

All-State Fine Arts Course Holds First Classes Today

For three weeks, June 9 to 30, 250 music, art and speech enthusiasts from high schools all over the state assembled on the university campus for instruction and practice under the guidance of members of the university faculty.

This year a new course was added—art. Classes in drawing, painting, sculpture and design will be offered for the first time, and the art studios and exhibits will be opened to the All-state art students. A special exhibit of the work done by the students during the course will be held at the end of the term.

David Foltz, associate professor of music, will direct the three-week course.

The boys and girls will become acquainted with each other and the university at the Student Union Open House and a special All-State sight-seeing tour, June 11. The All-Staters will be entertained during their stay by a performance by the Guardsmen quartet, June 14, and recitals by university music students and graduates.

Time-out from their artistic pursuits will be taken for the hay-rack ride and party, June 18, the annual All-State party, June 18, and an afternoon picnic, June 25.

LARGEST OF the three interest groups will be the 150 music students. Seventeen members of the university faculty will instruct the group. They are, piano instructors, Earnest Harrison, John Blyth, and Charma Davies; violin instructors, Emanuel Wishnow and Arthur Murphy; cello teacher, Carol Puckett; voice instructors, J. Dayton Smith, Kathryn Dean, Dale Ganz, John Whaley, Arthur Westbrook and David Foltz. Myron Roberts will give organ instructions, and Robert Stepp and John Snider will supervise the brass and percussion sections. Woodwind teachers are: Donald Lentz and Lowell Fredrickson; Arthur Murphy, theory instructor; Robert Stepp, band supervisor; Emanuel Wishnow, orchestra director and J. Dayton Smith, Arthur Westbrook, and David Foltz choral directors.

The speech and dramatic art course includes dramatics, debate and discussion, radio, choric reading, original speaking, and interpretative reading courses. The faculty supervisors are: Maxine Trauernicht, John Olson, Max Whittaker, and Robert Black.

THE FINE Art Clinic will end with concerts and displays of talent of individuals and groups. The All-State orchestra will give its concert on the afternoon of June 26. The large All-State chorus will perform June 24, and the band concert will be held June 28. Several one-act plays will be presented by the drama students, June 27.

The speech students will conclude classes with a series of debates, June 28.

During the three-week clinic the girls will live in the Sigma Kappa, Kappa Kappa Gamma, Kappa Delta and Sigma Delta Tau sorority houses and the Terrace Hall dormitory. Then men stayed at the Phi Gamma Delta fraternity house and the men's dormitory.

Summer Rag Begins With Today's Issue

The Rag is back! The summer edition of the Daily Nebraskan, which begins with this issue will be published twice each week.

The editorial staff of the paper will be headed by M. J. Melick. Norm Leger will act as managing editor. Rod Riggs will handle sports and Emily Heine will complete the paper's staff. Miss Melick has served for two semesters on the regular edition of the paper.

Leger is a former Nebraskan editor. Riggs worked last semester as a Daily Nebraskan reporter, while Miss Heine served as feature editor.

SUMMER BUSINESS will be handled by Keith O'Bannon. A business assistant for the past two years, O'Bannon will continue to hold the business manager's post next fall.

O'Bannon will also be in charge of summer circulation. All organized houses which will be open for summer school students are asked to contact him at The Nebraskan office. Each house should inform the circulation department of its address and the number of students it will house so that deliveries can be made.

The Nebraskan will be published on Tuesday and Friday morning of each week. Copies will be available in the principle buildings on campus as well as at organized houses.

The Nebraskan will continue to carry its "Bulletin Board" for announcements of meetings as well as a classified section.

Catholic Services . . .

Beginning Sunday, June 12, and continuing through the summer session, Catholics may attend mass at 9:30 a. m. each week in parlors XYZ of the Union. Newman Club offices will be open during the summer, according to Father Shuster.

Red Cross to Sponsor Summer Entertainment Program at Vets

Entertainment units at the Veterans hospital will be sponsored by the Red Cross College Unit throughout the summer.

Jean Bay will act as chairman of the summer program, which will include weekly ward parties three auditorium shows, and special events at the hospital.

COLLEGE UNIT president Audrey Rosenbaum today announced the formation of the summer unit and the appointment of Miss Bay as chairman. The Red Cross group, according to Miss Bay, will continue activities of the Unit carried on this year at the VA hospital. Highlights of the program were an Easter Parade party, a quiz show, distribution of Corn Shucks and Christmas and Valentine cards, by the Beauty Queens, and the weekly ward parties. Some three hundred students took part in the entertainment program.

All summer school and Lincoln students who would like to take part in the Red Cross summer unit are asked to contact Miss Bay by Friday. Her phone number is 2-5853; her address is 1340 J.

BECAUSE OF the variety of entertainment opportunities, Miss Bay today urged anyone who is interested to contact her — "there'll be something for everyone to do," she said.

"Our activities will call for girls to play cards, to decorate wards, to play ping pong, and a number of such things, in addition to anyone with any special talent, from singing to running back-stage lights," Miss Bay commented.

The summer program will get underway "about June 15" announced Miss Bay. She reminded students to contact her by Friday so that the group could make their arrangements for that date.
