

Student 'Y' Offers Mexico Trip After Summer School Sessions

After summer school—Mexico! There's just enough time before school starts again to spend five weeks in Mexico. The student "Y" is taking advantage of this to offer two tours, one, Aug. 1 to Sept. 4, and the other, Aug. 11 to Sept. 13.

In each tour 16 students and faculty members will go in the travel truck—equipped with seats, bunks, closets, camping equipment, ice box and other conveniences—to see Monterrey, Guadalajara, Mexico City, Taxco, Cuernavaca and other historic places. Fees will be $235 from Los Angeles, $165 from Laredo, Texas, and $210 from Iowa City, Iowa.

FEATURES OF THE trip will be opportunities to brush up on conversational Spanish; one week of living in a private home in

Monday Meetings

Noble to Guide Sociology Group

Robert Noble will guide Alpha Kappa Delta, honorary sociology fraternity, during the coming school year.

Noble, a graduate sociology student, was named president of that organization at a business luncheon meeting May 3.

Other officers elected for next year are Vernon Merlan, vice-president and Eleanore Wiberg, secretary.

A report on the Midwest Sociological convention, held at Madison, Wis., last week, was given by Professor J. O. Hertzler.

Initiation of thirteen new members was held during the meeting. They are: Patricia Cheek, Doris Levenson, Geraldine Tubman, Jean Eckvall, Jean Soennichsen, Peggy Walter, Sally Ann Johnson, Mary Louise Callen, Robert L. Baker, E. Mott Davis, James H. Howard, Herman R. Kurth, Jr. and Robert C. Sorenson.

Retiring MB's, Innocents Boast Impressive Record

Thirty men and women who were this year's Innocents and Mortar Boards concluded a busy year Saturday when they revealed their choices of Juniors who will reign next year.

Of the seventeen Mortar Boards, three received the highest scholastic honor in the College of Arts and Sciences, membership in Phi Beta Kappa. They were Phyllis Harris, Marian McElhaney, and Barbara Speer. Phyllis Harris also ruled over the Military Ball as Honorary Colonel, while Marian McElhaney wielded the gavel at Pi Lambda Theta meetings.

Joan Farrar, the president of Mortar Board, was recognized at the Honors Convocation for Superior Scholarship, as was Lois Thorfinnson Mickle. Marian Crook helped guide the model UNESCO conference as a member of the steering committee, and Peggy Lawrie directed the activities of AUF during the year.

PUBLICATIONS saw three Mortar Boards in major positions during the year. Jeanne Kerrigan was editor of the Daily Nebraskan in the fall, Jane MacArthur was photography editor of the Cornhusker, and a managing editor of Corn Shucks was Nadine Anderson.

The scarlet robed Innocents had a busy year in activities too, with president Norm Leger serving as editor of the Daily Nebraskan in the Spring semester. Holding the money strings of the Nebraskan, Irv Chesen was business manager for the year.

Scholastic honors came to the Innocents, with Frank Loeffel as a member of Sigma Xi, Dale Ball receiving the Alpha Kappa Psi citizenship award, and Richard Schleusener being recognized for superior scholarship and a member of Sigma Xi. President of the Inter-fraternity council was Walter Dorothy.
