

Prom Finalists Revealed

Winners to Reign At Beneke Dance

Six senior men and six junior women will comprise the court of royalty at the Junior-Senior Prom March 4 in the Coliseum. From the finalists, students attending the Tex Beneke Dance will name the senior King and Junior Queen.

The finalists for Junior Queen are: Sue Bjorklund, Dorothy Borgens, Charlene Holcomb, Gracie Nielson, Janet Stratton and Dorothy Travis.

Men vying for the title of Senior king are: Winton Buckley, Harvey Davis, Chuck Hemmingson, Bob Keller, Chuck Peters and Harlan Powley.

Open to all students of the university, the Prom is informal, offering students an opportunity to sport spring garb as part of the "Preview of Spring" theme of the dance.

Tickets sell for $3 per couple and may be purchased from members of the Innocents society, Union dance committee members and Kosmet Klub workers. The dance is co-sponsored by the Innocents and the Union.

THUMBNAIL sketches of the finalists reveal that:

Sue Bjorklund, Love Memorial hall, is a member of the Home Ec Club council, Tassels, Ag YWCA cabinet and 4-H.

Dorothy Borgens, Alpha Chi Omega, distributes her activity time among Co-ed Counselor Board, YWCA Cabinet and Student Council.

Charlene Holcomb, Kappa Kappa Gamma, is a member of the YWCA cabinet.

Gracie Nielsen, Gamma Phi Beta, finds Tassels as an outlet for surplus energy and pep.

Janet Stratton, Kappa Alpha Theta, attends Student Council strings for AWS.

Dorothy Travis is an active member of Pi Beta Phi.

ON THE MALE side: Winton Buckley, Alpha Tau Omega, holds membership in the "N" club and serves as vice president of the Inter-fraternity Council.

Harvey Davis, Sigma Alpha Mu, keeps Student Council financial matters in hands as Treasurer and holds active membership in Corn Cobs.

Chuck Hemmingson, Delta Upsilon, formerly brought campus sosh news to print as society editor of The Daily Nebraskan.

Chuck Peters is a member of Beta Sigma Psi and the Lutheran Students' association.

Harlan Powley, Sigma Phi Epsilon, wears an "N" as a member of the varsity baseball team.

Air ROTC Group Names Officers

Walter Palmer was elected as squadron commander of the newly formed chapter of the Arnold Society, Air ROTC fellowship, at its first meeting last month.

Other officers elected were: William Ginsey, executive officer; H. Bernard Anderson, secretary-treasurer; and John Campbell, adjutant-recorder.

Major Gerald Jorgenson spoke to the group on the opportunities provided by a career in the Air Force at the meeting.

Cobs Will Host Biff Glassford

New Coach Biff Glassford will be among guests at the Corn Cob dinner meeting next Tuesday.

Occasion for the dinner will be discussion on possibilities for further service by the men's pep organization. The meeting will be held at 6:30 p. m. Tuesday, in parlor A, Union.

Besides Glassford, seven faculty alumni and athletic department guests have been invited. Glassford will be introduced in order to acquaint him with members and the purpose of the organization.

All Cobs, workers and actives, are asked to wear their sweaters.

Business Group Hears GE Official

Coed Foolery Predominates in Original Skits and Curtain Acts at Follies Revue

A "sneak preview" of the Coed Follies is in order.

First on the Follies program to be held Tuesday, March 1, at 7:30 p. m., at the Nebraska theater will be the A O Pi skit, "White Tie and Tails." This skit is built around the Cornhusker theme and shows scenes from the Military Ball, the Mortar board ball, etc. Also to be presented is one of those rare creatures, a PBK.

The dorm curtain act, "She Taught Him Right," will follow the A O Pi number. Forming the background for the act is the song "Maharaja of Matador." It is the tale of a sheik and his harem who wants to learn how to rumba.

NEXT ON the program is the Kappa Delt skit, "Tour d'Amour." The Kappa Delt present a newlywed couple who visit a travel bureau to decide where they will go on their honeymoon. The bureau gives them a picture of Manhattan, Mexico, Hawaii, Holland and China. And, of course, the newlyweds decide to take a slow boat to China.

Alpha Chi tells the story of a dissatisfied girl who goes to a fortune teller in their curtain act, "Scene in the Cards." The scenes depict the girl's fortune as told by the cards.

"Show Girl," the Kappa skit, is a review of Broadway hits. It features such songs as "Surrey with the Fringe on Top," "I Can't Say No," "It's Almost Like Being in Love" and "Saturday Night in Central Park."

THETA'S "Black Kat Kabaret" represents a night club floor show with modern dancing, a take-off on the song "Mighty Lak a Rose," a chorus line and the song "One for My Baby."

The Tri Delt's curtain act is entitled "Childhood's Joyland." The Tri Delt Raggedy Ann doll wants to find a home, and the other toys entertain her in her search.

In the Pi Phi skit, "The Big Smash," a debutante comes to college. As the plot unrolls, the stock market crashes, her father goes broke and a bookstore clerk wins the debutante.

The Alpha Phi skit, "The Dread Alarm—Oh Awful Fate," will close the skit program. It is a take-off on an opera which tells the story of a fire. A speaking chorus opens and closes the skit.

THREE TALENT acts will also be presented in the Follies entertainment schedule. They include the Pi Phi trio, a solo by Mary Sue Holland and Lou Iler in an imitation of Al Jolson.

A style show featuring the TNC finalists will follow the skit. The presentation of the Typical Nebraska Coed will conclude the show. Jan Stratton will act as master of ceremonies.

The Coed Follies production is sponsored by AWS and is under the direction of Miss Stratton.

Tickets are on sale in the Union lobby at 75 cents. They may also be obtained at the door the night of the show if they are not sold out before then.

Poll Discloses Split on Political Issue

Compiled by the Features Department.

University students are divided on a current campus governmental issue. At least, that is what a Daily Nebraskan poll has shown.

Conducted by the feature department, the sampling reached 486 students with the questions "Are you in favor of current campus government?" and "Are you in favor of open political parties?" Of the 486 students polled, 238 were affiliated with some organized house, 210 were unaffiliated students, and 38 were unaffiliated students in the Independent Student Association.

Thus, although the ratio of unaffiliated over affiliated students was not as greatly as really exists, the poll did show a definite split in the student group as a whole.

Forty-one percent of the 486 students were found to be in favor of the now-existing campus government. Forty-five were against the question while 4 percent had no opinion.

When the poll was broken down it was discovered that 59% of affiliated students favored the present operation of campus government. Thirty-one percent answered in the negative, and 10% were lost for an opinion.

As for the non-I.S.A. unaffiliated group, 28% answered yes, 55% said no, and 18% had no opinion. Only 13% of ISA members were for the question, 84% replying in the negative. A bare 3% had no opinion.

SEVERAL choice remarks were offered by some of the students polled. One pollee said, "The Rag office is having fun at the expense of the Barbs and the Dean." However, many of the comments were of a more worthwhile nature. A few were as follows:

"There should be equal representation."

"I don't think the council is being run fair. It should be cleaned up."

"The present government has existed and will continue to exist; and this row will not clean anything up."

"The present government is not the fault of the affiliated students but the fault of the unaffiliated who have not tried to exercise any power."

THE OTHER poll question, "Are you in favor of open political parties," received more conclusive answers. Sixty percent of the sampled student body were found to be in favor of the question. Thirty-three percent answered negatively, while 7% had no opinion.

With these percentages broken down into class opinion, one interesting fact stood out. Both affiliated and non-ISA unaffiliated students were of the same opinion on the question. In both cases, 62% said yes, 29% said no and 9% had no opinion.

The ISA members, however, did not share the opinions of the other two groups. The ISA count showed 50% yes, 45% no, and 5% no opinion.

SEVERAL comments of polled students are worthy of publication. One affiliated student stated, "Political parties have been tried before and they didn't work or we would still have them."

An unaffiliated student commented, "Open political parties would mean Greeks against Barbs. It would only make the Greeks stronger and force them into a stronger faction."

Several comments, however, showed a definite lack of realization of what makes up the university student government. This is shown by statements such as:

"THE FACULTY can't say we can't have a Student Council. The university is for the students and should be run by the students," or "Is the Student Council that important?"

One graduate student, in a disgruntled mood, poked at the Daily Nebraskan by maintaining "The unaffiliated students cannot get the news they want in the Rag!"

Other comments were in the following form:

"Open political parties would end up with everyone just backing his own house. That would cause more strife than there is now."

"There has to be political parties. They would lead to keener competition in elections."
