. B. L. Hooper. All of the men are from Lincoln.

Decorations Deadline

Houses which intend to compete in the Homecoming decorations contest are reminded that today is the last day entry blanks and fees may be turned in. Irwin Chesen, innocents treasurer, will be in The Daily Nebraskan office Tuesday from 1-2 p.m. to accept entries.

Van Vliet to Address AWS Convo Tuesday ... in Love Library

"Careers for Women" will be the subject of the address by Mrs. Donald D. Van Vliet, Girl Scout advisor on professional work, at a convocation at 5 p. m. Tuesday,

Mrs. Van Vliet joined the Girl Scout organization in 1943. Since that time she has traveled widely in the United States, conferring with city and regional Girl Scout groups on the selection and placement of professional personnel.

Previously Mrs. Van Vliet, who graduated from Smith College, was associated with the United States Employment Service.

Women from Union College, Nebraska Wesleyan and the University will hear Mrs. Van Vliet, who is a national staff member of the Girl Scouts of the United States. The convocation is sponsored by the AWS board.

"We felt that the talk by Mrs. Van Vliet will be especially valuable to freshmen who are deciding upon a career," Miss Johnston, dean of women, said. A resident of New York City,

Helen Ochsner Ends 3 Month Study in Europe

Miss Helen Ochsner, a senior majoring in home economics, has just returned from a three-month tour in Europe. She visited nine countries with 18 other American delegates in a study of conditions and youth educational opportunities.

Miss Ochsner spent most of her time on a farm outside of Stockholm. The Swedes, she said, were excellent hosts and wonderful cooks. She returned on the converted troopship which was 30 hours late in New York. The boat encountered the remains of a hurricane in the Atlantic.

Miss Ochsner will relate her experiences on the University of Nebraska radio program this Saturday, Oct. 16, on the 4-H club program on KFAB at 11:30 a. m., and on Farm Facts and Fun on the Nebraska network at 1 p. m.
