Red Cross Unit to Hold First Meeting onomics student at the University of Nebraska, will be interviewed on "Farm Flashes on the Air"

The first mass meeting of the Red Cross College Unit will be held Tuesday night in parlors ABC of the Union.

Eugene Berg, president of the new organization, announced to-day that Miss Virginia Griffiths, field director of the Red Cross ac-tivities at the Veteran's hospital, will outline possible Unit pro-grams at the institution at the mass meeting.

It was also learned Monday that Henry F. Holtzclaw, instructor of chemistry at the University, will work with Dr. Samuel I. Fuenning, director of Student Health, as adviser to the College Unit. Mr. Holtzclaw and Dr. Fuenning will speak briefly at the meeting.

Director, Adviser to Appear

The director of Red Cross in Lancaster county, Harold Hill, and the citizen adviser of the Unit, Merritt Anderson, will also appear at the meeting.

Members of the College Unit executive committee and operat-ing board will be introduced. They will present plans for the year's program. Officers of the Unit, besides Berg, are: Audrey Rosenbaum, vice-president; Marilyn Stark. secretary; and Gordon Geally, treasurer. The operating board is composed of: Jean Fenster, Frank Jacobs, and Margo Nootz, institutions; Rex Hoffmeister, Dale Johnson, and Bob Phelps, swimming; Bob Mosher, Sandy Mc-Nahb, and Toni Fleming, first aid; George Randol and Bruce Kennedy, publicity; Lois Barelman, motor corps; and Harry Stalker, finance.

Jack Schirmer, editor of the 1948-49 Cornshucks magazine, received recognition in a current issue of The Quill, monthly magazine published by Sigma Delta Chi. honorary journalism fraternity.

A full-page article by Schirmer explains a new system used by the University of Nebraska School of Journalism this year. Articles written by journalism students as classroom assignments are sent to newspapers throughout the state to be used as filler or copy. This idea was inaugurated at a Sigma Delta Chi luncheon last spring by professors at the School of Journalism and the memebrs of the Nebraska Press Association.

A Sigma Delta Chi pledge on the Nebraska campus, Schirmer began his journalism studies in 1942 and then spent three and one-half years in the army. He will be graduated from the School of Journalism next June.

anes Rich Charlotte Creamer ay Stryker Barry Theiss Axtell also announced that the committee will meet tonight at 7 o'clock in Parlor Y of the Union. He requested the members to watch Campus News in Brief for further announcements regarding meetings.

It will be the Convocations committee's job to handle all of the year's convocations. They will act as ushers at convocations and as a reception committee for visiting dignitaries. The committee will represent the student body in the selection of convocation speakers in conjuction with the faculty convocations committee headed by Prof Karl Arndt, and will attempt to further student interest in convocations. Finally, the committee will try to obtain more and better speakers and, in this way, to give the students advantages which they might not otherwise enjoy. The Convocations committee will take charge of the debate to be held Wednesday, Nov. 3, at 7:30 p. m. in the Love library auditorium between the Nebraska Debate team and the British Debate team.

organized campus group will be Axtell Names asked to represent one of the 44 nations in the UNESCO program. Members of the group will be expected to become familiar with social conditions in the country of their choice. The information will be made available through movies, foreign students, pamphlets, special speakers and informal seminars.

Six leaders will be chosen to represent each nation on one of the six commissions which cover the fields: education, educational crateive arts, natural sciences, social sciences. These commission groups will meet before the plenary session to formulate world policies governing the fields involved. These policies will be presented by the chairmen of each commission at the plenary session. The formal presentation of the policy will be followed by open debate.

House presidents have been contacted and asked to present the proposal to their groups. Each organized group will then be ex-pected to select a UNESCO chairman and compile a preference list of five countries they would like to represent with reasons for the choice. From the list of five preferences the committee will assign a country to each organized group.

The project is designed to be an educational experiment," Miss Sabin said. "If 100 percent campus co-operation is secured the program may be extended to the entire state. In this case, all out-state colleges will be asked to participate in the same capacity as the organized houses."

Groups who wish to participate but not as countries will be asked to act as pressure groups working with a specific commission. Groups who wish to act in this capacity must contact one of the co-chairmen

Approval of the project by the student council was secured at last Wednesday's council meeting, Dr. Sorenson, teachers college, will serve as faculty advisor for the conference

Unit OK'd by Council

The College Unit was approved this fall by the Student Council. Last spring a group of students instituted the plan to start a College Unit with the agreement of university officials.

A large number of freshman women signed up for Red Cross activities at the Activities Mart, announced Miss Rosenbaum. Students have also been contacted by letters and house talks.

In the letter sent to organized houses and organizations, Berg wrote, "The College Unit offers an opportunity for useful and unselfish service on the campus and in the community in fields which desperately crave attention by young people . . , These projects will offer opportunities to take part in community living, as wellas accomplish Red Cross pur-Doses."

versity debate squad will up-hold U.S. free enterprise while Reginald Caler of Birmingham university and Anthony J. Cox of Bristol university, a crack team from England, will defend Britain's socialism,

The debate is scheduled for 7:30 p.m. in Love Library auditorium. It is open and free to the public. The English team is currently touring the United States under the auspices of the Institute of International Education.

This is Schleusener's third year of varsity debate. A member of Innocents, he is an Ag engineer-ing student from Oxford, Nebr., and a member of Beta Sigma Psi.

Sorenson has been on the varsity debate squad for four years. He is a Rhodes scholarship candidate, and was on the law review board as a freshman. Hel

Corsages In Order

Corsages for your lucky man are definitely in order. They are your chance to prove that feminine ingenuity and imagination is greater than ever before. You'd better start looking for a canary cage, a halter and bridle, donkey ears, or how about some gas-filled balloons that float in the upper regions of the coliseum?

Don't forget to start scouting for some fancy transportation for that "man of the year". Of course, if just remember they came in wheelbarrows and with pogo sticks last year!

Bachelors to Reign

The highlight of the evening will be the presentation of the eight most eligible bachelors on the two campuses. The M.B.'s promise us a unique presentation this year. So with all those hunks of men, any gal should be in-trigued to drag a date to the gala affair.

The eight eligible bachelors presented last year were Irving Dana, Lee Goodwin, John Ayres, Bob Wenke, Dougan Doyle, Byron Hooper, Jim Swanson and Al Potter.
