All foreign students on the campus have been invited. A price of 35 cents will cover the hayrack and refreshments.

Rent Control Office Invites Student Appeal

Students who are not satisfied with their living conditions may appeal to the Rent Control office, according to C. W. Watson of that office.

In an interview with Student Council committee members Thursday, Watson said that any student may complain if he feels that his living quarters are not satisfactory. However, the Rent office does not have control over every situation.

If a landlord rents rooms to more than two students, the Rent Control office has the power to set rent ceilings. But in cases where the landlord rents to only one or two students, that office has no jurisdiction.

It is the public health department which places restrictions on conditions of rooms.

Many complaints have been received by Student Council members concerning the conditions of rooms in Lincoln. Every effort is being made by the Council to help improve these conditions.

Watson urged any student with complaints to come to the Rent Control office, 1320 N street, Room 1. His case will be considered thoroughly, and any possible help or recommendations will be given to him.

KANSAS JAYHAWKS INVADE NEBRASKA CAMPUS

Kansas Jayhawks invaded the Nebraska campus yesterday.

Six KU students staged a victory rally in front of the Union in which they hung an effigy of the Cornhusker.

Stringing up the Nebraska man on a tree in the Union yard were two male members of the Kansas U. cheerleading squad. They were accompanied in the invading yellow convertible covered with victory slogans of KU by two Kansas U. Homecoming queen candidates dressed as Jayhawks. The female Jayhawks were complete in their costumes to yellow claws and beaks.

The Kansas ralliers issued an "in person" invitation to Nebraska students to attend the KU-Nebraska game in Lawrence this week-end. Through their megaphones, they urged the university migrationers to attend the KU Homecoming dance in their Student Union Saturday.

The Jayhawks staged their "penetration celebration" at 3 p. m. Thursday afternoon before a group of surprised Nebraska students and a number of prepared student photographers.

In the act of hanging an effigy of the Cornhuskers in a front of the Union were KU cheerleaders Bob Bragg and . . . art, as foraying Jayhawks invaded the university campus Thursday afternoon.
