Foltz Directs Oratorio: Four Soloists to Appear

The annual presentation of Handel's "Messiah" by the University Choral Union will take place today at 3 p. m. in the Coliseum. Prof. David Foltz will direct the 600-voice chorus in the performance of the familiar and well-loved oratorio.

Four outstanding Nebraska singers, Doris Ruth Ganz, soprano, Marion Copp, contralto, Millard Cates, tenor, and Wayne H. Hooper, baritone, will be soloists. The university orchestra will play and Jeanette Dolezal, pianist, and Myron Roberts, will also assist. The brass choir will play Christmas carols for half an hour preceding the performance.

Singers are members of one of the six vocal groups which compose the University Choral Union. These are the Agricultural College Chorus, the University Singers, University Chorus I and II, the Grieg Male Chorus and the Lincoln Male Chorus.

Two airs which have not been sung here in recent years will be included in the program. Miss Ganz will sing "Rejoice Greatly" and Hooper, "The Trumpet Shall Sound." Charles Stasenka will play the solo trumpet part on the latter selection.

13 Law Review Editors Named

Thirteen law students were appointed as board of editors of the Nebraska Law Review, professional quarterly magazine published jointly by the College of Law and the Nebraska State Bar association. The announcement was made by William A. Rundle, editor-in-chief and senior law student from Wilkes-Barre, Pa.

Five Seniors Chosen

The new board members, all top-ranking seniors in the college are: Kenneth H. Elson, North Platte; Richard S. Harnsberger, Ashland; Daniel O'Leary, Olympia, Wash.; Charles H. Chase, Schuyler, and Robert S. Lowe, Wauneta.

Eight second-year students, chosen on a basis of scholarship, were selected to staff positions. They are: Richard L. Berkheimer, Gordon; William M. Grossman, Edgar; Richard A. Knudsen, University Heights, O.; Jess C. Neilsen, Dannebrog; Joe R. Seacrest, Ray Simmons and Theodore C. Sorensen, all of Lincoln; and Lee C. White of Omaha.

Board Elected by Present Editors

The board of editors was elected by the board now in charge of the magazine. The members will serve one year until the final issue in May.

The Nebraska Law Review contains various articles written by judges, legal scholars, professors and members of the bar association. Student comments and recent case notes appear in each issue. Also regularly featured are legislative and bar association sections.

One issue of the Nebraska Law Review is published each year by the bar association. This issue is entitled "Proceedings of the Annual Meetings of the Nebraska State Bar Association."

Grad Club Plans Christmas Party

Grads will dance to folk tunes Tuesday night at the Graduate Club Christmas party in parlors X and Y of the Union. The festivities will begin at 7:30 p. m. Jan Staley, chairman, announced.

The evening's events will be touched off by group singing of Christmas carols. These will be followed by dancing, games and refreshments.

Membership in the Graduate Club is available to all graduate students.

Convo Cancellation

The lectures by Major George Fielding Elliot scheduled for this week will not be given. Dr. Karl Arndt, convocations chairman announced.

Speech Choir Tryouts Slated

The formation of a choral speaking group has been announced by student sponsors, Milton Hoffman and Joris Devereux, and faculty sponsor, Miss Maxine Trauernicht.

The all-University speech choir is being established for entertainment on the campus and throughout the state. It will be a group which interprets prose and poetry in a manner much like a regular singing choir.

Tryouts for the new speech department unit will be held Dec. 16, from 5 to 5:45 p. m., and Dec. 17, from 3 to 5 p. m. in room 305 Temple.

If interested regular University students can not try out at those times, they should contact Miss Trauernicht in the same room.

Research grants totaling $830 have been awarded to three University of Nebraska faculty members by the University Research Council according to an announcement Friday.

The recipients, amounts, and general field of research are: Dr. T. M. Raysor, $30, poetry; Leonard Nelson, $300, pharmacy and physiology; and R. M. Sabdstedt, $500, agricultural chemistry.

Gangster Drama Begins Run In Uni Theatre Wednesday

BY FRANK JACOBS.

"A man needs blood to keep going. It runs out fast—too fast—when you've got three slugs clean through you."

Highlighted with the brisk, unpretty language of the underworld, Anderson's "Winterset" will begin a four-performance run Wednesday evening at the Temple.

Wenstrand

Katz

The gangster drama has been noted for its abundance and variety of intriguing roles. Aside from the leading parts of Mio and Miriamne, four definite characters stand out in the play.

Perhaps the most absorbing of the four is that of Judge Gaunt, played by Jack Wenstrand. A sophomore in Law College from Lincoln, Wenstrand calls the part "the most difficult that I've ever attempted to do. Judge Gaunt is driven to the verge of insanity by doubt in his mind through his conviction of a possible innocent man. One of the biggest difficulties is drawing the line between rational and irrational moments. This factor of partial insanity, coupled with old age, place the role in a class by itself."

Katz Plays Trock

An entirely different type of character, Abe Katz, law sophomore from New York City, plays Trock, the "quiet and effortless menace" of the play. States Katz, "the role is sharp, biting, and sinister with the menace accentuated in undertone. I become a tubercular killer who guards his remaining six months of life as a miser watches over his gold. I've always wanted to do a gangster role and Trock is a near-perfect example. He has the manner of an avaricious hawk stalking its prey."
