

Holy Week to Include Vespers, Religious Convocation in Union

"To Rise Above the Common", will be the general theme of the all-campus services planned by the Religious Welfare Council for Holy Week. Other activities for Holy Week, April 11 through 14, will include an all-campus service sponsored by the YM and YW, house visitations and other meetings sponsored by denominational groups.

ganized groups requesting speakers or discussion leaders for Monday and Wednesday evenings, April 11 and 13. Harold Nebelsick is in charge of these arrangements.

LSA Activities Feature Social Plans, Forums

As a part of a National Lutheran Student movement, the Nebraska chapter of L. S. A. carries out a full program of social and religious activities, ranging from work camps to bowling parties.

Tentative plans have been made for a work camp to be held in April or May which will take L. S. A. students to a Nebraska community to help renovate a church.

SUNDAY EVENING at First Lutheran church combine social and devotional meetings to compose the main program for L. S. A. The main theme for 1949, "If We Obey Him," is carried out through special speakers, student discussions and movies.

The part of the Sunday program is the Bible study groups held at 9:15 a. m. One is held on the city campus and another at the Ag center.

"Cornstalk," a six page paper edited by Carolyn Hinderaker, contains news and articles of interest to Lutheran students.

PURELY SOCIAL activities are high lighted three Fridays a month when special parties are planned. Included in the recent months have been ice skating, bowling, and hay rack parties. The remaining Friday each month is devoted to informal discussions.

Especially popular are the conventions held during the year. A regional training conference was held at Kearney in February. One thousand Lutheran students from all over the country attend the national gathering or "Ashram" at Interlocken, Michigan, held in August each year.

If so, college will be much more valuable in its fundamental aim—that of preparing the student for the business and professional future.

This plan is not perfect, but, with changes and revisions, it should do a better job than the present system.

More or Less Social . . . 'Cow College' Kids Find Ag Union Calendar Full

By Louise McDill

"The Farmer in the Dell" is not just a nursery rhyme on Ag campus.

The Dell in Ag Union is the familiar 'see ya' there" place for Aggies. Dropping in at the Dell for a cup of coffee, an extra-special lunch or for a bridge game has become a popular pastime between animal husbandry classes or foods labs.

THE COW college socialite" finds that the Ag Union fills his date book, from Monday to Sunday. On the Sunday page, the day starts at 3 p. m. with the matinee movie in the lounge. Full length features are shown free of charge and the added advantage of easy chairs for viewing the scene keeps Aggies coming to the shows.

After the movie, it's not just home again, but a relaxing Coffee Hour in the lounge. One doesn't need to tip his cup "just so" at Ag college, but still this occasion provides a suitable social atmosphere even for the most discriminating. Request records and brownies with the cokes are also offered.

TUESDAY NOON, the big crowd in the lounge is there to see the Siesta Film Hour movie. The same short features that are shown at the city Union in the afternoon are on the screen.

Bridge classes are offered Wednesday evenings for those who need a little instruction in the popular indoor sport. Dance lessons, both modern and square, have been offered but have not been carried on this year.

Dancing finds its place in the Ag Union schedule, however, in the two matinee dances on Wednesday and Thursday from 5 to 6 p. m. Program service and records provide the music. Square dances are especially popular on the rural campus and are held frequently. At present, a square dancing club has been formed and the "do-si-do" will be called more often from now on.

BIG AFFAIRS at the Ag Union include the Ag Jamboree and the Christmas Party. For these, an orchestra is provided for dancing and games, including bingo and bridge, are sponsored in the card room downstairs. A big affair coming up which seems to be along rather different lines is the card party to wind up the bridge lessons. Tables will be set up for all and when one tires of playing cards, he can dance a while at the coke dance that will be going on at the same time.

The ice skating rink during the winter is also sponsored by the Ag Union and has filled many a winter evening with fun and exhilarating sport. Every day, however, may be spent at the Dell, in the card room or in the music room where one may listen to records.

MARKED "FUTURE" is the big event of the campus for the Ag Union: an outdoor dance. The terrace in front of the Union was made for dancing, with an orchestra on the balcony above, says Miss Alice Matthauser, head of Ag Union. After all the red tape is cleared, plans will proceed for this innovation in campus social affairs.

Once again, the Ag Union will be bringing the "Cow college" kids the best in social life.

Having one, two or three beers too many the other night I got squeezed in an elevator full of sophisticated wimmen. During the shuffle I hadda burp a couple of times and several of them turned and gave me cutting looks. I ast 'em what 'n thu heck they expected, chimes?
