

Fijis, Theatas Win Honors In House Display Contest

An Opportunity...

Phi Gamma Delta won the fraternity house decorations contest for the second year in a row, this time with the WATERFALL THEME seen above. A clever sprinkling device added to the reality of the display.

Kappa Alpha Theta and Phi Gamma Delta were named winners of the 1948 Homecoming decoration contest.

Runner-up in the sorority competition went to Gamma Phi Beta with Chi Omega finishing third. Rosa Bouton and Alpha Chi Omega received honorable mention.

Kappa Sigs Take Second.
Kappa Sigma took second in the fraternity group, and Theta Xi finished third. Sigma Nu and Farmhouse were placed on the honorable mention list.

The Theta's winning display featured the theme, "They don't have a Ghost of a Chance." It showed a Bruin running away from two NU ghosts, each two stories high.

Phi Gamma Delta displayed a huge waterfall with rock piles on each side. A Bruin was shown falling with the waterfall.

Gamma Phi Beta's decoration showed a bear going over the mountain to find itself confronted with a Cornhusker hunter.

"Three Bares" Featured
Chi Omega featured three bares, based on the "Three Bares" comic cartoons, hanging on a line with Dr. Patsy Clark cartooned as a physician.

Honorable Mention Rosa Bouton showed a Cornhusker squeezing UCLA oranges, and Alpha Chi Omega displayed Husker football players riding Bruins around a merry-go-round.

Kappa Sigs, second-place fraternity winner, featured a view of the Nebraska card section with three picture changes.

"Ruined Bruin Displayed"
"Reddy Teddy and Ruined Bruin" was the theme of the Theta Xi decoration. It showed a bear moving behind a brightly-colored "Huskers Fight" display. The "Ruined Bruin" then came out the other side.

Sigma Nu, honorable mention, displayed two Bruins rowing away from an ocean liner, and Farm House featured Cornhuskers throwing shucked Bruins into a fire pot, the finished product being Husker spirit.

University students have an opportunity this year to participate in an educational program on UNESCO, a part of the United Nations program.

If the co-operation of all organized groups can be secured the YMCA and YWCA will be able to go ahead with plans for a three-day educational UNESCO conference. Organizations will be grouped together to represent all the countries of the United Nations and other schools throughout Nebraska will send delegates to help in this representation.

Six members of each group will be an actual part of the conference, each serving on a committee of UNESCO. With all members of the various organizations working together on this, very little work or effort will be entailed. Any reference work needed could be divided among as many members as necessary to accomplish it with the greatest efficiency and a minimum of effort.

The conference is to be built along the same lines as the well-known peace conference held on the Nebraska campus a few years ago. This conference gained national recognition. Now, the University of Nebraska has an opportunity to put on an even better conference about a topic of current and vital interest. It also promises to be of great value to students. It offers a chance to learn and understand the purposes, accomplishments and workings of UNESCO, a project in which Chancellor Gustavson has taken an extremely active part.

Letterip

Dear Editor:

It is true that we vets don't have to concern ourselves with the high cost of new books. If it weren't for the veterans on this campus, however, the University Bookstore next semester would be able to sell these new books to regular students at a lower rate. (According to Tuesday's editorial, the V.A. is the only obstacle.)

Why can't the veterans buy their books at the Regents Bookstore only? Then the University would not have to guarantee list prices to independent bookstores; the non-veteran students would benefit by lower prices; and Uncle Sam would not have to pay out so much to send us to school. Everyone would be happy—except the independent bookstores. This plan is actually at work at the University of Southern California and probably at many other colleges in the country. At U.S.C., the only way a vet can obtain a book outside of the University Bookstore is when that book is not in stock. A special requisition is then issued to the veteran which allows him to obtain his book elsewhere.

If the University adopted this method of handling books, there would be a few things left to iron out, such as: The disposition of the book stocks on hand at the independent stores.

The ability of the Regents Bookstore to handle the additional volume of trade. (U.S.C.'s store is a little larger than our own.)

Fall Y Conclave Slated Nov. 5-6

Lois Thorfinson and Dale Stauffer, presidents of the Ag Y's, would like all members who are interested in attending the annual fall YM-YW conference in Hastings on Nov. 5 and 6 to turn their names in to them or to Miss Ruth Shinn or Gordon Lippett.

"Faith Without Works Is Dead" is the theme of the conference and Dr. Kessler of the First Presbyterian church of Hastings is the main speaker. He will speak on the theme.

Prairie Schooner Selected for Pool

Nebraska university's Prairie Schooner, quarterly literary magazine edited by Dr. L. C. Wimberly, has been selected to participate in an international literary pool operated by UNESCO.

The pool is designed to further mutual understanding between peoples by the greatest possible exchange of articles between literary magazines of all countries.

Articles appearing in the Prairie Schooner will be reprinted in similar magazines all over the world. And other magazine's articles may be reprinted in the Prairie Schooner.

Translations of articles will be done at UNESCO headquarters in Paris.

Dr. Butchers Chosen Head Of Ed Group

Dr. A. C. Butchers of Wellington, New Zealand, was named president of the International Society for Correspondence Education at the closing session of its conference on the university campus Friday.

The new president is headmaster of the New Zealand State Correspondence school. He succeeds Dr. K. O. Broady, director of the university's extension division. Other officers elected during the meeting were: N. F. Thorpe of the university extension division, secretary; Dr. K. S. Cunningham of Melbourne, Australia, chairman of research.

Society Votes on Meetings.
The society voted to hold its next meeting in April, 1950, at Christchurch, New Zealand, and its 1953 session in Canada.

At the final business meeting the conference adopted the official name of the society and authorized its executive committee to draw up a new constitution to be approved at the 1950 meeting. They also agreed to ask the Carnegie corporation of New York for funds to help defray expenses of delegates attending the New Zealand meeting.

A research and information committee of five persons was set up, and a proposal to include within its membership both public and private types of correspondence education schools was referred to the executive committee for further study.
