

Student Council Death Warrant . . .

DR. CURTIS ELLIOTT, student council faculty advisor, speaks at the final meeting of the Student Council. The Council disbanded until a new constitution could be drawn up to insure more satisfactory student government. The death of the Council led to the Constitutional Assembly which drew up a new plan of government.

LAYING PRELIMINARY plans for the now-completed Constitutional Assembly are members of the steering committee. These nine people spent nearly a month working out the details which made the Assembly possible. The luncheon meeting is typical of the way these busy people squeezed Assembly work into an already over-loaded schedule. From left to right they are: Jan Lindquist, Phyd Cadwallader, Laverna Acker, Ted Sorenson, Bob Wallace, Bill Plank, Verneil Lindquist, Audrey Rosenbaum, and Rod Lindwall. Wallace served as temporary chairman. Sorenson was elected permanent chairman.

and her presidency of Omicron Nu.

But she's found plenty of time for other things. Out at Ag, her name appears on nearly every ballot. It always appears on the slate of winners, too. A former member of Home Ec club and YW cabinets, the secretaryship of Ag Exec Board and Farmer's Fair board complete her Ag activities.

The city campus hasn't been neglected by Louise either. Work at the Daily Nebraskan has earned her the post of news editor, Corresponding secretary of this year's Student Council, proof of a job well done, came with her election to the Interim Council. Louise will serve as vice-president of that group.

But it isn't all hard work and brains that make Louise "tick." The campus acclaimed her Nebraska Sweetheart at last fall's Kosmet Klub revue.

With the treasurership of Chi Omega on her record, one of this year's most prominent juniors will become one of next year's busiest seniors.

THREE YEARS of college life hasn't been wasted by Phylis Cadwallader, another top junior woman.

Most of those three years have been spent in or near Ellen Smith hall, home of the Y. Starting her career in Y as a freshman, Phyd served as treasurer at the sophomore levels. Now a member of Y cabinet, she is co-chairman of all state YM-YW activities.

Y has taken up a lot of time, but not quite all of it. The Student Foundation used to see a good deal of Phyd when she was dent Council comes in for the at-a member of the board. Now Stu-

As co-chairman of the displaced persons committee, Phyd has worked hard to bring foreign students to the campus.

She will continue to serve in campus government on the Interim Council.

A major in English doesn't keep Phyd from taking plenty of courses in foreign languages or from membership in Phi Sigma Iota, language honorary.

With Gamma Phi Beta Iota, language honorary.

With Gamma Phi Beta books to keep, Phyd earns her rank of outstanding junior woman.

FROM THE Cornhusker to the third-floor Builders office is an exhausting dash for top junior, Jeannie Sampson. But she takes it in her stride as she does the rest of her responsibilities as a campus leader.

The managing editor of the 1949

Cornhusker found that getting out the book is no small task, especially when it involves heading another major campus organization.

Jeannie entered the University and the Cornhusker office at the same time. Builders, then the Student Foundation, didn't have to wait for her.

Outstanding work in both of these was recognized in her sophomore year when she was appointed to the Cornhusker staff and elected secretary of the Student Foundation. Her second year also brought membership in Tassels.

Jeannie leaves the Cornhusker staff next year to devote all her energies to being president of Builders. But that won't be all. Mortar Board meetings of which she is a newly elected member, will take time too.

Then, of course, there's work at the house, Pi Beta Phi. But none of this will daunt Jeannie Sampson who has already proved efficiency and leadership qualities which make her an outstanding junior woman.

Review . . .

Miller the poet. Clare Denton was re-elected Masquers prexy.

Betty Aasen reigned as May Queen as Merle Stalder and Marcia Tepperman were chosen Innocent and M.B. prexy's. The Phi Psis won the activities award followed by the ATOs. Jack Schirmer and Al Abramson were picked by Pub Board to head Corn Shucks; John Connelly and Bud Gerhart for the yearbook. The University suffered a two-million cut meaning a possible lack of recognition for Med school. Representation in Interim Council revealed. Union Board named.

THUS, ANOTHER year ended—a weird year with double the number of weird happenings. Whether called good or bad it still can be said that it was "quite a year."

Alpha Phi Omega Elects Elwood

Harry Elwood will lead Alpha Phi Omega for the coming semester. At their election of officers Thursday, the national service fraternity also elected the following to complete the executive council:

Senior vice president, E. John Peterson; executive vice president, Ed Maunder; secretary, Nolan Jones; treasurer, Frank Jacobs; historian, Gordon Heber; alumni secretary, Charles Irwin; and sergeant-at-arms, Tom Stiehl.
