

Cornhuskers Open Season Against SoDaks Saturday

Boasting a veteran team of 21 lettermen, the South Dakota Coyotes invade Memorial Stadium this Saturday.

The South Dakota game is the first of the heavy schedule for the Nebraska Cornhuskers and the second for South Dakota.

Coach Harry Gramage's squad of 35 men are near top physical shape following their 33-13 loss to Montana. Only one player will miss the Nebraska game Saturday because of injuries. Stan Rhinehard, promising sophomore guard, from Sioux City, Ia., suffered a sprained ankle last Saturday.

With Del Wiegand, Kenny Fischer, and Fran Nagle boosting Cornhusker hopes in the aerial department, the game should provide plenty of thrills for the 30 thousand fans expected to attend.

South Dakota also boasts a passing attack, led by Charlie Cook and Carl Andre, who could be thorns in the side of Nebraska's short backs. Andre, who looked very impressive in the Montana game, will handle the quarterback slot vacated by Jack Van Arsdale. Van Arsdale was shifted from quarterback to left halfback to put more scoring punch into the offense.

Coach Gramage will probably field a team that averages 193 pounds against the Husker varsity average of 186. The South Dakota line weighs 198, one pound shy of the Scarlet average. In the backfield, it's a different story, as the Coyotes tip the scales at 188 and the Cornhuskers, 178.

Wednesday afternoon ended the pre-game contact chores since Coach Bill Glassford was taking no chances of having injuries riddle his rapidly thinning squad.

Harry Meginnis, fleet back, on the sidelines this week with a stiff neck, is expected to see action Saturday. Those who will definitely be out are veteran Bob Schneider, Dick Regier, Cecil Voils and Maxey Vestal. Tackle

Is My Time Your Time?

Appalled at the scholastic standing of the University of Nebraska, one faculty member recently made the statement that at least three hours should be spent in preparation for each credit hour.

While this amount of preparation may not seem to be very much, an introspection of the above statement reveals some startling information.

The average number of credit hours carried by the average Nebraskan is around 16. There are exactly 168 total hours in a week. If 48 (3 times 16) is spent in studying, 16 is spent in going to class, 56 in sleeping (allowing the needed 8 hours per night) the total remainder of hours is 48.

Eating will occupy approximately 14, church on Sunday 2, labs about 3; football games and rallies, which every red-blooded Cornhusker should attend, will take up at least 5. The remainder is now 24.

Most of the students have jobs occupying 19 hours a week. Three-hour meetings at the house or church group will cut 4 hours from the total down to one hour. This is the hour that it takes you to walk to and from class.

If we are to follow the well-meant advice of the faculty member, there will be no time for coke dates, letters home, bridge sessions, trips to Don's, or anything else for that matter.

What is this thing called college?

Baseball Squad Holding First Fall Practice

Coach Tony Sharpe, University of Nebraska baseball coach, started the first fall baseball practice in the school's history on Tuesday, September 20.

Twenty-six men are out at the present time. Several late additions will swell the number to 35 or 40 men. This number excludes all Varsity "N" Men.

Coach Sharpe hopes that this fall practice will give him a chance to work with the men on fundamentals and determine what boys are varsity material.

Following is a list of the men now out for practice. Fellows with a star in front of their name won freshman numerals in baseball last year. Name and home town respectively.

Concessions Help Athletes Pay Way

Football fans who purchase concessions at the University of Nebraska stadium this season will be helping athletes pay for tuition, books and other expenses incident to an education.

The Department of Intercollegiate Athletics has taken over the concession sales this year. All profits go to the athletes.

Sandwiches, coffee, and soft drinks will be available before and during each game for those who do not have time to get lunch before the contest. Concession stands in both concourses have been enlarged to better accommodate patrons. Hot coffee will be sold in the stands for the first time.

A new type of back rest, selling for 25 cents, will be available. It provides all the comforts of the old rocking chair. Popcorn, fresh from machines installed beneath the East Stadium, will be sold.

Each salesman will wear a numbered button. Prices established for the various items are as follows:

- Programs 25c
- Back rests 25c
- Sandwiches 20c
- Popcorn 10c
- Soft drinks 10c
- Candy Bars 10c
- Ice Cream 10c
- Coffee 10c
- Apples 10c

K-Staters Scalp Frosh

The strange looking bunch of shorn freshman running about on the campus of K-State didn't escape from a wild Apache Indian tribe. They're frosh footballers indoctrinated to the K-State customs.

Kansas State athletes have promised to do two things—shave the heads of all the frosh team members and win a conference football game.

Tennis Courts Open

The grass-tex tennis courts, adjacent to the Coliseum, are open each even from six to ten, Monday through Friday. On Saturdays of home football games, the courts will be open from nine to twelve. On those Saturdays when the team is away, they will be open from one to five.

All students who wish to use the courts must have their I. D. cards for admission and wear absolutely smooth shoes.

Swimming Pool Open

University swimming pool open now, 3:45-6:00 p.m. daily to all men students. Swim permits from student health required. Use pool to practice for IM swim meet, first or second week of November. Free lessons in competitive swimming by Hollie Lepley, varsity swim coach, given Monday, Wednesday, and Friday at 4 p. m.
