

MORRIS GIVES OUTLINE—Freshman pepsters look on as Jerry Morris, band member, explains the workings of the card section during the rally for the new group Wednesday night. A series of moving displays has been devised by the band which promises to add to the half-time entertainment.

Varsity Yell Squad Revises Words and Actions for Cheers

Student enthusiasm in yells and songs will play a big part in spiring the varsity squad Saturday, and Yell King Piccolo has asked students give their cooperation in the cheering section. Piccolo and the yell squad have revised many Nebraska yells and songs and their actions this season and have worked with the new freshman pep section, so that the East Stadium should show signs of organized cheering Saturday.

In order to facilitate those who are not familiar with Cornhusker yells and songs, a few of the more important are listed below. "Practice them at the rally tonight," says Piccolo.

SONGS

Rally Huskers
Rally Huskers, rally one and all.
Rally Huskers, hear Nebraska's call
Fight, forever, on you team
For the scarlet and the cream
Go gang go.

Rally Huskers, glory waits for you
Rally Huskers, see what you can do,
Listen to that battle cry,
Of Nebraska U-N-I.

Fight Fight

Fight, fight, sons of old NU
As we march to meet the foe
We'll fight fight sons of old NU
And forward, forward we'll go
Oh fight, fight, on to victory
Shaking thunder from the skies
We're the loyal sons of Huskerland

From Dear Old Nebraska.

YELLS

Sky Rocket
Huskers—slowly
clap clap clap clap (start slowly)
clap clap clap clap
clap clap clap clap
clap clap clap clap
(whistle)
BOOM!

Fight!

Chant
(First part sung in low pitched voice with band)
U-Rah, N-Rah, U-N-I
U Varsity, N Varsity,
Neebraski, Neebraski, Neebraski!
(Second part yelled loudly and fast without band)
U! U! U-N-I
Ver! Ver! Ver-Si-Ty
N-E-Braski Ooooooh My

$32,976 to NU Colleges For Research

$32,976 in grants have been given to the University of Nebraska for research work, Dean R. W. Goss of the Graduate college announced.

Dr. Theodore Jorgensen, Jr., of the Physics department received $10,000 from the Atomic Energy commission. His work will attempt to explain why and how fast slow-moving energy particles project through space.

Grants of $8,500 were given to Dr. Walter E. Miltzer, chemist, and Dr. Carl George, bacteriologist, by the United States Public Health department. These grants are for the study of enzymes of bacteria which live at high temperatures.

Dr. Carl Olson, Jr., animal pathologist, received a grant of $9,476 for experimental work in his field.

Dr. Donald T. Waggener said the College of Dentistry, of which he is a department head, has a grant of $5,000 as part of the United States Public Health service's national campaign against cancer of the mouth and adjacent areas.

Four Faculty Heads Retire From Staff

Four faculty members have retired from long service at the University of Nebraska. Other departmental shakeups were announced for the school year.

Retiring Dean Emeritus O. J. Ferguson, '03, of the College of Engineering, who has been on the Nebraska faculty since 1912, is to have the new Electrical Engineering Building named after him. Another retiring member is Dr. Nels A. Bengston, '07, former chairman of the Geography Department.

Dr. R. J. Pool.

Dr. R. J. Pool, '07, former head of the Department of Botany, retired from that position a year ago because of ill health but had stayed on the staff as professor. Both he and Dr. H. C. Filley, '03, rural economist, who has received distinction for his writing on Rural Economy, are also retiring.

Other resignations are Miss Clara Craig, '03, reference librarian, and Dr. A. H. Schmidt, '20, of the College of Dentistry.

Eight New Heads.

There is to be a new dean and eight new department heads this fall. Dr. Edmund O. Belsheim is the incoming Dean of Law College. Dr. Clyde Mitchell is now the new chairman of the Department of Rural Economics.

Dr. Oscar H. Werner has been appointed chairman of the history and principles of education department. Dr. Galen Saylor becomes the new chairman of the department of secondary education.

Lincoln Choir Enters 30th Year This Fall

Lincoln Cathedral choir, made up of singers from the campuses of Lincoln colleges, will enter its thirtieth year this fall.

Tryouts have been held since the opening of fall classes, and the roll is nearly full, but there are still openings for voices of all ranges, according to J. M. Rosborough, organizer of the choir 30 years ago, and still director. Fall rehearsals will begin the first of October.

The program of the choir has always consisted of the music of the world's great cathedrals, in the unaccompanied style. Rosborough became interested in this type of music while he was studying in London, Berlin and Paris.

During its 30 years of existence, the choir has gained a national reputation, having appeared in New York three times and in some of America's most beautiful cathedrals enroute. The program of this year's appearances for the choir will be announced soon.

The three weekly rehearsals, held in the Emanuel Methodist church at 15th and U streets, are arranged so as to take a minimum of time from study and not conflict with classes.

Turnbull Joins Staff of School Of Journalism

George S. Turnbull, visiting lecturer, will be a staff member of the School of Journalism this year.

Dean Turnbull, who was dean emeritus of the University of Oregon school of journalism, retired in 1948 after thirty years on the faculty. He has been visiting professor at Stanford University for the past year.

Born in England, Mr. Turnbull came to the United States and attended the University of Washington where he received A.B. and M.A. degrees. He served as reporter, copy reader and editor of several newspapers in Tacoma and Seattle, before joining the University of Oregon faculty in 1917. Since then he has spent a number of summers as copyreader for newspapers in Portland and San Francisco.

Dean Turnbull is the author of "The History of Oregon Newspapers," an exhaustive study of state journalism. He is married and has a son and daughter currently students at the University of Oregon.
