Legislative Bill Proposes New Biz Ad Course

A four-year real estate course for the University was proposed in the state legislature by Sen. Arthur Carmody of Trenton Thursday.

Carmody's bill provides for an appropriation of $6,000 a year to the university from the state real estate commission to pay a professor who would supplement the real estate courses already offered in the college of Business Administration.

Ervin Luedtke, secretary of the state real estate commission, explained that many young men wishing to major in real estate are required to attend colleges and universities outside the state. Eight other schools now offer courses under a plan similar to the one proposed.

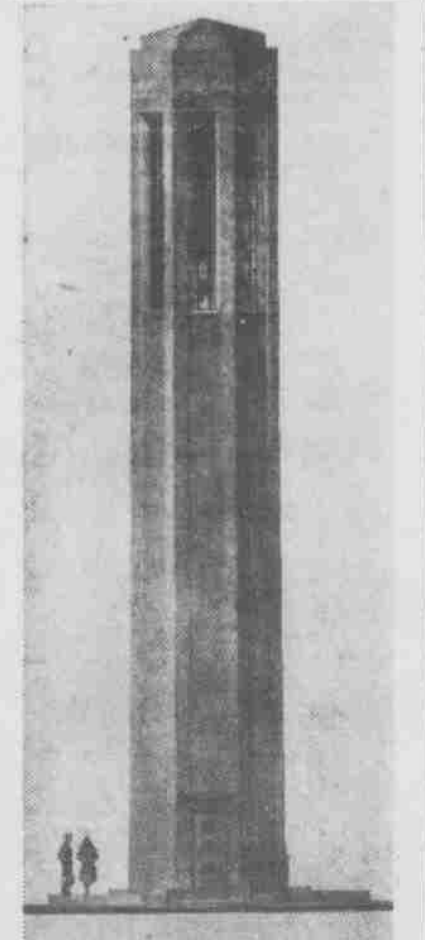

Money for the real estate course would come from an excess produced by license fees paid by real estate brokers and salesmen. The money must be held in the commission's account until the legislature authorizes its use.

Dent Students Give Skates to Children

Members of the new freshman class of the Dental college captured the true Christmas spirit this year.

The new students decided to forego the usual expense of mailing Christmas cards to each other. Instead, they spent the money on ten pairs of bright new roller skates.

The skates will soon be put to good use by the residents of the Nebraska Home for Dependent Children.

Mueller CARILLON TOWER, 80th anniversary gift to the University from Ralph S. Mueller, will be located between Morrill and Bessey halls on the north-south mall about half way between the Coliseum and Love Memorial library. This is an architects sketch.
