From the Front Page

Norway has received an offer by the Russians to join a non-aggression pact which is supposed to insure the Scandinavian country of "friendship and mutual aid." This action by the Soviet is due to Norway's investigation and possibility of joining the North Atlantic Security Alliance proposed by the Western Powers. It looks as though Russia will try her best to stop any country, including Norway, which even hints at a possibility of joining such a pact.

Monday brought additional information about the Norway-Soviet-Western Powers conflict. Norway's Foreign Minister Halvard Lange arrived in Washington Sunday to learn just how much military aid his country could expect from the United States. Despite the Soviet notes denouncing the pact, it is expected that Norway will still join the Western Powers proposal.

Weather again will play an important part in the immediate success of Operation Snowbound as increasing gales in Wyoming and Nebraska threatened to halt progress so far established. Reports of newly opened roads being again blocked by drifting snow came from Wyoming and parts of Nebraska. Operation Snowbound is entirely at the mercy of the elements!

One Phase of Your Life . . .

Today The Daily Nebraskan carries a story of a Graduate club forum discussion on "The Place of Religion in College." Scheduled for Friday evening, the forum will present the opinions of three persons—a faculty member, a student and a student pastor.

This paper feels that the discussion will serve as the point of embarkment for coverage of one of the five spheres of student life as outlined editorially in the first edition of The Daily Nebraskan. The spheres are Religious and Philosophical, Academic, Cultural, Social and Extra-Curricular Activities. Obviously, the Graduate club forum will help to inaugurate the Religious and Philosophical point of view.

Tomorrow The Daily Nebraskan will begin a series of articles discussing phases of this part of a college student's life. In these articles, the "Rag" will try to bring before students such subjects as The Part Religion Should Play in the Life of a College Student, The Moral and Ethical Codes of College Students, Why Go To Church?, Race Relations, The Stereotypes of Prejudice, The 'Humor' of Prejudice, The Vocabulary of Prejudice and such related subjects.

Our task will be to analyze restrictive clauses of organized houses, student views on dormitory restrictions, the university "quota" system, FEPC in the Nebraska legislature, student opinion on Truman's Civil Rights program, movies detrimental to religious and racial harmony and books and magazine articles dealing with these subjects.

The Rag will also attempt to introduce all university students to the Religious Welfare council, the deputations committee, All Campus Vespers, local church services and programs as well as those of the student houses, Holy Week services and such groups as the Social Action committee, Cosmopolitan club, Urban league and related topics and groups.

Meet the People . . .

University students will have an excellent chance tomorrow evening to do their bit in promoting international good will. For once we have the opportunity to do something in this sphere that is not vague, indirect and pretty much intangible. What we have is this: the chance to play host to the foreign students on campus for a dinner get-together in the Union ballroom. This opportunity should be a welcomed one, if for no other reason than to repay the countries these students represent for the fine hospitality foreign countries have shown to American students who have had the pleasure of attending college outside the limits of the U. S.

There are, however, other reasons. For one thing, if we can generalize from our own experience, the foreign students on the campus are extremely interesting and charming people. They reflect the culture and wisdom of countries much older than our own. In addition, they reveal how quickly they have caught on to "The American Way," and as newly acquaintances of it they are able to make astute observations of our society.

The International Friendship dinner will enable the foreign students to learn something of YOU, so that their concept of what the American student really is will be as accurate as possible.

ocrats would join Republican forces to preserve many of the provisions of the Taft-Hartley labor bill. Democratic Senate Leader Lucas from Illinois said this Republican claim is "political propaganda and speculation." The fight for and against this bill promises to be a long and bitter one.

The motion picture is world-famous because of the award-winning performance of tenor Jan Kiepura. A New York critic said of the film, "The flamboyantly colorful Prince of tenors has never been seen or heard to better advantage than in this sentimental story in which real characters parallel in drama, romance and tragedy those created by Henri Murger and set to music by Giacomo Puccini.

"As the struggling singer, Kiepura is superb, and in Marta Eggerth, his wife, the picture has an appealing Denise and a capable Mimi. The supporting cast is excellent."

The score, considered by music critics as one of Puccini's best, is played by the renowned Vienna Philharmonic orchestra. The plot is weaved in the "wheel-within-a-wheel" formula, creating a real-life parallel to the opera which shadows the lives of its players.
