The whole plot of Wilbur Daniel Steele's story, "Luck," comes to a close when the crippled man plots his own murder so that someone else may receive the blame for the crime and suffer as he has suffered. The surprise result of the schemer's plan will bring suspense and excitement to all radio listeners.

Engineers Elect Wright President

The American Society of Mechanical Engineers, professional society, announced its new officers Wednesday. They are: Wilbur Wright, chairman; Merle Bergeson, vice-chairman; Gerald Halter, secretary; and Ted Cheavront, treasurer.

R. W. Devoe, University regent, and Chancellor Gustavson said the University is willing to accept the $8,000,000 general fund figure.

In a joint statement they said: "While the University had hoped for a larger sum, we will do the very best we can with this reduced figure. The University will do all within its power to see that consideration of its budget two years from now begins with a substantial agreement between the chief executive, the budget committee chairman and the University."

Session Also Approves Report Of Student-Faculty Committee

At the end of a three-hour session of heated debate on the provisions of the proposed student bill of rights, delegates to the Constitutional Assembly adjourned last night with two fifths of their task completed.

A student bill of rights was passed and the resolution of the student-faculty relations committee was accepted. The remaining work facing the delegates will be resumed tonight at 7:30 when the assembly is called to order in Burnett Hall.

The Bill of Rights, containing five provisions, was adopted at the close of a three-hour session. Briefly the measure provides for protection of the student against discrimination and the right to freedom of the press and speech. It provides for free and democratic elections, wholesome living conditions and protection against arbitrary action by the faculty or the Council to abridge rights.

Ag College Polls Open 9 to 5 Today

Spring elections will take place today on Ag campus.

They will proceed as usual with the exception of election of Student council members and Pub board members.

To be elected are the Ag Exec board, Farmers Fair board and Coll-Agri-Fun board. Polls will open at 9 a. m. in the Ag Union and will stay open until 5 p. m.

All students registered in Ag college are eligible to vote. Students are urged to exercise this privilege according to Lloyd Wirth, Ag elections chairman.

"SINCE THIS is the only election this spring at the University, students should especially feel the responsibility to vote," Wirth said. All elections on city campus were ousted by an action of the Faculty Committee on Student Organizations and Social Functions. The committee said that the form of campus student government needs to be changed and until a new idea of student government is formulated suggested that all student administrative duties will be handled by an interim council.

POSITIONS to be filled in today's election include: Ag Exec board—two seniors-at-large, two juniors and two sophomores; Farmers Fair board—three men, three women, all juniors; and Coll-Agri-Fun board—two men, one woman.

Members of the present Ag Exec board will officiate at the election booths in the Ag Union, along with this year's Ag college Student council representatives.

Results of the election will be printed in Friday's Daily Nebraskan.

Norman Beavers, candidate for Farmers Fair Board, was omitted from sample ballot Wednesday but is eligible for the post. His name will appear on the regular ballot at the polls.

Union to Elect Board Members

The Student Union board will elect five new members at their meeting tonight.

The five persons, one senior and four juniors, will serve the city campus Union. The entire board of managers is composed of 21 persons. Twelve of these are students.

Eight students function on the city campus board, while four serve at Ag.

Senior candidates are Robert Johnson, Lee Best, Bob Axtell, Pat Bussey and Sally Sipple. Juniors are Bob Mosher, Herb Reese, Marcia Pratt, David Slusher, Al Tully, Olive Gettman, Janet Kahn and Gene Dyer.

The new board members will be announced at the mass meeting for Union committees May 17.

Exam Schedule
The examination schedule which appears in today's Daily Nebraskan and the schedule which appeared in yesterday's paper are correct. All exams will be given at the times indicated on these two schedules.

Most of the discussion on the bill centered around part of a section one which reads "the right of each student, regardless of race, color, creed, nationality national origin or sex to be protected from discrimination in all phases of University life."

Inter-fraternity Council delegates charged that the provision was ambiguous in that it did not state how these rights would be protected or what they constituted. A motion by Don Stern to amend the section to exclude social fraternities and religious groups from its provisions was defeated.

A measure such as this offers an opportunity to "create a situation which does not exist," said Pat Larsen, Pan-Hellenic delegate. We have no discrimination problem now and it would be aggravated by such a measure, she contended.

"The Student Council will strive to protect the rights listed in the bill. Because the right is present does not mean that the Council will take steps to enforce it unless the issue arises," Don Flesher, retorted.

"We all agree that discrimination is wrong but people in Greek letter organizations are trying to

Lambert Gives Tips on Jobs At Ag Convo

"As you go higher and higher in your field of endeavor, you are going to find it more necessary to work with your fellow man; this is a very essential factor in getting a complete education."

So said Dean W. V. Lambert to Ag college students attending the annual Alpha Zeta convocation Wednesday.

Dean Lambert stressed the development of personality as one of the key stones of the "Considerations-When Choosing a Career," his topic. Lambert also stated that the willingness to work hard was an equal "key stone."

"Too many people want too much for too little; we must learn to give and take," he said.

"A good smile goes a long way in this world, even if you should not feel like smiling," Lambert said.

Ambition is necessary for success as "the modern world is coming more and more into teamwork all the time, therefore we must learn to work as a part of that team."

"We must take an active part in all activities of the community aside from our job," said the Dean of Ag., and above all, "do not take yourself too seriously. If the world looks blue, get out and look around, because it may be you and not the world that is blue." Along with this, health is a necessity for a successful career. "Develop a hobby if possible," he said.
