Bolitho Impressed by Lincoln In Tour With Rag Reporter

A tour of the city with the British author and lecturer, Hector Bolitho, yesterday brought new thoughts on the Lincoln scene and America in general to the mind of a Daily Nebraskan writer.

The Englishman spoke on "Queen Victoria and the Monarchy" at an all-University convocation Monday morning. His sincere interest in all typically American things was as refreshing as it was amazing.

THE NEBRASKA STORM . . . the gateless gateposts marking the entrance to the Piedmont section of Lincoln . . . the name "Pleez-U" for a cleaning establishment . . . and "Cornhusker" for a midwestern hotel. All these things brought forth apt comments from Bolitho. Several sights he pronounced "incredible"—particularly that of several people busily eating chili con carne at 2 a.m.

On this, his first visit to Nebraska, although he has been in 44 of the states, Bolitho was tremendously impressed by the thoughtfulness and friendliness of Lincoln citizens. Inhabitants of the Atlantic seaboard, he feels, have a tendency, in the midst of their own sophistication, to underestinity chest; James Kintz, associate chairman; Ned Cadwallader, president of the Lincoln YMCA board of directors; Rev. John Wichelt and John Walker, regional co-chairman of the Rocky Mountain Student Christian association.

Following the banquet there will be social dancing in the Green Room.

Selzer Defines Eligibility for Prom Royalty

From the applicants, finalists will be chosen for each honor who will be presented at the prom. The winners will be chosen in a unique fashion which will be announced later.

College Red Cross workers will initiate the new semester by distributing Valentine cards at the Veteran's hospital, Tuesday, Feb. 8. Similar to the Christmas card distribution, girls will visit the wards giving patients a choice of over 100 cards donated by the Norcross Card company.

A carnival, sponsored by various city welfare groups, will be the institutional group's second project in which it will participate next week. The carnival is scheduled for Thursday evening, Feb. 10, in the Veteran's hospital lounge. Workers will decorate every afternoon next week and will have two fortune telling booths, a stunt photographer and several parts in the skit program.

Any university student is welcome to work on either of these projects. Arrangements should be made with either Frank Jacobs, 3-8474 or Jean Fenster, 2-6413.

'Daily' Delivery

Because of printing difficulties at the Lincoln Journal where The Daily Nebraskan is published, the "Rag" has been distributed later in the day for the past month.

Copies of The Daily Nebraskan were usually delivered early in the morning, but the printing difficulties have necessitated noon distribution. Sunday issues have not been delivered until Monday noon. This condition is expected to continue until March.

mate their fellow Americans in the west.

Bolitho, reading a ship's newspaper on his way to this country, was surprised to discover in it two items with a Lincoln date-line. One, about the animal bones frequently uncovered in Nebraska, caused him to include a visit to Morrill Hall in his plans for the trip. The sight of the skeleton of the "largest elephant on record" provoked a typical emphatic comment. "My conscience! Think of that having arthritis!"

NEBRASKA'S CAPITOL building was another place Bolitho was particularly anxious to visit. He expressed interest in seeing the room in which the legislature meets and in going to the 14th floor for a view of the city. The New Zealand born writer and lecturer has spent much time in historical research. In his address he showed that he places considerable faith in the "faint glow of history" which can help us act wisely in our time. In his earlier books, the author traced the beginnings of monarchy; his latest, titled "The Reign of Victoria," deals with government during that time.

A quotation from Ruskin seemed to him a good description of Queen Victoria. "When skill and love meet, they produce a masterpiece," and that, as he sees it, is what happened to the girl brought up with one grim purpose—that she have adequate training for her inevitable place as Queen of England.

HE GIVES CONSIDERABLE credit for Victoria's success to her husband, Albert. Bolitho pointed out the important part Albert had in averting war between England and the United States by the careful rewording of a dispatch from the foreign office. In England, then, Bolitho said, the monarch is the guardian of the spirit behind the law. He is "not the power, but the example."

In closing Bolitho repeated an earlier statement that he disagrees with Americans who claim that young people are cynical. He told students that he believed in them as a generation and further stated that the younger generation, in becoming the greatest power, will make the country the greatest example.

Starvation Meal Opens AUF Drive

A Starvation banquet, held in the Union ballroom Sunday night, launched the '49 AUF campaign.

Diners ate a scanty meal and heard Miss Greta Ridell, traveling secretary for World Student Service Fund, speak on the purposes of WSSF. Charles Dugdale, KFOR announcer, acted as master of ceremonies. The program included music by Beverly Larson and the Farm House quartette composed of Stan and Tom Lambert, Neal Baxter and Tom Chilvers.

The AUF drive, which opened Feb. 7, will continue through Feb. 11. Approximately 300 students will solicit funds. A radio will be given to the solicitor who collects the most money.

CALLED OUT of school as Operation Snowbound got under way last week, most of the students have not been to their second semester classes. Chancellor Gustafson, however, said that since the students have been doing a necessary job in the snowbound areas, everything will be taken care of by the University.

Although the students are anxious to get back to school, Lt. Newman, commanding officer of the ordnance personnel, said that they feel what they are doing is necessary and should be completed as soon as possible.

DUTIES OF the personnel include hauling fuel for equipment, hay and food to outlying farms and towns that are snowbound. Another job is the hauling of weasels, light carriers that are able to transport food and fuel over the snow. The men are working approximately 15 hours a day.

Equipment used by the Guard includes heavy army clothing, rations and general equipment. There are about 14 teams of eight men each in the field. Each team has two 2½-ton trucks and one jeep.

THEY WORK out of county seats, living and eating wherever they can—hotels, private homes or regular army quarters. Local people have cooperated with housing and the eating problem wherever the army has gone.
