New 'Daily' Post Created To Cover Honorary Field

A new post on the staff of The Daily Nebraskan, as announced by the editor, has been created to assure all honorary and professional societies adequate news coverage.

A conference among representatives from the honorary and professional groups, members of Pub Board and staff members of The Daily Nebraskan was held to discuss the news coverage of these organizations.

THE SOLUTION upon which the conference agreed was the creation of a staff position for the purpose of covering honorary and professional groups.

Miss Ruth Ann Sandstedt, sophomore in the college of Arts and Sciences, has been named to the position. In addition to her duties of handling news of the honoraries and professionals, she will be in charge of all bulletins which are run under a standing head of N.U. Bulletin Board.

THE POSITION of Assistant Feature editor, left vacant by Miss Sandstedt's new appointment, will be filled by Norma Chubbuck, sophomore journalism major in the Arts and Sciences college.

These appointments were not made by the Publications Board since all appointments to unpaid staff positions are made by the editor.

RCCU Plans St. Pat's Party For Orphans

Shamrocks and wearing of the green will be the order of the day at St. Thomas Orphanage when the Red Cross College unit holds a St. Patrick's day party there Thursday at 4 p. m.

Representatives from organized houses will take part in the program which will be built around a theme of St. Patrick's day. The program will be mostly musical, with songs, piano numbers and a harmonica solo included.

Approximately 40 orphans will be given favors in the Irish theme. Gloria Larson is chairman of the house institutional projects committee planning the party.

Other committee members are Shirley Matthews, Rod Riggs, Gordon Pederson, Mary Ann Pederson and Barbara Yeager.

Campus Politics Forum Planned

The future of student organizations on the University campus, especially the Student Council, will be discussed at a YMCA Forum at 7:30 p. m. Thursday in the YMCA lounge.

The Town Meeting type discussion will review possible plans for better council representation. According to Harold Nebelsick, in charge of plans, the purpose of the program is to encourage constructive thought on the problem of council representation.

The round table speakers will include Dean T. J. Thompson, dean of student activities; Miss Mary Mielenz, assistant professor of English; Dale Ball, Student Council president; Chuck Thoen and Shirley King, Student Council members; and the Rev. Rex Knowles, Presbyterian student pastor.

The YM discussion is usually held on Wednesday, but is being held on Thursday to make this program possible.

Lights Go Out; Exam Goes On

The lights went out in Morrill hall basement during a Pol. Sci. exam but the loss did not daunt one student.

The earnest worker whipped out a cigarette lighter and continued writing—much to the amusement of his less eager neighbors.

Budget Will Lessen Load Of Teachers

The proposed 20 per cent increase in the University's operating budget will be used in part to lessen the "teaching load."

The "teaching load" is a phrase meaning the number of students and classes a professor teaches. Before the war the ratio at the University of one to 16.5, a ratio slightly above the accepted figure of one to 12.

Today the average instructor at Nebraska is teaching over 25 students. This means that he is not permitted to give all the personal attention to students he would like to.

THE ABNORMAL ratio also curtails the instructor's other interests and duties, such as research. The accepted percentage of time used by instructors in teaching is 50 per cent. The prewar figure at Nebraska stood at 75 per cent, and today the average instructor spends 85 per cent of his work week in teaching.

The accepted percentage of time used by instructors in research is 33 per cent. At the University the average instructor spent 15 per cent of his work week before the war in research; now he spends only 10 per cent of his time in research.

The accepted percentage of time devoted by the instructor to other duties such as University government, public lectures, etc., is 17 per cent. University instructors before the war spent 10 per cent of their work week in these other duties; today they can devote only 5 per cent of their time to them.

Kappa Psi, business administration fraternities, and Phi Chi Theta, business administration sorority.

The meeting is scheduled for 6:30 p. m. in the Union ballroom. Tickets, at $1.25 per person, can be purchased from any member of the three organizations beginning March 17.

DIRECTOR ROBERT BLACK points out a new idea in the realm of ghost-lore as the cast of "But Not Goodbye" prepares for their Friday evening opening. The University Theater comedy, farcical in content, pokes fun at the supernatural. Pictured in the usual order are Ced Hartman as Howard; Mary Sigler as Amy Griggs, beloved and patient mother of the family; Ed Weisenreder as Sam Griggs, one of a pair of hustling ghosts; Jim Fafeita as the son, Jimmie; and Director Black. According to Black, the farce has "a light-hearted disrespect for the conventional approach toward ghosts in the hereafter." The play will be staged at the Nebraska Wesleyan Plainsman theater.
