

PROFESSOR WEEDYBOTTOM, HELL! I'M A FRESHMAN!

Teachers College Sponsors Series of Three Ed Forums

The first in a series of three teacher's college clinics will be held Thursday, June 23 in Love Library auditorium. The clinics, according to Walter K. Beggs, professor of school administration and chairman of the clinics, will take the form of a "town meeting." They will begin with discussions of the subject to be dealt with by experts in the fields and then the floor will be open for debate. The theme of the first clinic will be "The Role of Higher Education—Laymen and Educators Look at Its Implications." The subject will be discussed by representatives from labor, industry and education.

THE SCHEDULE for the afternoon session includes a talk by Kenneth Lewis, head of the Central Labor union in Nebraska. Lewis will speak on the role of higher education as it relates to labor.

Higher education and its effect on industry will be explained by W. A. Dakan, assistant manager of the Nebraska Salesbook Co. Dakan will also speak at the afternoon session.

In the evening the clinic will move to parlors A and B of the Union, where Dean Henzlik, of Teacher's college, will present the educators' point of view.

Altho the forums are primarily designed for Teacher's College students, they are not restricted to these people. Exact times for all sessions will be posted in Teachers' college.

Ag College Holds Vets Instruction

The veteran instructors training program which closed Friday at the College of Agriculture involved some 110 persons.

The participants, county extension agents and vocational ag instructors, took an intensified course in agricultural training. They came from the 170 centers set-up in Nebraska by the veterans administration and the College of Agriculture.

The overall program is designed to give help and training to veterans now engaged in farming. The materials for the courses are supplied by Ag College. Instructors are trained at Ag.

THE WOULD-BE instructors learn their jobs by teaching other members of the group. At present there are 235 such vet instructors in Nebraska. These men are training some 4000 vets. The number will be increased July 1 when 40 new training centers are established.

The week's instruction program which just closed was under the direction of C. E. Rhoad of the College of Agriculture and Stuart Woods, veterans' supervisor for the state.

Golfer Muffs . . .

AMES, Ia., June 18.—Abe Stuber can't blame anyone but himself now for muffing a chance to make good—as a golf coach!

Brutus Hamilton, athletic director at the University of California, and a fraternity brother of Abe's at the University of Missouri, gave Stuber the chance last week.

The California golf team will compete in the NCAA golf meet at Iowa State June 27-July 2. The Bears are traveling without a coach. Hamilton wrote Abe:

"Effective June 23 you have been named golf coach at the University of California. Meet your team at Madrid as of that date."

Stuber will be on vacation at the time.

IOWA STATE will close its golf course to public play during the nine days of the 52nd annual NCAA golf tournament, it was announced today by Louis Menze, director of athletics.

Menze said the course would be closed during the final two days of practice rounds and for the week of play. From June 24 through July 2 no one but the N.C.A.A. golfers will be on the course.

Sellin Leaves For Finland

We're coming over!

We, in the form of American students from Maine to California, are taking off for the Scandinavian countries to spend the summer under the Farm Youth Exchange program.

One of these students is Duane Sellin, Ag College senior. He will work and live for three months in a Finnish farm home. During this time he will learn about Finland's people first hand.

Sellin was chosen by the Ag College faculty to make the trip. Last year Helen Oschner, also of Ag College, lived with a family in Sweden.

Sellin is a member of Alpha Gamma Rho.

COLLEGE-BRED is a 4-year-loaf made with father's dough.

A COLLEGE CHEER is a check from home.

Duane Sellin leaves Lincoln for a summer in Finland with the International Youth Exchange. On his left is Nathan Gold, who is financing the trip and Harry Gould of the University extension division.
