

UNESCO Meetings Open Today

Houses Represent Nations In 3-Day Plenary Session

Rules, Seating Procedure Announced

Rules of procedure for the three day UNESCO conference were announced today by Eloise Paus-tian, chairman of procedure. Delegations must comply with the announced rules in order to be eligible to vote. Each country must have a delegation present at all times.

TASSELS will be stationed at the doors of the Coliseum to show delegates to their seats. Each delegation must display a 4 by 12-inch placard stating its name. Observers will be seated in the balconies.

Conference officials and speakers will be seated at a U-shaped table. Nations will sit according to numbers starting at the southwest end of the U-shaped table. Each nation may seat one voting delegate at the main table and four voting delegates directly behind him.

Special interest groups and the groups petitioning for membership will be seated at a table in front of the U-shaped table. These groups include religious organizations.

NATIONS will be designated by the following numbers:

Mouse Affords Sporting Kick

Sporting enthusiasts were more enthused than ever yesterday after the sensational "Mouse Sweepstakes" in the Daily Ne-braska and Cornhusker offices.

Events began eventing when "Rodent Ray" Beimond uncovered a disgruntled mouse crouching in a "Rag" waste basket. "Rodent Ray" wasn't watching where he was treading and unconsciously stuck his right leg in the basket.

Removing the creature from his trousers, sadist Beimond offered the mouse first to M. J. "Mouse" Melick and then to Jane "Rat-lover" MacArthur. "Rodent Ray" was anxious to discern which of the two was the greatest mouse-lover.

After a hasty consultation in the "Rodent Catcher's Encyclo-pedia," Beimond decided that Miss MacArthur, on the basis of her happy cry when first seeing the mouse, (she broke a glass with her scream) was the mousiest. Thus keeping the title for the yearbookies.

"Rodent Ray" is now after rabbits.

MacLeish To Address First Meeting

Archibald MacLeish, statesman and poet, will address the opening convocation of the model UNESCO conference at 3 p. m. in the Coliseum.

"UNESCO — Experiment in Peace" will be the topic of Mac-Leish's address.

He was the United States representative to the United Nations conference which set up UNESCO. In 1946 he served as vice chairman of the U. S. delegation to the first general UNESCO conference and became the American representative on the Executive board. He resigned in 1947.

MacLeish is the winner of the Pulitzer prize for poetry.

Following MacLeish's address the floor will be opened for questions concerning UNESCO. The discussion will precede the formal opening of the conference by Shirley Sabin Quisenberry, co-chairman of the UNESCO project.

THE MEETING will then be turned over to Ted Sorenson, moderator, who will officially open the three day session of debate and consideration of proposals and resolutions.

Uni Theatre To Refund Ticket Money

The University Theatre business office has announced the procedure of settlement for season ticket holders. Until March 1, season ticket owners have the choice of attending the performances at the Plainsman Theatre in Nebraska Wesleyan or having their tickets refunded in room 105 Temple.

Ticket holders deciding to attend the final performances at the Plainsman Theatre will have their pick of the best seats in the Wesleyan auditorium. Other seats for the plays will go on sale only on night of production.

THE FIRST PLAY, "But Not Goodby," by George Seaton, will be presented Friday and Saturday, March 18 and 19. A modern comedy, it is now in preliminary rehearsal.

The second play, "Yes and No," another play on the lighter side by Kenneth Horne, is slated to play at Wesleyan April 8 and 9.

Refund hours are 9 a. m. to 11:30 a. m. and 1 p. m. to 5 p. m. daily, except Saturday and Sunday.

Stakman Defends Science In Charter Day Speech

Civilization, the degree of intellectual enlightenment and spiritual refinement at a given time, is on trial.

This was the view expressed by E. C. Stakman, president of the American Association for the Advancement of Science, at a convocation in the coliseum Tuesday morning.

STAKMAN'S speech opened the Charter Day celebrations of the eightieth anniversary of the founding of the University. The convocation was also the occasion for the posthumous presentation of the Nebraska Builder award to Delmar Anderson.

"It may be true that the ethical development of society has not kept pace with the advances in science and technology," Stakman said. "Intellectual enlightenment and spiritual refinement have not always kept pace with each other in the evolution of human societies. They may be out of step now, but scientists can scarcely be blamed for it."

THREE "unfair" charges are often made against science, Stakman said. Science is often accused of being black magic, of being dehumanizing rather than humanizing and of putting new tools into the hands of society without at the same time guaranteeing how these tools shall be used, he said.

"Science has gone far to emancipate man from ignorance, superstition and the tyranny of his environment," Stakman said. "It has not yet, however, succeeded in emancipating man from the tyranny of his baser passions, such as greed, hatred and injustice. Many facts that are basic to present national and world unrest and discontent are unpleasant, but they must be faced if sensible solutions are to be attained."

BARBARA ROWLAND, Janet Kepner and Marilyn Weber are shown as they will appear when they represent Lebanon at the model UNESCO conference at the Coliseum this afternoon. The entire Lebanese delegation will appear in native costume.

Junior-Senior Prom Ticket Sales Will Open Today

Junior-Senior Prom ticket sales will open Wednesday, according to Irv Chesen, Innocent in charge of tickets. The prom will be held March 4 in the Coliseum.

TICKETS are $3 per couple, tax included, and may be bought from Innocents, Kosmet Klub workers, the Union Dance Committee and in the Union office. Spectator tickets are 85 cents, tax included, and will be sold at a later date.

THIS YEAR the Junior-Senior Prom will be informal for the first time since 1943. This is to give the students a change from the formal season and to aid in carrying out the "Preview of Spring" theme.

ANOTHER "FIRST" this year will be the presentation of a Prom King along with the customary Prom Queen. The finalists, chosen from those who filed, by a committee made up of Bill Mueller, Fritz Hegwood, Joan Farrar and Norm Leger, will be presented at the prom and the King and Queen will be selected by a unique method. Finalists will be chosen

Swiss Offer Budget Trips

An educational vacation in Switzerland is being offered by the Laborde travel agency at a special low price to students.

The proposed trip includes transportation by plane from New York to Geneva and four weeks in Switzerland for $520. Normally the plane trips alone would be $760.

Reservations must be made immediately as only a limited number of spaces are available. Flights leave New York's Bradley field on June 18, July 5, July 8 and July 9. All space on the July 9 flight has been sold.

Full information and details concerning reservations can be obtained from Dr. Dombrowski, 310 Social Science building, phone 4247.

Student Foundation To Be Rechristened

The Student Foundation today announced a New Name contest to give the campus service organization a new title.

The contest, open to all students, starts today and ends midnight Thursday, Feb. 24.

A prize of $10 offered by Chancellor R. G. Gustavson for the contest will be given to the person submitting the entry most appropriate for the name of the group.

THE NAME SHOULD express the purpose and work of the present Student Foundation, said Gene Mitchell, president of the organization. Ellsworth DuTeau, founder of the Student Foundation in 1942, remarked that the name should be "irreplaceable," embodying the purpose of the organization, and "spelling what we are doing and what we will do."

Both Miss Mitchell and DuTeau will be judges for the New Name contest. They will be assisted by Miss Mary Mielenz, faculty sponsor; Eugene Berg, board member, and Nancy Porter, Student Foundation member.

Judging of entries will be done Friday, Feb. 25, and the winner will be announced about March 1, according to Kathy Dodson, chairman of the contest.

THE NAME CHANGE was approved by the Student Foundation board last December after administrative officials of the University pointed out the confusion between the student group and the University Foundation. Because of legal entanglements, it was thought that the student organization could change its name more easily than the University department.

The purpose of the Foundation as set forth in its constitution, is "to instill a deeper loyalty for the institution in the undergraduate, to maintain spirit in the University alumni, to educate the high school students of Nebraska and surrounding states to the advantages of the University, to develop within the citizenry of the state a feeling of loyalty to their University and to use every effort to be of service to the University and to maintain and improve it."

THE STUDENT FOUNDATION sponsors parties and tours on the campus for high school groups, prints a number of publications for high school students, edits the Student Directory and the Nebraska Calendar and does other such projects in the line of their purpose.

Entries in the contest, which should be short and clearly appropriate, can be submitted at the Foundation office, Room 308 of the Union, until the deadline. They may also be placed in two boxes in the Union lobby and Love library. Any person may enter the contest and may submit as many entries as they wish, said Miss Dodson.
