It's Up to You . . .

The Daily Nebraskan has full confidence in the student body of Nebraska university. This confidence will be exhibited when the students are asked to participate in a Daily Nebraskan sponsored constitutional assembly.

During the past school year, a great deal of dissatisfaction has been voiced over the Student Council and the present political situation on the campus. The cry has gone up that the Council does not truly represent the student body and that its male members are mere puppets of an underground political faction.

No one can deny that the Student Council has tried to carry out projects for the benefit of the entire student body. Nevertheless, dissatisfaction is still in evidence, and The Daily Nebraskan is out to give the students the chance to clear up the present situation through its constitutional assembly.

The assembly cannot be successful without the full cooperation of all students. Their participation in the assembly will show whether the average student is really interested in representative student government. If the present Student Council constitution is not adequate, the assembly has the opportunity to draw up a new one, one which will be satisfactory to all.

The Daily Nebraskan is not trying to appear gallant in the eyes of the faculty, students or anyone. In fact, it has been said that Nebraskan is a faction-controlled publication itself. The one and only idea of the Nebraskan is to give the students a chance to have themselves heard.

In other words, it's up to you. If you, the students, want a change, the constitutional assembly offers you a chance to make that change. Your participation in the assembly will tell the story.

Fritz Simpson.

Meet The Council

Although a vast majority of Student Council members are elected from the colleges in which they are enrolled, a few are chosen from the entire student body.

One of these representatives is senior-at-large Bev Sievers. Miss Sievers is a member of the Council constitution committee. This committee is responsible for passing on the constitutions of all campus organizations. It has just completed an exhaustive survey of all constitutions. The survey constitutes a biennial check-up.

Miss Sievers is enrolled in Teachers college. She is a former president of Religious Welfare council and a member of Gamma Phi Beta.

Another senior-at-large is Dick Johnson, who was incorrectly listed as a hold-over member.

Representing the women at Ag college is Louise McDill. Miss McDill serves the Council as corresponding secretary. In this capacity she is responsible for all Council mail and serves in the absence of the secretary.

Before her election to the secretary post, Miss McDill served on book store, scholarship and elections committees. She is a junior home ec major and secretary of Ag Exec. board. A Daily Nebraskan news editor, she is affiliated with Phi Upsilon Omicron and Omicron Nu, home ec honoraries, and Chi Omega.

EIGHTY-FOUR persons were listed as dead as the death toll of the Illinois hospital fire mounted. Causes of the fire were still undetermined, but an investigation has begun, Fire Chief Fred Wilkins said. Hospital records, the only ones in the community, were also lost in the fire.

Letterip

Dear Editor:

There appeared in Sunday's "Daily Nebraskan" a Letterip, signed by Charles Swan, in which he defined, for the elucidation of the student body, the purpose, aims, and benefits of the All-University Party. Mr. Swan's name is not found on the membership rolls of the All-University Party; nor is he a member of any fraternity on the campus. Where, then, does he find the authority to speak for the All-University Party, and how can he say that the University "can look for nothing from a faction-dominated campus government", when the platform and candidates of the All-University Party have not been announced? Obviously Mr. Swan speaks more from ignorance of the facts than from knowledge.

In the light of Mr. Swan's letter, one might assume that the Student Party aims only at wresting control of campus offices from the fraternities. In the first place, the number of independent students in campus offices proves that there is no faction "monopoly" of campus offices. In the second place, control of student offices is certainly no platform on which to base a "political" party. This platform has been used before and has met only with defeat.

There are other things more important than control of office. Look at the facts about the "Faction-dominated campus government." The Student Council, which would seem to be the focus of Mr. Swan's attack, has, in spite of being dominated by members of the faction, turned in the best record of any Student Council in recent times. These are some of its accomplishments:

The best possible solution of the University parking problem; the installation of the street light at 14th and "S"; the investigation of the high price of tickets to the Military Ball, in the interests of the average student's pocketbook; the solution of the Stadium seating problem; the handling of the displaced students project; and the defense of the rights of student government in the face of faculty opposition.

There are many more instances of worthy action taken by the Student Council, too numerous to mention within the space of this column.

These things the faction has already done. It will do more in the future. To what can the Student Party point in its defense?
